HALF MILLION IN KENTUCKY NEED AID THIS WINTER

Drinking Water Is Scarce.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—From the Ohio river to the Cumberland, from the Mississippi to Forsaken Willow and Caney Fork in the eastern mountains, Kentucky is prostrate under the effects of the worst drought since 1838, preceding crop failures, unemployment, delinquent taxes, and bank collapses.

Cattle are starving. Drinking water has given out in many places and the typhoid rate is increasing. How many thousands are cold and hungry, with no food in sight, can only be guessed, for the hill people especially are too far away and unable or unwilling to make their wants known.

Red Cross Aids 28,700.

Within the last two weeks the applications for help have increased 50 per cent and local Red Cross chapters, with some aid from the national body, are now caring for 28,700 persons. Local resources, with the exception of a few counties, are exhausted and millions must be sent in here from some source to keep the people alive during the rest of the winter and start them on the road to rehabilitation.

Last July Dr. A. T. McCormack, state health officer, made a survey of 64 counties. He found conditions so deplorable from a health standpoint that he estimated that one-fifth of the population, or 500,000 persons, would need help during the winter.

Nobody would believe him. The state drought board made another survey in September and found the board of health estimate being borne out. Now even the Red Cross workers admit that it may be approximately true. One of these, in a visit up one creek bed in the hills, found thirty cabins with no fires going because there was nothing to cook.

Quiet About Its Troubles.

Kentucky has been quiet about its misery. There has been little in the newspapers about it. It is only recently that the full extent of the disaster has begun to be realized. Conditions are as bad or worse here than in Arkansas. The story comes in painfully written scrawls, addressed to Gov. Flem D. Sampson, and sent on by him to the state drought board, which he created. This in turn sent the appeals to the Red Cross, which stimulated local chapters and said it had money to meet all needs.

The reports from agricultural agents, county judges, and other sources became so voluminous and insistent that soon after the Red Cross asked for an additional ten million dollars and began to send in cash grants. Headquarters for the state, which had been removed to Washington, are now being reopened here under a director who arrived today. On Jan. 2 the state health board reports show that only 8 out of 64 counties were receiving Red Cross aid, and only for a few families.

Estimate Need at Millions.

Both Richard Scearce, secretary of the state drought board, and Dr. P. E. Blackerby, assistant state health officer, say that the seriousness of the Kentucky situation can hardly be overestimated and that it is a case for national relief. Dr. McCormack has gone to Washington for this purpose.

"It will require $10,000,000 on liberal credit terms for 50,000 farmers to put in their crops this year," said Mr. Scearce. "I am afraid the ones who need it will not get it. The Red Cross spent $30,000 in rye and other seed here last June, but the drought has continued and this was a failure. The crop damage since July, when even the blue grass was burned up, is $100,000,000. We estimate that 20 per cent of the dairy cattle, 33 per cent beef, 18 per cent hogs, and 19 per cent sheep will be lost."

Creek beds that were never dry before are dry now. The rainfall belt from southwest to northeast shows from 40 to 50 per cent of normal.

Haul Water in Tank Cars.

Shelbyville has been hauling water in milk cars. Richmond is just beginning to do this. In Lexington an emergency line has been built to the Kentucky river. Small towns are supplied by trucks. Drinking water is rationed.

Dr. L. E. Smith, assistant health officer, who has spent many years in the mountains as a missionary, reported, on a recent visit to Breathitt county, which is famous as one place where there were no draft soldiers during the world war, everybody able to go had volunteered.

"They are hit in three ways," said Dr. Smith. "The men helped put in

It's Peculiar, the Ways of These Chinese

Which I wish to remark—
And my language is plain—
That for ways that are dark,
And for tricks that are vain,

A couple of joss sticks sputtered last night before the old Hong Ming Lak's complacent little Buddha, sitting with legs crossed tailor fashion in front of his miniature temple. At the crook of his knees stood the votive offering of samshu wine and rice and lichi nuts.

The Buddha occupied the top of a rickety teakwood table in a corner of the rear room at 216 West 22d street, where Hong Ming Lak, 65 years old, lived. In the front was his grocery, where you might choose jerked pork, dried sea slugs, roots of lotus lily, and imported tea.

Long in Neighborhood.

Hong Ming Lak had been there as long as the neighbors could remember. They liked him, but they couldn't understand him. He seemed to be unable to become Americanized. He would sit for hours in his shop studying a flower, and of a pleasant summer evening he would carry his bird cage, with the canary in it, suspended from the end of a short stick, for a walk around the block. Often, he would pause to listen with rapture to its song. "A nut," the neighbors said.

Old Hong Ming Lak pursued his quiet way, except that last week, when the canary suddenly began to moult, then to droop, then to refuse food, he began burning joss sticks and setting votive offerings before the little Buddha.

Police Break in Door.

Yesterday, the door of the grocery remained locked and when a friend, becoming alarmed, notified the police, and they crashed the door, they found the canary lying dead on the bottom of its cage, which rested on a stand at the head of old Hong Ming Lak's bed. Old Hong Ming Lak himself lay on the bed, asleep, it seemed to the police, until they lifted his mandarin jacket and found a bullet wound through his heart.

Peculiar, these heathen Chinee.

Maj. Gen. Edwards Suffers Relapse; Condition Grave

Boston, Mass., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, wartime commander of the 26th (Yankee) division, who underwent an emergency operation at the Phillips house on Thursday, suffered a relapse tonight and his physicians announced "the outlook is not favorable."

A. C. BAUR, HEAD OF INVESTMENT CO., KILLS SELF

Adelbert C. Baur, 31 years old, head of A. C. Baur & Co., brokers, shot and killed himself yesterday in his apartment at 180 East Delaware place. His wife, Martha, alarmed because he failed to awaken her, as was his custom, went to his bedroom and found him dead in bed with a pistol beside him.

Mr. and Mrs. Baur attended a theater Saturday night and Mrs. Baur said her husband had not appeared unusually depressed when he retired. She said, however, that he had been despondent for several days and two weeks ago had brought home the pistol.

Dr. Emil F. Baur, 2536 Smalley court, father of the broker, said he believed his son had suffered a nervous breakdown from worry and overwork. Dr. Baur said his son had no domestic or financial worries, but had been depressed about the reorganization of his company, which was to have taken place Feb. 1.

R. Arthur Wood, president of the Chicago Stock Exchange, in a statement last night explained that George E. Barnes, one of Mr. Baur's partners, had contemplated leaving the company to form a new partnership. Mr. Wood said that at a conference with Mr. Barnes and Arch C. Doty, another partner, it had been determined that the affairs of A. C. Baur & Co. were in sound condition. The fourth partner, George E. Hachtmann, has been in Havana and is returning immediately to Chicago, Mr. Wood said.

Baur was graduated from the University of Illinois in 1923. He organized A. C. Baur & Co. in 1928.

BANDIT SHOOTS AND RESHOOTS HOLDUP VICTIM

A lone robber, believed crazed either by drugs or moonshine, early this morning held up William J. Van Schaik, 25 years old, as he was driving in his automobile near 59th and South Sangamon street, shot him in the left arm, and then forced him to ride with him to 61st and South Peoria streets, where Van Schaik was thrown out of the car.

As Van Schaik stood in the middle of the street and called for help the robber drove the car back around the block, stopped, and fired more shots, one of which passed through Van Schaik's neck, causing what may be a fatal wound. The second bullet crashed through the door of an apartment building at 907 West 61st street.

At Englewood hospital Van Schaik said he was a salesman employed by the Inland Trading company of Hammond. He said the robber got $9 from him. Van Schaik lives at 55 East 110th place.

Bank Robbers Return to Get Loot; Captured

Eight policemen under Chief J. M. Cleveland of Oak Lawn crouched behind shrubbery early yesterday morning in vigil about a willow tree on the banks of a creek in Oak Lawn.

The vigil had begun at midnight. Six hours before the tree had yielded $3,479 taken by three robbers in a holdup of the Oak Lawn Trust and Savings bank, 5310 West 95th street, Oak Lawn. The bandits entered the bank when Cashier J. L. Brummerstedt and his assistant, V. D. Priesenberg, were about to close.

Fire on Policeman.

At the sharp command of the robbers, the officials turned over the money in their cages. As the bandits ordered the two to open the vault, Sergt. Fred O'Brien passed the bank. Without warning one of the bandits fired at O'Brien, wounding him in the scalp.

O'Brien returned the fire. The bandits fled. Fred Behrend, 22 years old, son of a former president of the bank, who is employed near the bank, heard the firing and joined the chase with his revolver. He saw the bandits stop beside the willow. After the bandits escaped he returned to the tree and found the money hidden in a crotch shoulder high.

Chief Cleveland reasoned that the bandits would return. He ordered the watch. At 2 o'clock his foresight was rewarded. An automobile drew up on the road abreast of the tree. The watchers drew their guns. A man left the car and walked to the tree, reaching for the crotch. The posse charged.

Caught as Auto Overturns.

The man fled to the car and drove off with his companion. Police gave chase in two autos. The fugitives were captured when their car overturned in making a turn at 53d street and the Southwest highway. The captured men said they were Louis Kasper, 35 years old, 2124 West 24th street, and John Bartz, 39 years old, 3525 South Kedzie avenue.

They were identified by witnesses of the robbery at the detective bureau yesterday afternoon. Kasper said he was released on parole from Joliet penitentiary Dec. 15 on a charge of robbery. Bartz said that he had been paroled on the same charge in 1925. They made no confessions.

Lieut. Edward Weber and a squad of county highway police captured a man, believed to be the third bank robber, shortly after the holdup on 95th street. He gave his name as Theodore Knapp, 6125 Kenmore avenue. He confessed that he was driving a stolen car but denied a part in the robbery.

HOOVER LEARNS EDITORS' VIEWS ON HIS POLICIES

Daily Reports Sum Up Opinion.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—President Hoover's latest engineering accomplishment is now functioning at top speed turning out daily answers to such important questions as what does the public think of the Hoover administration, the world court, national defense, drought relief, and the various phases of prohibition.

Applying his engineering knowledge to the problem of finding a way to chart out in graphic form the trend of national public opinion, the President has set up an organization that takes a daily poll of the editorial views expressed by the leading editorial writers of 1,500 newspapers representing every section of the United States.

Reactions Reported Daily.

Through the use of the machinery of this organization the reactions of the public mind to the policies of the administration are brought daily to the desks of President Hoover and members of his cabinet with the scientific exactitude of a statistical report. These reports, marked confidential in large type, show graphically the exact number of newspapers for and against each public question discussed in the editorial columns of the press.

Within four days after the President submitted the world court to the senate, the White House organization for distilling public opinion had laid before the President the exact number of newspapers which had approved the court editorially and his action in sending it to the senate for ratification. The newspapers unfavorable to the court also were shown in an adjoining column. The names of all newspapers represented, together with their circulation, locality and politics, is indicated.

Keeps Well Informed.

Students of political government assert that not since the beginning of the government has so much White House energy, time and attention been applied in so scientific a manner to the single task of ascertaining public opinion from the national press. The result is that no Republican or Democratic administration in the past has been so well informed as to just what the man in the street thinks of the government officials in power and the activities of the various governmental branches, executive, judicial and legislative.

Previous executives have kept in touch with the domestic press through the press clipping agencies and the "yellow journal" which was prepared from these clippings by the White House staff. Usually the major part of this journal was filled with clippings from eastern newspapers, and only a comparatively few were represented.

Used in Several Ways.

Personally the President uses the information reports to supplement the information he receives from his cabinet, from callers and the White House mail. In some cases, it is said, the reports are used as a guide in administrative action. In other cases the President uses the information gleaned from the reports as an argument in his dealings with individual members of congress.

The President's voracious appetite for scientific facts, coupled with the results of a survey which showed that some executive departments depended on but three newspapers for enlightenment as to the public's viewpoint, led to the establishment of the present informative organization.

The White House information service consists of three major cogs, two privately financed and one operated by government officials. The first is labeled the Press Clipping Service. It is located in a private building about three blocks from the President's executive office. This service subscribes to 1,500 newspapers, 700 of them printed daily.

Circulation of 14,000,000.

These newspapers come from every section of the country, representing a combined circulation of 14,000,000.

A score or so of employes, armed with sharp scissors and paste pots, clip out all editorials dealing with government matters or the President and paste them on individual slips of paper. To each editorial is attached the name of the newspaper in which it was printed, together with its circulation, politics and locality. The editorials are then grouped by states and sent to another service in a separate building. Here the editorials are grouped by subjects.

A group of statisticians and officials skilled in handling publicity matters, all in the employ of the government, analyze and summarize the editorials.

200 Ft. Ledge Crashes Down Niagara Falls

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—A gigantic section of the brink of the American side of Niagara falls broke away and plunged into the turbulent river bed below under cover of darkness early today. A rocky section 200 feet wide—approximately one-seventh the width of the American falls—and 150 feet deep went crashing down and piled up half way up the 162 foot precipice of the cataract.

So far as man knows, the forces of erosion today made their greatest single change of all time in the contour of one of the natural wonders of the world. There have been other falls of rock from time to time, but none of the recorded ones as large as that of today.

U-Shaped Incision Made.

Thousands upon thousands of tons of rock were rent from their centuries old base, leaving a U-shaped incision in the brink, with the result that the swirling current of the stream now veers slightly more shoreward.

The break occurred about three-fourths of the distance out from the American shore in that portion of the falls lying between Prospect point and Luna island.

Accurate estimates of the scope of the break must await the taking of aerial photographs to be compared with earlier ones.

The cave of the winds does not extend out as far as the gouged out part of the cliff and was not damaged.

Rumbling noises heard above the constant roaring of the falls late at night gave the first intimation of the occurrence. These noises were heard at intervals until 6 o'clock this morning.

Crowds View Change.

First reports of the break were made to police headquarters and dawn found residents of the city of Niagara Falls and the usual contingent of tourists at vantage points to view the falls as altered overnight. The crowd grew and grew and traffic was congested for hours. Thousands more from the Canadian side also viewed the falls in their new outline.

The most recent fall of rock comparable with that of today occurred on the Canadian side in 1850, when the old Table rock section gave way. There was also a large break in the summer of 1818. In December of 1828 three vast sections of the Horseshoe falls gave way, the resultant shock being comparable to that of an earthquake.

Brink Recedes Slowly.

The curving brink of the Horseshoe falls on the Canadian side of the river, some 2,600 feet wide, has been cut back by erosion at the rate of about two and a third feet a year for about a quarter of a century. For a hundred years before that erosion had been making slightly faster headway.

On the American side, however, the brink, until today's titanic change, had been receding at the rate of about an inch a year.

Geologists have concluded that the falls and river are 25,000 years old and that it has taken all this time for the falls to recede from Lake Ontario to the present brink miles upstream.

Eroding of two-thirds of the gorge through which the water of the river roars after its plunge has consumed between 5,000 to 15,000 years, scientists have calculated.

GRAFT RECORDS ARE SEIZED IN OLD REX HOTEL

Police Jury to Scan Captured Lists.

Records of graft and protection payments were seized early yesterday in a raid by state's attorney's detectives on the Rex hotel, 22d and State streets.

The raid was regarded as marking an epoch in the war on gangs and the underworld, because the Rex for many years has been known as a vice center immune from legal molestation.

The Rex is the headquarters of Dennis Cooney, one of the richest men in Chicago's underworld and an ally of Al Capone. For 20 years Cooney has been a power in the First ward, where he is known as "The Duke," a man who wears a different suit of clothes each morning, afternoon, and evening.

Jury to Hear Herdegen Case.

The records seized in the raid will go to the special grand jury which this morning is to resume its investigation of the police department. The jurors also are to hear testimony concerning the alleged purchase of a police sergeantcy with $1,500 advanced, according to charges, by Jack Zuta, slain vicemonger and gang leader.

This case involves Sergt. Jack. Herdegen of the North Damen avenue police station who was being held yesterday at the Warren avenue station in the district where, according to accusations, he took toll of the earnings of disorderly houses for himself, higher police officials, and for Zuta.

Police Guard at "Closed" Resort.

There were dramatic incidents in the raid on the Rex. The old vice resort had been "closed" for several years. Capt. John Prendergast of the Second police district said he knew it was closed because he had two policemen visit the place every hour or so night and day to see that it wasn't in operation.

But the raid, directed by Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller, who is in charge of the gathering of evidence for the special grand jury, disclosed that the old vice resort was "closed" only in the sense that the lower floors were darkened. On the upper floors business was going on full blast. The raiders passed the police guard, gained entrance through the "soft drink parlor," through which patrons find their way to the bright lights above, and seized fourteen men and five girls.

Cooney in Miami Retreat.

Cooney was not among the prisoners. Intimates confided that he was in Miami. The names of the prisoners were not revealed, except that of George (Tubby) Miller, ostensible owner of the place.

From two safes in the headquarters which Cooney maintained in the "closed" resort the raiders seized about $25,000 in cash and Liberty bonds, ready for instant use as bail when needed. There were also four loaded revolvers, a sawed-off shotgun, four blackjacks and three police clubs. Also there was jewelry valued at $5,000, and pawn tickets for more jewelry.

Finally, there was a mass of documents which the prosecutors believe may give evidence of a hookup between gangdom and corrupt policemen.

Police and Politicians Named.

Much of the documentary evidence was kept secret by Prosecutor Mueller and his staff last night in order that they might complete their investigation. But there were names of policemen and minor politicians. They revealed that much. Among the documents listed were:

Records of the amount of money collected in listed rooms of the Carleton hotel, 2138 South Wabash avenue, together with the names of the girls who occupied those rooms. This is the hotel where a secret police department list of hoodlums scheduled for arrest was found by federal raiders in the possession of a Capone bondsman.

Mail addressed to Detectives James Coleman and Peter Bernacchi who have been detailed to the vicinity of the Rex café for many years.

An item in the books showing Detective Coleman's name with the amount $57.46 after it and the same amount opposite the name of Tubby Miller.

Threat to Sue Policeman.

A letter from a lawyer threatening to sue Coleman for an unpaid funeral bill.

A check made payable to Peter Bernacchi, signed by a woman whose name was withheld, and which bore the endorsement of Peter Bernacchi.

A list of the names of "many prominent persons," including politicians, according to Prosecutor Mueller, who said it appeared to be only a list of their telephone numbers. Unless they were linked in some other way with Cooney the names would remain secret, he said.

Many poll lists and slips of paper containing names under a heading "Workers," which was presumed by the investigators to refer to First ward precinct workers.

Some sort of a document payable to Frank Christian.

Many police summonses to be given to traffic law violators and which are to be accounted for by the individual policemen to whom they were issued by the police department.

Bills of Sale for Bonds.

Bills of sale from Ed Connors—whose name is on many other records—made out to Cooney for Liberty bonds in several amounts of $8,000 and $5,000.

Insurance policies in the names of James Braico, Fred M. Morelli, who Mueller said seems to be one of the important figures in the Cooney documents, and Charles F. O'Reilly.

Many items such as "Pay to—— $——" and signed by a man named Metcalf.

An item: "Deposited for the Wabash Grill, $560." The Wabash grill is owned by Jack Guzik, public enemy and Capone lieutenant recently sentenced to federal prison for income tax evasion.

Records of payments to "Murphy" and others whose names were not revealed, for various amounts up to $1,000.

Numerous promissory notes made payable to Cooney by persons whose names were withheld.

An item: "Coppers, $10; lunch, $30, etc."

Admittance Cards Are Found.

Printed cards bearing the rubber stamp signature of Anton J. Cermak, president of the county board, and which read "Please admit —— to the county hospital."

Printed cards bearing the rubber stamp signature of Frank J. Wilson, formerly a county commissioner, and directing the admittance of bearer to the Oak Forest infirmary or tuberculosis sanitarium.

The books showed receipts and expenses of the barroom on the first floor, through which patrons were admitted to the "closed" vice resort above, the cabaret on the second floor. In the "expenses" were listed four or five amounts of $333 for each month after the initials "P. R.," which Mueller took to mean pay roll or possibly some private disbursements by Cooney. For the last few months these amounts were $320.

There was much more about which the raiders and prosecutors were silent. Mr. Mueller said he had not had time to examine all the papers on which many additional names appeared. He declined to say whether he regards them, or the other records listed, as important.

Story of the Raid.

The actual raid was led by Assistant State's Attorney Theodore Miller of Prosecutor Mueller's staff. Miller went to the Rex barroom alone, having arranged with a squad under Sergt. Michael Ahern to follow him in exactly ten minutes. He ordered beer and was served with something of the near variety, after which he inquired for the girls.

He was taken aside by a young man who questioned him about his last visit, which Miller said was "O, long ago." But the questioner was apparently satisfied and Miller was taken through a secret doorway and sent upstairs.

He found the room where five girls were in scant apparel and was welcomed. He said he suggested a drink and was told there wasn't time, although he was playing for time. Suddenly all the lights went out.

The darkness was due to the operation of a switch in the barroom below, in conjunction with a warning buzzer system which was put in operation immediately on the entrance of Sergt. Ahern and the raiders. Even the barroom was plunged into darkness. All the inmates of the hotel sought to escape. Three of the girls were caught in the alley, not garbed for inclement weather. After confusion upstairs and downstairs the police were in control and light was restored.

At that time the uniformed policemen detailed by Capt. Prendergast to keep the resort closed arrived. They are Patrolmen Albert Hahn and Francis O'Neill. They professed ignorance of what had been going on upstairs, saying they obeyed orders by entering the bar once an hour. Soon Detective Bernacchi appeared. He became angry, the raiders said, when they asked his business. He left.

Two Safes Are Broken Open.

The two safes containing the records, currency, Liberty bonds, and jewelry were found in an office on one of the upper floors. The outer door of one safe was open. The knob of the inside door was broken by the raiders and its contents revealed. The locks on the other safe stopped the raiders until an expert was called.

Later in the day Attorney John H. Johntry, a former alderman, sought permission to remove the money and jewelry, saying he represented Tubby Miller. He was told he would have to have a court order.

Prosecutor Mueller said that, in addition to presenting the records to the special grand jury he will ask to have the Rex building closed under the public nuisance act and would also ask the city building department to brand it as unsafe. He said he was unable to discover whether Cooney owns it.

Herdegen Held Incommunicado.

Mr. Mueller said there were no new developments yesterday regarding the case of Sergt. Herdegen. Herdegen was held incommunicado and there was no information given as to whether he has changed his statement denying the charges made by his discarded sweetheart, Miss Bernice Shaw.

Miss Shaw's story was that she lived with Herdegen for several years, although Herdegen has a wife and five children residing at 6246 Grace street, and that during that time Herdegen was the collector in the Warren avenue district.

The money for Herdegen's promotion came from Zuta, Miss Shaw said, and, according to her charges, was paid to Meyer Cossman, formerly a lieutenant of Homer Galpin. Cossman, who was chief clerk of the board of review until a year ago, could not be reached by the prosecutor's detectives. A subpoena has been issued for his appearance before the special grand jury.

GEORGE E. Q. JOHNSON RETURNS FROM PARLEY ON CRIME WAR PLANS

United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson returned yesterday from a three day conference in Washington with Attorney General Mitchell and other department of justice officials. Mr. Johnson's term expires on Feb. 7 and it was said that his reappointment is assured.

While declining to discuss his conversations in the capital regarding federal prosecutions of Chicago criminals, Mr. Johnson announced that he is prepared to push federal court cases pending against gangsters.

The Al Capone contempt charge in his income tax investigation, the prosecutor said, will be taken up as soon as Federal Judge Wilkerson has finished the case now before him. Witnesses in Miami, Fla., against Capone have been wired to be ready to come to Chicago within the next few days if necessary, Mr. Johnson said.

BOY, 6, KILLED, COMPANION HURT, IN BUS CRASH

Storm Causes Accidents; Woman Doctor Victim.

A six year old boy riding home with his parents in a bus was crushed to death last night and a five year old companion possibly fatally injured when the bus collided head-on with an automobile half a mile east of River road on Irving Park boulevard.

The accident climaxed a day filled with automobile accidents in which one man was killed and a number of persons, among them Dr. Bertha Gae Fisher, prominent Oak Park physician, were critically injured. Most of the accidents were attributed to the snow.

The boy who was killed was Frank Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Anderson of 4116 Prairie avenue, Schiller Park. His companion, Leon Nielson of the same address, is in Belmont hospital with a possible skull fracture.

Vainly Tries to Dodge Auto.

The bus, owned by the Wilcox Transportation company of Melrose Park and driven by Joseph Ambrose Jr., had met an Irving Park boulevard street car at the end of the line and was returning with seven passengers toward Schiller Park when, according to Ambrose, he first saw the automobile driven by William Ursin, 2410 North Lawndale avenue, weaving from one side of the road to the other.

Ambrose said he tried to dodge the car but was unable to do so. Ursin was held for the inquest. Ambrose was released. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, Ambrose, and Ursin were cut by glass, but the other passengers were unhurt.

Woman Physician Hurt.

Dr. Fisher, who is unmarried, lives at 416 North Austin boulevard, Oak Park, and is a member of the staff of the West Suburban hospital, specializing in obstetrics.

She was driving her car slowly eastward in Ontario street at East avenue, Oak park, police were told, when a second car, driven by Allan Houston, 17 years old 1119 Jackson avenue, River Forest, approached rapidly from the rear.

When Houston tried to stop his car began to skid on the wet pavement and struck the rear of Dr. Fisher's car while moving at a speed of nearly 30 miles an hour. Dr. Fisher was thrown out of her car and was picked up by Houston, who took her to the Oak Park hospital in an unconscious condition. Surgeons there said she is suffering from a possible skull fracture but is expected to recover. Houston was held under $1,000 bond.

The man who was killed was Thaddeus Olenski, 24 years old, 8451 Marquette avenue, a sales superintendent for the Globe Life Insurance company. His skull was crushed when his car skidded in Dolton and crashed head-on into another car driven by Richard W. Renne, 1642 Davis street, Whiting.

The two deaths raised the 1931 Cook county automobile toll to 75.

Orrin H. Newstead, a sanitary engineer, confessed to Englewood police last night that he was the driver of the automobile which early yesterday crashed into a group of 15 persons waiting for a street car in a safety zone at 65th street and Ashland avenue, seriously injuring seven women and a man.

Newstead, who lives at 7834 East End avenue, was arrested shortly after the accident when he went to the Gresham police station and reported his car stolen. He stuck to his story throughout the day, but after several of the victims had identified him he confessed, pleading that he had lost control of the car on the slippery pavement. He was released on $5,000 bond after eight charges of assault with an automobile, one charge of reckless driving and one of leaving the scene of an accident were placed against him.

Three Hurt in Crash.

Three men suffered critical head injuries early yesterday when they were hurled to the street as a Yellow cab struck their car at Lake and Des Plaines streets. They are John J. Hewitt, 25 years old, 5849 Magnolia avenue, a deputy United States marshal; Gregory Martin, 26 years old, 3030 Sheridan road, and John McHale, 217 East Superior street, a minor Democratic politician.

The driver of the cab, Steven Kumor, 1949 West 34th place, was unhurt and was ordered held.

Mrs. Grace Serrise, 60 years old, 2504 North Harlem avenue, was struck while on her way to church and was still unconscious late last night at the Keystone hospital. The driver of the car, Fred L. Buenger, 48 years old, 1627 North Luna avenue, said he was unable to see her because of the snow. He was held.

HARRISON TO FACE BRIBE CHARGE TODAY; OPEN PAROLE INQUIRY

Attorney William H. Harrison, colored member of the Illinois board of pardons and paroles, who confessed Saturday night to accepting a bribe to free a convict, is to be arraigned this morning before Judge John H. Lyle in the Felony court.

With Harrison's arraignment State's Attorneys Malachy Coghlan and Max Vestigation of the parole system. At the same time C. W. Jones of Streator, chairman of the board, is to conduct an inquiry to report to Gov. Emmerson.

The state's attorney's investigation is to be directed by Assistant State's Attorneys Malachy Coughlan and Max Libusoski. They will investigate the records of the board with a particular emphasis on Harrison's official actions. Chairman Jones announced he would coöperate.

Harrison was arrested Saturday when the prosecutors learned that he had been told by an attaché of the board of the secret plan to trap him while taking the bribe. He confessed taking a bribe to liberate William Ridarelli, 22 years old, 3217 Lexington street, in prison for robbery.

SEIZE ANOTHER AS SUSPECT IN STRANGLE CASE

Youth Nabbed in Lincoln to Return Today.

Shielding his identity, the Albany Park police last night were holding a young man as a suspect in the murder of Miss Eppie Moss, young business woman, who was strangled last Thursday in her garage in the rear of 1143 Cornelia avenue. Meanwhile, another suspect, William Stone, 20 years old, of Rockford, who was arrested in Lincoln, Ill., near Springfield, was to be brought to Chicago today for questioning.

The Chicago prisoner will also be questioned today. Thus far he has not been informed of the reason for his arrest, and plans last night were to keep him in ignorance of the subject until Capt. Hugh McCarthy, of the Town Hall station, in whose district the crime was committed, could talk to him. According to Lieut. Daniel O'Hark of the Albany Park station, the youth will also be asked about several automobile thefts. One theory of the Moss killing is that her slayer might have been in the act of stealing her car when she interrupted him.

Torn Leather Coat Is Clew.

The second suspect, Stone, was seized by Lincoln police Friday. His picture, according to Chief of Detectives John Norton, has been identified by unnamed witnesses as that apparently of the killer. Chief Norton sent Sergt. Michael Shannon to bring Stone to Chicago. They are expected today. Stone, according to Norton, declares he has not been in Chicago for almost two years.

When arrested Stone was wearing a torn leather coat similar to one which witnesses said was worn by the youth seen fleeing from the garage a moment before friends of Miss Moss broke into the garage and found her dead, garroted with a rope.

Chief of Police M. D. Richardson of Lincoln said Stone was a peculiar chap, whiling away his time in jail by playing a French harp.

Study Life of Victim.

Meanwhile investigators continued their study of Miss Moss' history, and were perplexed by the disappearance of Miss Belleta Morse, roommate of Miss Moss, whom they want to question concerning various matters pertaining to Miss Moss. Chief Norton said he believed Miss Morse was suffering a nervous collapse as a result of the slaying and had been taken to a sanitarium, but he said he had been unable to learn which sanitarium.

Miss Morse and Miss Moss had shared an apartment for the last three years and Miss Morse discovered the slaying.

COOLIDGE HEADS RED CROSS DRIVE FOR DROUGHT AID

Al Smith Also Named by Hoover as Aid.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—President Hoover today enlisted the aid of his predecessor, Calvin Coolidge, and his presidential opponent, Al Smith, in a drive for public subscriptions to the $10,000,000 Red Cross drought relief fund.

The President's announcement of Mr. Coolidge's acceptance of the honorary chairmanship of a committee of leading citizens was accepted as notice that he is standing pat in his opposition to the $25,000,000 food appropriation by congress.

In a letter to those invited to service on the committee the President said that "it is essential that we should maintain the sound American tradition and spirit of voluntary aid in such emergency and should not undermine that spirit which has made our Red Cross the outstanding guardian of our people in time of disaster."

Frowns on Senate Compromise.

The President's attitude as reflected in the letter made it apparent that none of the proposed compromises will have administration approval when the senate tomorrow acts on the question of postponing until Feb. 9 final action on the Robinson amendment to the interior department appropriation bill appropriating $25,000,000 for food. The amendment, which was adopted yesterday by the senate without a roll call, is scheduled for reconsideration with prospects that the administration will meet defeat in its attempt to postpone action on the plea that the campaign for the $10,000,000 fund should not be handicapped.

Former President Coolidge, according to President Hoover's announcement, has consented to act as honorary chairman of a committee of leading citizens "to sponsor and aid the Red Cross and its local chapters in the drive for funds in aid of the drought sufferers." John Barton Payne, head of the Red Cross, will be the active chairman of the committee.

Makes Committee Nonpartisan.

President Hoover took care to make his committee nonpartisan in character and announced the acceptance by his Democratic opponent in the 1928 presidential contest, Alfred E. Smith, of appointment as a vice chairman. Also serving as a vice chairman will be the 1924 Democratic presidential nominee, John W. Davis. The other vice chairmen announced by the President are Gen. John J. Pershing and Abel Davis of Chicago.

"We are faced with a national emergency," the President said in his letter. "Those in need in our larger cities are being and will be provided for through the generosity and self-reliance of the citizens of those communities. The people, however, in the drought stricken areas in twenty-one states are not in a position adequately to help themselves and must look to their fellow citizens for temporary assistance.

"The American way of meeting such a relief problem has been through voluntary effort and for many years this effort has been centered in the American Red Cross, created by the people themselves to act in just such emergencies. It has met its responsibilities magnificently in times of war and of peace."

Chicagoans on Committee.

Chicagoans besides Mr. Davis who have accepted membership on the committee include Samuel Insull, Melvin Traylor, and Howard W. Fenton. William Butterworth of Moline, Ill., president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, also is a member.

The President is understood to intend to continue his fight to the finish against governmental invasion of the field of relief work heretofore handled by the Red Cross. If the senate again approves the Robinson amendment tomorrow the administration will oppose it in the house. If it gets through the house there is a suggestion that the President may go so far as to veto the entire appropriation bill even if by doing so he precipitates an extra session.

Borah Defends Appropriation.

Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho] in a statement tonight defended the effort to have congress appropriate relief funds.

"I had hoped from the beginning that the Red Cross and other voluntary organizations would be able to take care of the situation, feed the hungry and clothe the naked, and that is the way we all wanted to see it done, but the unmistakable truth came to us that the situation was not being taken care of," said Senator Borah.

"The Red Cross, according to its first statement, did not have the funds to take care of the situation, and at the same time the Red Cross was not asking for additional funds. Under these circumstances congress had no alternative.

"The trouble with this situation was precisely the same in the beginning as it was with reference to unemployment and that was an effort to minimize the seriousness and to criticize those who urged this seriousness.

Says Congress Aroused Relief.

"Now if there has been an awakening and the Red Cross is prepared to take care of the situation I for one shall be happy to know. But let me say that had it not been for the agitation in congress, thousands of men, women and children would have literally died of hunger while we were being told that the situation was not serious and that it was well in hand.

"I am not myself in favor of any appropriation that is not absolutely necessary, but if it is necessary I am in favor of it even if it sweeps the treasury dry."

The Red Cross tonight announced that total contributions to the $10,000,000 drought relief fund now amounts to $598,000, which represents only a small addition to the total reported yesterday. The number of persons being given drought relief by the Red Cross has more than doubled in the last 17 days. On Dec. 31 the Red Cross was helping 224,834 persons, while the total as of noon yesterday was 517,774.

DAISY PREPARES TO 'KICK LID OFF' ABOUT 'IT' GIRL

Clara Steaming Up for New Denials.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Daisy De Boe, "tell all" ex-secretary to Clara Bow, spending Sunday bent intently over court transcripts, piled up ammunition for fresh volleys on the witness stand tomorrow morning in her trial for grand theft of $15,300 from the film "it" girl.

"There's going to be a lot more inside Hollywood stuff," she promised, her eyes blazing over the henna haired actress' latest denials and counter threats. Daisy curled her lips over Clara's threats to "ruin her" in her next turn on the stand, intimating she was ready "to kick the lid off" secrets faster than Clara could refute them.

Plans Counter Attack.

While Daisy prepared more comments about Clara's affairs the "it" girl ruminated fiercely over Daisy's out of school tales. The film flapper, confined to her home by a severe cold and case of nerves, was steaming up for an emotional burst of denials and counter-attacks in the courtroom.

"To think of her telling that stuff about my drinking and gambling!" the actress exclaimed, her eyes flashing indignantly. "I don't say I never took a drink; who doesn't?"

"And gambling—we only play a 15 cent limit. You can't lose much that way. Besides, I usually won."

Ready to Charge It Off.

The actress intimated she was ready to "kiss good-by" to the forty odd thousand dollars she believes Daisy took, and that she was ready to forget the jewelry, furs, and clothes she charges her ex-secretary with buying out of her own checking account.

The flaming haired actress said she was angry because her faith in people was gone. "That's why I wept on the stand."

"I shall never trust any one again," she said bitterly.

"And then she sits up there on the stand and sneers at me. I used to think she had a sweet face, but now she looks so hard."

Miss Bow had more to say about Daisy's assertion the famous hair was hennaed.

Hair "Always Red."

"My hair has always been red. At times, for different pictures, I've had it dyed. Once black, another time I was a blonde, just like Daisy. Anybody seeing her in court can tell hers has been bleached.

"The thing I hate worst of all, is having to pass up that picture, 'City Streets.' I'm broken hearted over that because it was a big dramatic part, not the sort of thing I have been doing at all."

Miss Bow will be called as a rebuttal witness, David Clark, prosecutor, said, and be given a chance to refute the story told by Miss De Boe.

To Call Other Witnesses.

"And I have other witnesses also," he said, "who will testify that the De Boe girl's testimony is largely self-serving."

Nathan Freedman, defense counsel, expects to have Miss De Boe on the stand throughout tomorrow morning's two hour session. Unless cross-examination is unexpectedly lengthy he said she probably would finish in that time. Six or seven other defense witnesses will follow.

Studio officials announced Miss Bow would be unable to appear in court tomorrow. She is scheduled to testify later in the week, however.

FINDS CUBA STILL UP TO OLD TRICKS TO GET U. S. CASH

Political Unrest No Effect on American Tourist.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Jan. 18.—Cuba, especially that element of the population which caters to the tourist trade, realizes full well that there is a condition described as depression in the United States. Nevertheless, an American must own at least one bolled bosom shirt and a dress suit that hasn't turned too green if he craves to flit about the Casino Nacional any evening except Sunday.

On Sunday night the American business man who has lost his good shirt gets a break. He may dance, he may gamble, and he may drink without dressing up to look like ready money and right now this matter of a front is more important in Havana than one can imagine. Two seasons ago all tourists were looked upon as opulent. There was no wide diversity in the rating of an American visitor on these shores, but this season the welcomers are apace with the times. In many places the experts can tell what price to ask by a quick appraisal of the extent to which one's heels are run over. One man who came to town with a new suit and a new pair of shoes revealed that a taxi driver had charged him $8 for the same service which two days later cost him $1.50, the difference being that he had on less gorgeous raiment on the latter occasion.

Told to Cater to U. S. Tourists.

This state of affairs, however, should not discourage the tourist who plans to come to Havana. If one suspects a taxi overcharge all he has to do is tell the driver that he desires arbitration with a policeman to act as arbiter. If there is an attempted gouge the matter never will get to the policeman, for he is instructed to befriend the American tourist and the taxi man does not relish an interview on the matter of overcharging.

Whatever the state of political unrest may be in Cuba, it does not come emphatically to the attention of the American tourist who is here to see the sights, to become intoxicated, to gamble or to rest. One sees soldiers in every block, but they do not give the Americans anything that resembles the once over or an icy glare. The police, 72 of whom speak English fluently, from all outward signs are not as curious about the appearance of strangers as the flat footed gentry who pose at the street intersections of Miami.

Of course, if one gets noisy he will soon find out that he has been observed much more than he thought. This applies especially to those who visit political figures known to be opposed to the administration of President Gerardo Machado. The suspension of constitutional rights is a powerful device. It would make a Chicago habeas corpus lawyer swoon before he even had a client. The suspension of constitutional guarantees gives the government forces the right of immediate search with no documentary warrant, the right of suppressing meetings and the right of detention without waiting for the routine formalities of normal procedure.

Raid Yacht Club.

While the main exercise of this specialized power was originally dedicated to breaking up student and communist meetings, it recently has extended to organizations ostensibly more social in character. One of the largest and most exclusive yacht clubs in Cuba has been raided and its membership is not permitted to hold meetings. One of the largest tennis clubs in the world also was searched and is under the surveillance of the government, but these things do not affect the casual American visitor, and, while there is said to have been much spirited protest at this phase of the president's policy, he has not been swerved from the contention that such rigorous methods are essential to preserving peace and tranquillity on the island.

The only instance in which the tourist is liable to find any personal contact with Cuban internal affairs is in the matter of outgoing mail, which is subject to censorship. There also is a degree of listening in on telephone conversations. It seems the bars are being run as ever, and while police and soldiers are to be seen on duty in many of the cantinas, there is no suspension of the drinker's constitutional guarantees in so far as his drinking is concerned.

Irked by Hotel Runners.

There is some range in the estimates of the number of persons in jail here, the guesses ranging from a hundred or so to as high as 2,000. Regardless of the number incarcerated it will seem a shame to the average tourist that there hasn't been jail space provided for the hotel runners who infest the customs inspection rooms at the several docks here. The runners, always a nuisance, have been made much greater pests than ever before by the zeal for business in these short money days.

The street peddlers also are many times more persistent than at any time in recent years. The foregoing nuisance are the only groups that seem to have escaped supervision in behalf of the visitors' comfort and pleasure. The race track has a negligible number of touts and cadgers. The cock fights are perfectly regulated.

$4 for a Cock Fight.

The chicken men have not felt the necessity of reducing prices and are getting $4 for each ringside seat, with natives, not tourists, forming the bulk of the patronage. The Casino Nacional is just getting its season under way and conducting an extensive advertising campaign in all the papers that still are publishing. You are advised that the smart social life of Cuba and the United States mingle at the gaming tables where the gods of chance and fortune find their brilliant mark of splendor, and that roulette, baccarat and the established games of chance await the play of visitors. It is said that the word "await" in the foregoing sentence is of especial significance. But hope runs high that the season is merely a little slow in getting into full swing, mostly because of the weather.

There is unrest in Cuba, but Cuba isn't mad at the American tourist. Cuba still says you must come over.

LID OR LICENSE? IS STILL THE PROBLEM FOR MIAMI OFFICIALS

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 18.—(AP)—A "keep out" sign for gamblers tacked over the municipal doorway, residents of this winter playground today awaited developments in the drive of a financially prominent committee of 100 to rid the resort of statute violators.

The campaign took the form of a contest, with the committee on one side, business and tradesmen on the other, and the municipal council in the rôle of a referee striving to please both parties, while gamblers and bookmakers watched from the sidelines.

The millionaires, generalled by Joseph H. Adams and Clayton Sedgewick Cooper, inaugurated the campaign with a demand for a tight lid, accompanied by a threat of withdrawals of investments. The business and tradesmen took up the gauntlet in favor of an open town, as they reviewed prospects of a slim winter season in event of a "blue law."

A sidelight of the situation was the arrest last night of eight local men on vagrancy charges. Another sidelight was issuance of a temporary injunction closing the Picnic Two Bits night club in Miami, pending a hearing. Nevertheless, reports were that several night clubs in which gambling casinos are operated, entertained the usual number of patrons last night.

COUNTESS WHO FORGED WILL OF HUSBAND DIES

POTSDAM, Germany, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Countess Hessolde Schnabel, who was born in St. Louis in 1835, died today at a hospital, after an illness of a year. She was the widow of Prof. Schnabel, eminent German toxicologist, but was the daughter of Count Hesso von Leiningen-Westerburg, scion of one of the oldest noble families in Germany, who emigrated to America in the early '80s, marrying Margarete Meyer of St. Louis in October, 1884.

In 1926 the countess was the cause of a Potsdam society scandal when she admitted forging a will to obtain the estate of her husband and was sentenced to three months in jail.

M'HENRY COUNTY IN UPROAR OVER JAIL SOAP BILL

The question of how much soap is needed to wash bootleggers in the county jail at Woodstock is agitating the members of the McHenry county board of supervisors.

At a recent meeting the supervisors were presented with a bill from the sheriff's office for soap and disinfectants amounting to $558.28 and the sum so flabbergasted them that they delayed payment and ordered an investigation.

Presumably the soap was bought by authority of the former Sheriff Cyrus Sanford, who left office last December, and was to be used in the courthouse and jail. The latter building furnishes lodging for about twenty inmates, part of them dry law prisoners "farmed out" by the federal government.

Mr. Sanford could not be reached at his home in Woodstock yesterday, but his successor, Sheriff Lester Edinger, explained the situation.

"I guess the soap is all here, all right," he said, "but there is too much of it. Some of our customers are pretty dirty but no dirtier than those in any other jail. We are having over here what you might call a soap scandal."

14 Killed, 10 Seriously Hurt in Turkish Fire

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Fourteen persons were killed in a fire today in a building containing commercial offices and a motion picture supply store. Ten girls were seriously injured. Of the 14 persons dead 7 succumbed to burns, 3 were asphyxiated, and 4 died in jumping out of windows.

RUSSIA MOBILIZES RAILROADMEN BY CONSCRIPT ORDER

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Jan. 18.—Signed by Labor Commissar Tsikhon and countersigned by Railroad Commissar Rukhimovitch, an order was issued today, which is nothing less than "mobilization," in the full military sense of that word, of all railway workers.

The order states that all state departments, enterprises and administrations, except the transport department itself and "enterprises working for the national defense," must within ten days make a list of all their employés who formerly had any experience in or connection with railroad work. Such enterprises must immediately dismiss the said employés with two weeks' salary.

Within five days all employés thus listed must appear at the labor exchange to get a new railroad job and if there is no job in that neighborhood they will be sent elsewhere.

CANNERS OF U. S. TO OPEN ANNUAL SESSION TODAY

Hawaii and Alaska to Be Represented.

From sunny Hawaii, bleak Alaska, and from every state in the Union the canners of fish, fruits, and vegetables for the American housewife were arriving last night for the 34th annual convention of the National Canners association, opening today at the Stevens hotel.

Among the delegates were canners of Hawaiian pineapples, Florida grapefruit, Alaskan salmon, Maine sardines, Wisconsin peas, and fancy Chicago meats, representing an industry with an annual output above $700,000,000. Concurrent with the canners' convention are the annual meetings of seven allied industries, including the pickle packers, molasses canners, mayonnaise manufacturers, and the National Wholesale grocers.

Help Enforce New Law.

Unlike certain other food industries, which chafed under strict federal regulation, the organized canners have generally supported legislation and cooperated with federal agencies instituted to maintain the standard of canned products, according to C. E. Hume of San Francisco, president of the association.

As evidence of this attitude, Mr. Hume cited the association's support of the McNary-Mapes law, passed last August, under which canners of inferior products will be compelled to label them as sub-standard. Paul B. Dunbar, assistant chief of food and drug administration in the department of agriculture, is here to explain the provisions of the new law at a joint session of the canners and wholesale grocers this afternoon.

A major problem before the year's convention is distribution, Mr. Hume said. Linked with this problem and considered as a possible solution is the proposal of the association to launch an extensive advertising campaign, intended to dispel the last remaining prejudices housewives have toward canned goods.

Support Pure Food Law.

"The pure food and drugs act was passed in 1906," Mr. Hume pointed out. "Our association was formed in 1907 and since that time, according to a recent statement of the assistant chief, Mr. Dunbar, the canners' association has stood so straight as to almost lean backwards in support of the strictest provisions of the law.

"In the last two years the association has spent $2,000,000 on research, some of it in grants to laboratories of the larger universities, to bring our products up to the last possible stage of efficiency. We feel we have succeeded and the next move is to bring the facts before the ultimate consumers."

As an instance of the unfounded prejudices the canners must overcome, Mr. Hume cited the belief prevalent among some housewives that there is danger of tainting food left standing in an opened can. Certain canners go so far as to strengthen this erroneous belief by printing on the label an instruction to transfer the food to a glass container immediately upon opening, Mr. Hume said.

Tells of U. S. Experiment.

"To explode the belief, the division of food and drugs administration conducted a series of experiments, first with rats, then rabbits and finally human beings," Mr. Hume said. "They discovered that only an infinitesimal part of the tin coating of the can was absorbed by the product when the can was open. This food was fed to the experimental creatures and the discovery was established that even this tiny portion of absorbed tin was eliminated from the system through digestion."

The canners' association, according to Mr. Hume, disapproves the recent alteration of the pure food law by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde which permits the canners to substitute corn sugar for beet or cane sugar without indicating the use of corn sugar on the label. The subject may come before the conventions of both the canners and wholesale grocers, he said.

Called Inferior to Others.

"No matter what the secretary of agriculture may have said or inferred in lifting the restriction on corn sugar, that product is inferior to cane or beet sugar for canning purposes," Mr. Hume declared. "First of all, its sweetening capacity is 50 per cent less. Secondly, laboratory experiments show that corn sugar discolors certain canned products.

"Canners, of course, are under no obligation to use corn sugar. We oppose it because we feel the department of agriculture's action in this intance may mark the beginning of an attempt to break down other provisions of the pure food law and, perhaps, emasculate it."

James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation, whose subsidiary, the American Sheet and Tin Plate company, does a major share of its business with the canners, is scheduled to speak this afternoon. Another speaker will be Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce.

Th 26 oldest men in the industry, comprising an organization known as the Old Guard, held a reunion dinner last night in the Tower ballroom of the Stevens. Six members, identified with the industry for fifty years or more, were presented with diamond pins and twenty with service records of forty years or more received ruby pins. Acting on behalf of the association, Harry Kronau of Baltimore, president of the Old Guard, bestowed the pins on each of the veterans.

DISPUTES PERIL LIFE OF BRITISH LABOR CABINET

LONDON, Jan. 18.—(AP)—With reassembling of parliament on Tuesday, Britain's Labor government will face a series of tests any one of which it is believed in some quarters may result in overthrow of the government.

The battle is expected to start Wednesday over the government's education bill, now in committee stage. A religious controversy has entered into discussions on this measure, with the Catholic and Free church elements in commons at loggerheads over the question of grants to "nonprovided" schools—that is, schools run independently by religious organizations.

It is believed in some quarters the government will withdraw the whole bill rather than risk defeat. On Thursday a real major engagement is looked for with second reading of the trade disputes bill.

WALES SAILS FOR AMERICA AFTER AN EXCITING DAY

Train Wreck Delays Royal Party's Dash to Port.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Jan. 18.—Bad luck crossed the path of the prince of Wales twice today on the second lap of his journey to South America to drum up trade for Great Britain. The first mishap occurred at dawn, when a train wreck delayed him two hours in his race from Paris to catch the liner Oropesa at Santander, Spain.

The prince of Wales and his brother George were asleep in their berths when the train came to an abrupt halt at the French frontier 30 miles southwest of Bordeaux. The royal brothers were told an express train had been wrecked. They piled into their clothes and left the train to join other passengers in watching a derrick crew clear the tracks.

Wales' Car Hit by Brother's.

The Englishmen expressed their relief on learning that none had been injured in the derailment.

The prince of Wales had another exciting experience later in the day after obtaining motor cars in order to speed the journey to Santander. As the royal party was racing along a winding road between Bilbao and the Spanish port, the prince of Wales' automobile was struck by the car in which his brother was riding.

As far as can be learned Prince George was driving at the time. His car skidded on a bad stretch made even more dangerous by a thin coating of ice. The auto shot across the path of that of the prince of Wales. The two machines locked together with the car of the future British king coming to rest on the edge of the road near a sheer drop into the sea.

Repair work consumed an hour and the royal party arrived at Santander at 9 o'clock tonight. The liner had been waiting for the royal "salesman" for six hours and sailed at 10 o'clock.

From San Sebastian to Santander, the two princes tried to beat all Spanish speed records along the 135 mile mountain road in order to make up the time lost by the train wreck. Basque provincial police in long red coats and berets with fixed bayonets lined part of the route. After crossing the Atlantic, the liner's first stop will be at Hamilton, Bermuda, with later calls at Havana and Kingston, Jamaica.

101 RANCH OWNER TO SUE TOM MIX OVER JOB TANGLE AGAIN

Erie, Pa., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Col. Zack Miller, picturesque survivor of the three Miller brothers, owners of the famous 101 ranch in Oklahoma, will bring suit for $325,000 against Tom Mix, star of the circus and motion picture worlds, in Erie County court tomorrow, charging breach of contract.

Mix is being aided in his legal fight by John Ringling, circus owner, with whom he just signed a new five year contract. Accompanying Miller was the fourth wife of Mix, whom he has just divorced, and who will testify against him at the trial.

A battle of billboards, newspapers, and radio which took place two years ago when the Sells-Floto and 101 ranch shows appeared here at almost the same time brought about the filing of the $325,000 damage suit. Miller claims that Mix had promised to appear with the 101 ranch show, with which he had once been employed as rider at $35 a week. Mix says that while he promised to appear and ride as a stellar attraction in the ranch circus he signed no contract and thus was under no obligations.

A similar trial was held two weeks ago in Natchez, Miss., and was marked by startling allegations regarding the personal life and loves of Mix.

PROPOSED GRAIN PRICE INCREASE STIRS PARIS RIOT

PARIS, Jan. 18.—(AP)—The government's proposed increase in the price of wheat caused a riot of protest in a motion picture house today when the picture of Premier Steeg was flashed on the screen. Several persons in the audience rushed to the stage and tore down the canvas. An uproar followed.

Police arrested two of the disturbers, who said the protest was premeditated against an increase in the cost of living which, they said, would follow upon a rise in the price of wheat.

The proposal of Victor Boret, minister of agriculture, to raise the price of wheat from $1.50 a bushel to approximately $2, has caused a sharp difference of opinion with Leon Meyer, undersecretary of state for commerce. A special council of ministers has been called for tomorrow morning.

ITALIAN SHOOTS 7 FT. 1 IN. GORILLA ON LIP OF CHASM

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

BULAWAYO, Rhodesia, Jan. 18.—Commander Gatti, leader of an Italian scientific expedition in the Belgian Congo, had a narrow escape from death recently when he was charged by five gorillas on the edge of a precipice.

In a letter from Tohibinda forest received here today Commander Gatti tells how he killed the biggest of the five monsters with a shot through the heart, while the other four fled. The dead gorilla was a male, 7 feet 1 inch high. After this adventure he spent two days cutting a road through the forest and arrived safely in camp with 20 pygmies with whom he had made friends and who carried the gorilla's body.

Commander Gatti and his companions hope to return to Cairo late in March.

LYLE ASKS COURT VACATION DURING MAYORALTY RACE

Can't Do Justice to Both Bench and Campaign.

A severe cold which threatened to develop into a throat infection caused Judge John H. Lyle yesterday to ask for a vacation from the bench in order to avoid a physical breakdown brought on by his Felony court duties in addition to his campaign for the Republican mayoral nomination.

On the advice of his physician, Dr. Francis W. McNamara, Judge Lyle wrote to Chief Justice John J. Stonsteby of the Municipal court requesting that he be allowed to start his vacation tomorrow.

"Physical Task Too Great."

"I want you to know that I appreciate the fact that in our conference yesterday you stated you would be very glad to have me fill out my reassignment which began on the first of the month, and I, too, had fully intended to do so, but I can see now that the physical task is too great," Judge Lyle's letter stated.

"As you know in thirty days recently I tried and partially tried 2,401 cases in the Felony court. It would be humanly impossible for me to do justice to the work and at the same time carry on my campaign for mayor."

Ward Club Hears Albert.

Ald. Arthur F. Albert yesterday renewed his attack upon Mayor Thompson and the city hall. In a speech before the Forty-first Ward Republican club he described Thompson as a groundhog who comes out every four years at election time and "crawls back in his hole when he sees his shadow."

Newton Jenkins, another of the Republican candidates, made a statement during the day attacking Lyle as well as Thompson and Albert.

Player in Calumet City Card Game Is Shot Down

Martin Balsman, 29 years old, was shot and probably fatally wounded early this morning in a fight over a card game at 221 Plummer avenue, Calumet City. Police seized Thomas Marsiglia, one of the players, for questioning, but a third man who is alleged to have done the shooting escaped. Balsman lives at 124 155th street, Calumet City. The bullet struck Balsman in the back and passed through his body.

U. S. TO DEMAND TRIAL TODAY FOR COL. C. J. KRAFT

Report Defense Will Ask Further Delay.

Col. Charles J. Kraft, former commander of the 202d coast artillery, Illinois National Guard, whose indictment by the federal grand jury last July on charges of embezzlement disclosed a $206,000 scandal in the guard, is scheduled to go on trial today before Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley.

The government has been ready with its case for months but the withdrawal of defense counsel has brought delays on two occasions. The defense, it is reported, will seek another continuance. Assistant United States Attorney James C. Leaton has subpoenaed more than 100 witnesses and said he would oppose further delay.

Pay Roll Padding Charged.

The investigation of the 202d coast artillery, anti-aircraft unit of the guard, and the indictment of Kraft precipitated the largest scandal in the guard's history. Federal investigators charged that pay rolls had been padded and that Kraft had employed men on federal pay to do his personal work. Receipts from the renting of seats in the Broadway armory, used by the regiment, were not turned over to the regimental fund, it was charged.

The state lost as much as the federal government, or approximately $100,000, through Kraft's alleged irregularities, according to federal authorities. No action was taken by state officials. Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, commander of the guard, did not call a court martial. Kraft was permitted to resign with his rank after a board of inquiry had looked into "his moral fitness."

Battle Over Investigator.

Arthur R. Johnson, United States army investigator, was demoted to a clerical role following his work on the Kraft case, and there were reports that high officials of the guard brought pressure on Col. C. L. Corbin, Johnson's superior, to remove him from the inquiry. United States Attorney Johnson put the inspector under subpœna to prevent his removal.

After an investigation by the war department Johnson was ordered restored to his former position as an investigator, a post he had held for thirteen years.

Col. Charles C. Dawes was named to succeed Col. Kraft as commander of the unit and he immediately began a reorganization, demanding the resignations of several officers who had served with Kraft.

Expect Gold Strike to Pay Brazilian State's Debts

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 18.—It is reported that a vein of gold has been discovered in the Gurupy region, in the northern state of Para. The vein is said to be very rich and is expected to produce sufficient gold to pay the state's indebtedness. All mining concessions in the district have been canceled pending investigation of the mine.

CITY'S WEALTHY GIVE $438,500 TO RELIEF FUND

Push Campaign for Big Personal Donations.

Wealthy Chicagoans have contributed $438,500 to the $5,000,000 emergency relief fund, Philip R. Clarke, director of the fund raising campaign, announced yesterday. These contributions bring the total pledged to a shade more than three-fourths of the amount sought, the director said.

All the large personal contributions were secured by the individual gifts committee, headed by Joseph M. Cudahy. Among the 43 subscribers giving $2,500 or more was F. Edson White, president of Armour & Co., who was killed by an accidental fall from his apartment window Thursday evening.

Samuel Insull Gives $60,000.

Samuel Insull gave $60,000, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick $50,000, and Harold McCormick $35,000 to the fund. Joy Morton, James Simpson, and Cyrus H. McCormick, trustee, donated $25,000 each. A. W. Harris contributed $15,000 and George Herbert Jones gave $11,000.

Contributions of $10,000 each were made by the following:

|---|---|
| Mrs. J. Ogden Armour | C. B. Goodspeed |
| Lowell Avery | Samuel Insull Jr. |
| Harley Clarke | Potter Palmer |
| E. F. Crowell | |

Honoré Palmer donated $7,500 and the following donated $5,000 each:

|---|---|
| R. T. Crane Jr. | F. Edson White |
| E. L. Cudahy | E. A. Cudahy Sr. |
| Joseph M. Cudahy | J. J. Mitchell |
| A. B. Dick | John Hertz |
| Frank Hixon | Eugene Thayer |
| Miss Gwethalyn Jones | E. A. Cudahy Jr. |
| Edward Kleinschmid | Mr. and Mrs. Alfred |
| Sterling Morton | K. Stern |
| Walter P. Murphy | Mrs. Charles Hickox |

Donations of $4,000 each were given by F. A. Poor, John P. Welling and E. F. Mayer. Mrs. Levy Mayer gave $3,000. Those who contributed $2,500 each were:

|---|---|
| Charles McCulloch | Charles E. Brown |
| Mark Morton | E. G. Graham |
| Warren Wright | Martin Ryerson |

"Mr. Cudahy and his committee are now under full sail for the first time," said Mr. Clarke yesterday, "and we all know that those who are able to make sizable gifts will not be overlooked. In view of the emergency we hope that many men and women who have not yet been seen will fully realize that the situation is more serious than at any time since the depression set in and that they will do their part in preserving Chicago's reputation for meeting an emergency as it should be met.

"Plainly, the success of this campaign of mercy depends very largely upon the beneficence of our well-to-do people. The employés have done their part on a most commendable basis."

WOMAN KILLED IN 8-STORY FALL AT S. SIDE HOTEL

Mrs. Ida Maas Mier, 50 years old, leaped or fell eight floors to her death from her suite in the Del Prado hotel, 5307 Hyde Park boulevard, late yesterday.

Earlier in the afternoon her husband, Herman Mier, a sales representative, went to visit a relative, Adolph Felsenthal, of 5426 Harper avenue. He returned, accompanied by Felsenthal, several hours later. Mier was unable to open his apartment door. He summoned Howard Dice, the hotel engineer, who removed the lock. Mrs. Mier was not present. A French window, leading to a low railed balcony overlooking the areaway below, was open.

Mier hastened to the court and found his wife on the ground dead. According to Mier, his wife had been suffering from a nervous breakdown and melancholia for several years. They had been married twenty-five years.

ASK DELAY OF 2 EXECUTIONS FOR BROTHERS' TRIAL

Attorneys for Leo V. Brothers, indicted as the slayer of Alfred Lingle, announced yesterday they will demand a writ of habeas corpus and testificadum to hold up the execution of Frank Bell and Richard Sullivan in order to have them give testimony that Brothers did not kill Lingle. The two are under sentence to die on Feb. 13 for the murder of Christ Patras, a restaurant manager.

At the time they were on trial for the murder, Bell told a story of being involved in the Lingle killing. Pat Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney Swanson, who is in charge of the Lingle investigation, after an inquiry dismissed Bell's story as an attempt on the latter's part to escape sentence for the Patras killing. Attorneys Louis Piquett, Robert E. Cantwell, and Tyrell Krum, representing Brothers, declare Bell's testimony is vital to the defense.

PANTS ROBBER GETS $175.

VON HINDENBURG STIRS OLD TIMERS IN OATH OF UNITY

Recalls German Empire's Creation 60 Years Ago.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 18.—President Paul von Hindenburg addressed his old troops again today in the Berlin "Sportpalast" where the "Kyffhaeuser" federation of 3,000,000 former German warriors commemorated the 60th anniversary of German unity. The audience of 12,000 former officers and soldiers included many famed wartime military and naval leaders in gala uniforms.

On Jan. 18, 1871, the now 83 year old president was a lieutenant and heard Bismarck, the Iron Chancellor, proclaim the federated states of Germany an empire in the Hall of Mirrors at Versailles following the defeat of France. He reminded the veterans of this when he said:

"Sixty years ago today I was among those who hailed the first emperor of the resurrected German empire. Since then we have lost much that was dear and precious to us and always will remain unforgettable to the hearts of us old soldiers.

"But one thing has remained to us—the Fatherland. We will serve it in its distress beyond all partisanship, in unselfish love and loyalty. And in this hour of consecration we will emphasize that pledge with the shout:

"Deutschland! Hoch!"

Echo Hindenburg's Cry.

A scene of immense enthusiasm followed as 12,000 throats took up the president's slogan. The veterans then joined in the singing of patriotic hymns.

Previous to this reunion the president and all the members of the government had assembled in solemn ceremony in the reichstag. There Chancellor Heinrich Bruening made an appeal for mutual understanding and repeated the pledge which the first chancellor of the German empire, Bismarck, made when he proclaimed the German reich at Versailles in 1871:

"We vow to increase the wealth of the country by peace and not by war."

Parade Honors Bismarck.

This oath was renewed in front of the busts of Emperor Wilhelm I. and Bismarck which were surrounded with white lilacs and flags of the old regiments. An impressive parade past Bismarck's monument in front of the reichstag ended the ceremony.

Communists and Fascists made sundry attempts to disturb the outdoor ceremonies in the capital but were frustrated by the police who arrested 90 communists and seven Fascists.

FRANCE'S ENVOY PINS CROSS OF LEGION OF HONOR ON LINDBERGH

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh went bareheaded and in street clothes today to a gathering of high ranking officials and diplomats to receive the cross of commander of the Legion of Honer from Ambassadore Claudel of France.

The presentation was made on behalf of France in recognition of Lindbergh's flight from New York to Paris in May, 1927.

In presenting the cross, Ambassador Claudel said the westward flight of Coste and Bellonte last September was a success largely because Lindbergh had mapped the trans-Atlantic course. It was in recognition of this service to the two Frenchmen as well as his own record making flight that the medal was awarded, he said.

Among those at the presentation were Secretary Adams, Senator Morrow, Lindbergh's father-in-law, and Chairman Wickersham of the law enforcement commission.

Veterans Confer on Drive for Full U. S. Payments

GIRL FINDS LONG LOST CITY WITH HER 'MAGIC WAND'

Helps Italy Locate Traces of Vanished Race.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Jan. 18.—A "magic wand" in the hands of a young Italian woman is succeeding where all efforts on the part of scientists have failed and is gradually laying bare the hidden treasures of the ancient Etruscan town of Capena near Lake Leprignano.

This female rhabdomancer, whose name is Maria Mataloni, several weeks ago volunteered to help some excavators locate the tombs of the buried city with her divining rod which, she claims, she has used successfully in finding water and mineral deposits.

The government scientists were naturally skeptical, but since their quest had so far been fruitless, owing to the uncertainty of the actual limits of the ancient city, they decided to give her a trial.

Wand "Spots" Location.

Picking a spot some distance from the excavations Signorita Mataloni walked back and forth until her rod turned down and she followed it until it traced out a rough square. The workers started digging and a few days later they found an Etruscan tomb with exact dimensions as outlined by the girl.

The Roman press gave considerable space to the affair at that time and yesterday it came out with a complete story.

Through the aid of Signorita Mataloni four tombs have been discovered and scientists hope she eventually will be able to trace the limits of the whole town.

From the progress made so far it is expected Capena will turn out to be the greatest treasure store in Etruscan civilization ever found in Italy, and it may solve the mystery of the long sought enigmatic race, which vanished before the Christian era carrying even its secret languages into its tombs.

Costly treasures have already been found in the tombs discovered by Signorita Mataloni. The most important find is a terra-cotta statue of a woman about eight inches high. The face and drapery of this statue are in perfect preservation and indicate great artistic skill comparable to the early Greek and Minoan relics though of a different style. Even the hues of the various colored draperies on the statue are still vivid and gold earrings are still attached to the ears.

Another important discovery is a large piece of gold lace finely wrought on cloth.

That the pleasure of gambling with dice was known to the mysterious lost race was proved by the discovery of a pair of marble ones.

Lake Also a Mystery.

As a result of the discoveries the archaeologists are elated over what they consider an unrivaled treasure cave. Signorita Mataloni was aided in the work by a former army lieutenant, named Cattoi, who did not employ the rod, but who is said to have strange power for sensing the presence of hidden objects in the earth.

Lake Leprignano itself is a mystery, disappearing and reappearing from time to time for causes still unknown.

ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY ILL; ORDERED TO REST

LONDON, Jan. 18.—(AP)—The archbishop of Canterbury was ordered today to take a rest of at least three months by his physicians. An official statement issued from the archbishop's residence, Lambeth palace, and signed by his doctors read as follows:

"The archbishop of Canterbury is suffering from a severe neuralgia of the fifth nerve. The fundamental cause of this, in the archbishop's case, is overwork. In order to recover health it will be necessary for the archbishop to take a complete rest for at least three months.

"It is to be recalled that a year or more ago the archbishop was ill from a duodenal ulcer. From this he made a complete recovery and carried through the responsible duties incidental to the Lambeth conference without difficulty and until last month his health was excellent."

The Most Rev. Cosmo Gordon Lang became archbishop of Canterbury in 1928. He is 66 years old.

AND A MESSAGE TO THE HOUSEWIVES OF CHICAGO

From soil and sea—from tree and stalk and vine, each year the canners and packers gather the pick of the crops and place them in sealed containers. And because of this we enjoy foods of greater variation and finer flavor, wholesome and nutritious, too—and so economical that millions of families can afford them.

These choice foods are harvested at the very peak of their goodness so that in midwinter we can eat the finest that summer provides.

At A&P Food Stores everywhere you will find your favorite brands of canned foods. And at low prices that mean a worthwhile saving to you. Get acquainted with the choice canned foods at your nearby A & P Food Store this week.

SIX FIELD BUYING OFFICES
SO A&P CAN BETTER SERVE YOU

Buy at the source. This has been A & P's policy ever since growth has made necessary the purchase of food in huge quantities. Fruits and vegetables from California's sunny valleys. Salmon from the northwest coast. Peas and corn from the Middle West.

Fruits and vegetables must be harvested at the peak of their goodness and immediately packed. Fish must go into the can as soon as the haul is landed for only this way are you assured of the highest quality.

Salmon canneries are located at the dock. Fruit and vegetable canneries in the orchards and vegetable fields. And in these packing centers are A & P's field buying offices to make sure that the best is brought to the shelves of A & P Food Stores.

the crops and they were burned up in July. The gardens made by the women were also destroyed. The men went out to get work elsewhere, even into Ohio. They could not get jobs. They have come back home and they are just waiting.

"They are a patient, fatalistic race, rather shiftless and unable to comprehend the new age. They have seen their woods taken away, the coal companies come into their hills and despoil their land. They have been unable to adjust themselves to modern life. They are a fine, brave race, pure Anglo-Saxons, and they must be saved. It never occurs to them to ask for assistance. They do not know how.

Live on Green Nuts.

"On the road one day I met a family that had been up north looking for work and were now going back to wait. The children were barefooted and sitting around a campfire. They only had coffee. I have seen hundreds sleeping in depots and jails. We went to three schools in the mountains and I examined the lunch baskets of 45 children. Three of them had a piece of raw cabbage only. The other little baskets contained green walnuts or green hickory nuts, which give a little milk. Nothing else. They told me that they had the same for breakfast and would have the same for supper, with herb tea. One family was found living in a cave, after their home burned. They had only corn to eat. The neighbors' family built them a one room shack."

Union county is considered one of the best agricultural counties in the western section. It is in the Ohio river valley, just across the river from the bluffs of Shawneetown, Ill. It has had four crop failures and then the drought. Welborn B. Harris, the county judge, tells of conditions there in a letter to the state committee. There was a bank failure and all the merchants in town but six were caught. The Red Cross chapter money, $200, was also in it.

County Funds Exhausted.

The county is $27,000 in debt, the judge writes, and on Jan. 1 there were 307 land owners delinquent in taxes. Of the 3,991 adult males in the county, 2,653 were delinqent in taxes. Many had sacrificed their live stock. The local organization had given clothing, cash, and coal, he said, but now was unable to meet the demands for relief.

"The county is forced to refuse aid to many in dire need. My people are not financially able to give," he wrote. "Mines are closed and the merchants have borrowed to their limit. The Red Cross says it will do nothing until we have exhausted our resources and since we have been unable to raise but a small amount and have been unable to get the Red Cross officials to realize conditions there is going to be much suffering and misery. Many are too proud to ask county assistance and are suffering now."

On Jan. 7 the judge wrote again saying that the county banker had refused to lend another penny for the needy; that they had been unable to care for a confinement case and a widow woman, sick and with three children, had asked for aid and been refused.

Other Counties Hard Hit.

In McCracken county, of which Paducah is the seat, the relief director wrote that 300 families needed help and the county court was not able to take care of them.

In Cumberland county, which is 40 miles from a railroad, the county judge at Burkesville, L. B. Simpson, wrote the relief director.

"We have exhausted all means here to care for the people and unless something is done there will be severe suffering," he wrote. "The local chapter has spent all. The merchants have sold on credit until they are in danger. Every day brings reports of families suffering, with no relief to offer. Eight hundred farmers are asking for help. Eighty families have neither food nor clothing and but little shelter and some may starve to death.

Mules Better Off Than Humans.

"Human beings need food worse than the mules. In 1923 we lost all in the flood and have not recovered yet. At that time the Red Cross offered aid, but on account of the pride of our people, who had always given, not received, help, they refused the offer with thanks. Now is our day of need."

From Brownsville, on Jan. 7, G. E. Strickler, teacher in the agricultural High school and drought relief chairman, wrote that the county court and the local Red Cross had raised their limit, $800.

From Powell county it is reported that 45 per cent of the taxpayers are delinquent.

From Mount Vernon, Rockcastle county, M. Pennington wrote there were tax bills against 3,225 persons unpaid, that the national Red Cross was helping 175 families at the rate of $3 a family and that 150 filed applications and had received no help.

County Resources Exhausted.

From Campton, Wolf county, G. T. Center, county judge, wrote on Jan. 9:

"Six hundred are delinquent in taxes. The county assisted all it could but resources are exhausted. The county is in debt three times above its limit. Our people had rather work than beg but can get no employment. I am called on every day and am compelled to turn people away and can hardly sleep at night thinking of this. I cannot understand why officers who have the power to feed the hungry are so slow. They have spent millions to feed the Russians."

The counties around Louisville are raising their own relief funds in sufficient quantity and Louisville, which has been hit by several big bank failures and has an estimated 12,000 out of work, is in the midst of a community chest drive. This has now netted $472,594, with 28,285 persons on the pledge list. The goal is $741,594.

DELAYS FARMER APPOINTMENT TO RESERVE BOARD

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—Selection of a "dirt farmer" member of the federal reserve board is being delayed by President Hoover, pending senate confirmation of his appointment of Eugene Meyer as governor of the board. The controversy over the Meyer appointment is to come to a head in the senate this week. Senator S. W. Brookhart [Rep., Ia.] is to make a speech assailing Mr. Meyer because of Wall street connections.

The President is reported to have said that he will not choose a "dirt farmer" member of the board until Mr. Meyer is confirmed.

It happens that a candidate for "dirt farmer" member of the board who has been regarded as having a good chance of appointment has Senator Brookhart's endorsement. This is Ernest Moore of Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Four names are reported to be receiving consideration to represent agriculture on the board.

Former Secretary of Agriculture William M. Jardine is one of the four. Frank H. Funk of Bloomington, Ill., who has been endorsed for the position by Senators Charles S. Deneen and Otis F. Glenn [Reps., Ill.] and by Gov. L. L. Emmerson and others, has been approved as the first choice of the National grange.

ACT TO INTEREST EUROPEANS IN TRAVEL IN U. S.

A movement sponsored by Visit America, Inc., to interest Europeans in tours of the United States, and to make America the goal of their travels has been organized.

Visit America, Inc., plans to cooperate with American interests in steamship, railroad, and bus lines; hotels, and local chambers of commerce to bring European visitors and business to America. Graham Lyon, fellow of the Royal Geographic society, is president of the organization. He is now at the Hotel Sherman completing final details of the plan.

It is pointed out that American tourists have spread their money throughout Europe and that many Europeans travel, too. However, only a few of them come to the United States, it is said. According to Visit America, Inc., the British consulate reported more than 600,000 persons traveling abroad on British passports last year. Of this number only 39,640 came to America, and of these only 11,571 came for pleasure.

MR. BARRETT'S PUBLIC SPIRITED EXAMPLE.

Mr. Barrett's withdrawal from the mayoralty race was a personal sacrifice in the interest of the city which our responsible citizenship will appreciate. It was a courageous and public spirited step toward the concentration of the movement to free the city of its present misgovernment and to restore the credit of the Republican party in municipal affairs.

As Mr. Barrett points out the multiplication of candidates must have the effect of dividing opposition to the Thompson régime and of thereby increasing the strength that régime can count upon, regardless of its record, from its henchmen and beneficiaries. The very strength of the opposing candidates, since it is divided and competing for the same votes, becomes a weakness of the opposition.

Mr. Barrett's appeal for unity is, in fact, beyond argument and the remaining principal contestants must face the responsibility it forcefully presents. The movement for the rehabilitation of the party in Cook county is endangered if not doomed to defeat by a continuation of selfish factionalism, and it is the clear duty of responsible leadership to bring about united action for the common purpose. The campaign has proceeded far enough now to give the political leaders means of sound judgment upon the strength of the respective candidates, and to enable them to unite upon the strongest. They will do this without delay, if they are willing to put considerations of party credit and of the city's crying need for honest and competent government above personal and factional rivalries and ambitions.

WISHFUL THINKING IN THE OIL FIELDS.

Mr. Wirt Franklin, as chairman of the governors' oil relief conference, has proposed a tariff on petroleum. The conference itself has indorsed this proposal and added to it a demand for an embargo against all foreign oil products and 80 per cent of the customary imports of crude oil. Mr. Franklin argues that free importations of crude oil together with restrictions on output in the American fields are proving ruinous to the independent owners of wells. They will be forced to sell their properties at a loss to the international corporations which now "control and monopolize the production and marketing of oil outside of the United States." In the end our consumers of oil products will be penalized by being forced to pay higher prices to the monopolists. Meanwhile our oil reserves are wasting in the ground. New sources of power will be developed before the oil is used and then this great natural asset will have lost it value.

The argument is rather plausible than convincing. The trouble with the American oil industry today is not so much the competition of foreign oil fields as overproduction in this country and the general business depression. Whether the cutting off of imports of crude oil would work much improvement is open to serious question. In the fiscal year 1930 we imported some 66 million barrels of crude oil. The production in the same year in this country was upwards of a billion barrels. Our exports of petroleum and petroleum products had a value of $530,000,000, while our imports were valued at $120,000,000. There is reason to fear that a tariff or an embargo on petroleum, if successful in cutting off the imports, would also raise the price of our refined products and to that extent cut off at least a part of our export market. We might well lose more than we gained.

A tariff on a raw material, particularly an exhaustible one like petroleum, is always a doubtful expedient. If it succeeds in raising the price of the raw material it also succeeds in hastening depletion of our reserves. It can hardly be maintained that America is at present underexploiting its oil resources when two-thirds of all the petroleum produced in the world is produced in this country. If a new form of power is discovered to replace petroleum, as Mr. Franklin suggests, we, at least, will have less to regret, as matters stand, than any other oil producing nation in the world. And, it might be added, if another form of power is discovered, the need for lubricants may well remain to provide a market for our crude oil.

Perhaps the best argument for any tariff proposal is the improvement it will work in the living standards of the Americans engaged in producing the protected article. So far as petroleum is concerned the argument applies with only limited force. The number of men employed in bringing petroleum to the surface is not large, and the skilled mechanics in the industry are commonly well paid. On the other hand, if a tariff should result in raising the price of petroleum products, the number of men employed in refineries and filling stations and other distributive agencies might well be reduced as a consequence of a reduction in consumption. Here, too, the probable losses at least offset any putative gains.

The basic difficulty today is that we are producing more crude petroleum than we can sell in the form of petroleum products, although our output is far below our productive capacity with existing plant and equipment. Precisely the same diagnosis can be made for wheat, coal, copper, and almost any other raw material which may be named. Our imports of oil are relatively unimportant in quantity as compared to our total output and our surplus capacity. Cutting off of imports, it follows, would be of negligible benefit to the producers. No doubt they are not prospering as they might, but the tariff will not be the means of reconstructing the industry on a sound basis.

THE NEW YORK OBJECT LESSON.

New York's scandal of morals enforcement is a study for the whole country. It is an exhibit of law and police methods at their worst. The law exceeded the requirements of intelligent provision for public decorum, decency, and morality. The police detailed to enforce it proceeded to excesses which, as revealed, put odium on the whole system of justice. It is more than a New York incident. It is an American episode and if examined might yield the true formula of American reform and its results.

The consequences in the New York case are shocking. Women were framed and entrapped. Unscrupulous investigators blackmailed offenders who ought to have been arrested and railroaded victims against whom there was no credible evidence. The morals courts were speeded up for summary punishment and the woman who entered was virtually lost. It is an unbelievable picture of ruthlessness, one of insensate persecution, of police cruelty and turpitude.

Scores of young women are discovered to have been illegally committed to institutions. Whether they were guilty or not, they were not imprisoned by legal process. Innocent women were exposed to shame. The courts appear to have been indifferent to the possibilities of the situation and to have been no protection to citizens placed in moral jeopardy by the depravity of the officers and their stool pigeons.

Considerate and intelligent people are dismayed by the consequences of this vicious administration of law in the name of morality, and they cannot escape the conclusion that these consequences are inherent in the methods to which American reform is addicted. Instead of enforcing law properly devised for the requirements of a public problem, it prowls. It endeavors to incite the offense for which it has a penalty prepared. It is not a guardian of public interests but a persecutor of the individual. It esteems virtue to be a tally of victims. Virtue is in a way of becoming the great American vice.

TWELVE YEARS OF PUBLIC SERVICE.

The report of Col. Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago crime commission, reviews twelve years of that agency, which unquestionably has been one of the most important factors in municipal government in our country. As a check upon inefficiency, slackness or indifference and dishonesty in the administration of the criminal law the commission has functioned with increasing influence and effect. It has prevented many gross miscarriages of justice, has stimulated industry and alertness in the courts, and has collected an important body of facts upon which intelligent corrections of abuses may be founded. Its criticism and recommendations carry an increasing weight with the public and with such public individuals and agencies as are sincerely interested in the improvement of conditions. The Association of Commerce, which has maintained the commission, and the citizens who have contributed to its support have reason to be gratified at its twelve years of service. Every law abiding citizen has reason to be grateful for that service and to look hopefully to its continuance.

The war on organized crime is being won, but gradually. We are still in the thick of the fight, though with the encouragement of substantial accomplishment. Crime and its ally, corrupt politics, are still powerful, supplied with more money than they ever had before to extend their influence by the corruption of officials, of juries, of witnesses, of lawyers willing to use their skill for the defeat of justice. On the other hand, public opinion is awake and faithful officials are assured of a support and appreciation which in past times they have not had. There is good reason for encouragement, but less excuse than ever for relaxing our efforts.

BONNE ANNEE.

L'Action Française, organ of French royalists, as a New Year greeting offers the following thought for the French citizenry: "The republic wishes you a happy new year and reminds you that you will have to pay this year to the United States and to England 4,350,000,000 francs in order to punish you for having won the war."

What a slam at the republic, also at Uncle Shylock and perfide Albion! With the German navy in the Thames and the German army at the gates of Washington, who saved us but France? Base indeed is our ingratitude. France, staggering now under the back breaking burden of the second gold reserve of the world, taxing her impoverished people while unemployment fills her streets with famished heroes, now prepares to pour into our bursting coffers four billion francs. This is the reward for winning our war. Will George Foster Peabody please do something about it before it is too late?

Editorial of the Day

HABITS OF THE COMMUTER.

[Brooklyn Eagle.]

"A peculiar animal"—thus Hubert M. Bassett of the New York Central, testifying before the public service and transit commissions, succinctly describes the commuter.

Among the animal's distinguishing peculiarities he notes a tendency to "rush through the station." But at the same time Mr. Bassett would have the commissioners believe that the commuter should pay a greater part of the return in the huge investment of the Grand Central than he actually does.

The two ideas do not seem to mix. As far as concerns the commuter, he could do with much less in station facilities. The waiting rooms know him not. The baggage rooms never see him. He calls at the ticket window once in every 55 trips, on the average. He asks no questions at the information booth.

To the contrary of the prevailing comic idea, he rarely staggers under the weight of a parcel larger than an occasional book or box of candy. He needs no porters. He gets on and off his trains with the rapid precision of long drill, and those trains do not have to stand in the terminals for very long.

In fact, were it not for the occasional lingering of the bridge players in the smoking car over a crucial hand, for a minute and a half or so after the last stop, one could hardly see where the commuter makes any heavy call on terminal facilities, in proportion to what he pays the railroad.

MENTAL HYGIENE.

A NEW YORK commission on mental hygiene of school children has worked out a series of questions for the children to answer. Among the questions are the following:

Do you study for competent knowledge of each day's assignment, or do you follow one of three defective practices:
a. Neglecting some lessons.
b. Studying all inadequately.
c. Neglecting all.

Are you intellectually curious, that is, are you often interested enough to discover more than your lessons require, or do you study only what is required of you?

Do you concentrate intently when studying, or is your study often interrupted by day dreaming, or other distractions?

Do you study in a quiet, undisturbed place, or do you study where family interruptions or outside noises tend to interfere?

Do you prepare your lessons, written or otherwise, by yourself, or do you usually or often depend on getting material from friends?

Do you make use of odd time, as on the way to school, or at the start of a period, for reviewing special lesson points, or do you waste odd moments?

Do you take down your home assignments or do you trust to memory?

Do you have some favorite hobby, or are you at a loss to use your free time to advantage?

Do you have an hour or more out of doors every day, or do you spend all your free time inside?

Do you continuously take part in different athletic sports?

When recreations or other activities conflict with studies do you study first or do you play first and try to get the studying later?

Do your outside activities tend to improve your personality or are they principally concerned with increasing your pleasures?

Are your friends and companions mostly of a sort whom you can respect and admire, or are they frivolous and purposeless?

Do you have time enough for breakfast, or do you have to bolt your food?

Does your breakfast include well selected items [a balanced diet], or is it poorly selected or insufficient?

Are you usually on time in keeping appointments, or do people have to wait for you?

Do you arise in time to follow a set routine before school, or are you hurried, and is the program carried out haphazard?

By means of the answers to these and other questions the teachers lay the foundation for an estimate of the pupil's mental capacity, his mental type, and his training. They build on this foundation, not only in teaching book learning, but in putting the child into society.

MAYBE IT IS PINWORMS.

A mother writes: May I suggest to L. H. C., who writes of her 12 year old boy's restlessness at night, that perhaps he has pinworms? This trouble would make a nervous child frantic. After he becomes restless, turn on the light suddenly and search in the area surrounding the buttocks for little threadlike worms one-third to one-half inch in length. Use enema of salt solution or tea made of quassia chips.

I should like to tell you what helped my winter itch. After bath, rinse with clear water. Wipe all the skin surface with water containing a tablespoon of vinegar.

IT DEPENDS ON KNEES.

Constant Reader writes: I was much interested in the man of 51 who can walk 8 and 10 miles a day. I am 68 and all my life have walked much, but now my knees pain so much after a short walk that I am forced to give it up. X-ray shows padding between bones of knees is deteriorated. Can anything be done to help that?

REPLY.

I don't know of anything you can do to improve your knees. Walk as much as your knees will stand.

FALLING HAIR.

J. R. writes:

1. I am 30 years old. What can be done to prevent hair from falling out?
2. Is olive oil good?

REPLY.

1. Wash the scalp with soap and water several times a week. Brush the hair vigorously several times a day.
2. It may help, particularly if the hair is very dry after washing.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letters to this department must be signed with names and addresses of writers.

CLEANER'S LIABILITY.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I sent a four dollar pair of gloves to the cleaner. When I called for them they were ruined. Upon calling this to their attention they stated they could not help it. Are they liable for the damage? A. R.

They are liable for the value unless they can prove that the destruction was without their fault. Undoubtedly the amount involved is too small to make court proceedings worth while.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CASUAL EMPLOYMENT.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Would a property owner who hires a man to do odd jobs [such as putting up screens or repairing the roof] be responsible in any way if the man should meet with an accident while working? 2. Does it make any difference if the man is hired by the hour or by the job? C. W. E.

1. Not unless the property owner is in some way to blame. Merely casual employments are expressly excepted from the workman's compensation act.
2. No. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

TRAFFIC LIGHTS.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—[Friend of the People.]—Isn't it possible to have "stop and go" lights installed at Archer and Damen avenues and 35th and Damen, as these corners are dangerous to cross since Damen avenue has been opened for traffic going north of Archer? Several accidents have occurred which would have been prevented if there had been lights. G. W. K.

A survey will be made of traffic conditions at Archer and Damen avenues and at 35th street and Damen avenue and request for "stop and go" signals given due consideration. JOSEPH J. BUTLER, Superintendent of Streets.

WELL—TAKE POETRY—FRINSTANCE!

Those of us who are not overly enthusiastic over the success of the 18th amendment have sometimes wondered if the hoot of the scofflaws that great poems, great pictures, and great works of prose could not be produced without a little encouragement from the grape was well founded. A poem which has become the campaign song of the W. C. T. U. was sung at a birthday party given by the drys Friday in honor of little Prohibition reaching the age of eleven. This poem was written, of course, on cold water alone, and is probably the very best that can be produced under such circumstances:

We have a fine organization;
We want you so much to belong.
Just give us your earnest support,
And boost us along in this song.
Join in, join in,
Oh my, but I'm glad I'm in, I'm in,
Join in, join in,
Oh my, but I'm glad I'm in, I'm in.

Now, let us contrast that dry poem with poetry produced before the 18th amendment was put on the books: Keats' Ode on a Grecian Urn, the late Mr. Poe's w. k. Raven, the Soliloquy from Hamlet by the English writer, W. Shakespeare, and Lord Byron's Childe Harold or Herr Goethe's Faust. Personally we enjoy the writings of the authors we have named better than we do the W. C. T. U. poem. However, that is merely our personal opinion.

CHASM.

Your ways were never my ways . . .
I love the gypsy lights
That wander homelessly abroad
On dark blue autumn nights.

I am fond of ragged songs
Patched tight with shining stars;
I preserve last summer's dreams,
Not fruit, within my jars.

You would like your hearth well swept,
And candles in the pane,
While I'd be in the woods somewhere,
A-dancing in the rain!

HELEN WELSHIMER.

HEY! YOU Good News of Good Times Boys, lissen! Up around Fairmount, Minn., the barbers have been charging the farmers two bushels of oats for a haircut. Now they'll cut hair for a bushel. Gosh, boys, doesn't that show that old man Depression is getting a swift kick in the pants! Hop to it, fellows.

WHAT'S THIS! WHAT'S THIS! Rumor in the papers Saturday that Uncle Andy Mellon is going to resign. Tush, tush, and arrant nonsense! We would as soon think of the Washington monument resigning! Or the great dome of the capitol asking for a day off! Or the Potomac river putting in for two weeks' vacation! Or the Smithsonian institution saying, please, can it go to Europe for a much needed rest? Uncle Andy resign? How perfectly silly!

CLARA BOW seems to be definitely out of "City Streets," but she should worry! With all the front page publicity she should run for President in 1932. And she'd probably draw an amazingly big vote at that, our sovereign voters being inclined to do most surprising things.

A DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS has been awarded a veteran of Dayton, O., for extraordinary heroism displayed at Château Thierry thirteen years ago. They are working along down in Washington. Gosh, wait until they get up to the battle of San Michele! And when they find out about the Argonne! And the armistice! Well, as Cleopatra said to Henry VIII., "Gee, they don't know nuthin' yet!"

THE FINANCIAL COMMENTATORS are howling because the farm board, in keeping American wheat out of the world market, is helping the Canadian farmer instead of the American. But they can't convince the Democrats; it'll take a lot more than that to make them believe that the farm board is helping anybody.

MARGINAL NOTES OF A VAGRANT YEAR.

R. H. L.: . . . the majesty of a little river in the springtime when the vernal torrents make a mill race of her course and the wands of the naked willows are animated by a cadence that the mightiest of seas can never possess . . . the beauty of that little river in the long summer evenings when fireflies, following the requiem of a cardinal, come out of their places of concealment in the thickets, and fancy, led on beyond the circular frontier of a camp fire by these will-o'-the-wisps, wanders unafraid through a saraband of silhouettes and finds kinship with the voices of the night . . . the tranquil sadness of that little river, when the understandable call of mallard to mallard, born of the drab autumnal rains, is time's most certain tocsin, and her waters bear down to that which is ever beyond, the colored tears of the dying woods . . . that communion with the silences which only a little river can lift one's spirit to, as she shelters a frightened rabbit, there beneath a clump of elders, from the whips of a driving snow, while the wind-swept naked trees lean close to her in earnest supplication. . . .

THAT FELLA DOWN IN STREATOR.

LAGNIAPPE.

A BUTCHER in Pittsburgh threw a steak at a robber who was about to hold him up and the steak was so hard and tough that the bandit was knocked senseless. 'S nuthin'! We've seen steaks so hard and tough in Pittsburgh that we had a notion to have the waiter that brought 'em to us arrested for assault with a deadly weapon.

HOORAY! Monday morning—great excitement—daisies won't tell—Otell they won't! She gets back on the witness stand today, and, whoop's my dear! she'll tell an earful! R. H. L.

PROHIBITION

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 19, 1915.

PETROGRAD.—Correspondents with the Russian army in the Caucasus send stories of the terrible plight of the retreating Turks after the defeat of the Turkish 11th corps in the Kara-Urgan region. In one stretch of woods the Russians found the bodies of 9,000 Turks who had frozen to death, still grasping their rifles.

OTHER WAR NEWS.—The German official report claims decisive gains at La Boisselle in the north and in the Argonne. For the last 72 hours severe fighting has been in progress at the former point, and the fighting in the Argonne is declared to have been of the most deadly character. In Rome the pope in a special decree set two days for special services and prayers for peace throughout Christendom. The Russians repulsed German attacks on the Warsaw front in Poland, and regained some trenches they had previously lost. A Petrograd dispatch to London says Russian troops in Transylvania are moving rapidly westward.

CHICAGO.—M. Eugene Brieux, one of the forty "immortals" of the French academy, reached Chicago for a six day visit. He and his wife are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Channon, 1434 Astor street.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 19, 1901.

LONDON.—All England is alarmed over Queen Victoria's condition. Gravest information comes from a high medical authority at Osborne in regard to her health. The queen has given up all business matters and her private secretary announced that her physicians insist on perfect quiet. Her majesty's visit to France has been abandoned and the nearest members of the royal family, including the prince of Wales and the Princess Louise, have canceled all their engagements and may go to Osborne tomorrow. Queen Victoria was born in 1819 and ascended the throne in 1837.

WASHINGTON.—The senate passed the bill reorganizing the army by a vote of 43 to 23. Under it the strength of the military forces is to vary from 60,000 to 100,000 as the President may determine. The army will consist of one lieutenant general, six major generals, fifteen brigadier generals, the usual staff departments, fifteen regiments of cavalry, twelve regiments of artillery, thirty regiments of infantry, engineer, signal and ordnance corps, a corps of chaplains and the military academy.

PARIS.—The list of decorations of the Legion of Honor bestowed upon Americans in connection with the Paris exposition was made public, and it includes several Chicagoans. They are, with their ranks: Milward Adams, chevalier; Mrs. Potter Palmer, chevalier; William Deering, officer; Franklin H. Head, chevalier; F. J. V. Skiff, officer; F. W. Rice, chevalier; Willard A. Smith, chevalier; A. G. Spalding, chevalier; Edward Holbrook, chevalier; and Cyrus H. McCormick, officer.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 19, 1881.

LONDON.—The prince of Wales will attend the marriage tomorrow of Leopold de Rothschild, youngest son of the late Baron Lionel de Rothschild, and Miss Perugia of Trieste, which will be solemnized in the Central synagogue, Great Portland street, London, by the Rev. Rabbi Ahgreen. It is expected there will be more than 1,000 spectators and that the line of carriages will be more than three miles long. Five hundred pounds is to be distributed among the Jewish poor of London and a like amount among the Jewish poor of Vienna.

NEW YORK.—At the second annual meeting of the Hotel Men's Mutual Benefit association George S. Adams of the Metropolitan hotel of New York was elected president, and F. W. Rice of Chicago secretary and treasurer. Among other Chicagoans attending were C. C. Hilton of the Sherman house and Alvin Hulbert.

CHICAGO.—These officers were elected by the Western Society of Engineers: President, E. S. Chesbrough; vice presidents, Moses Lane and De Witt C. Cregier; secretary, L. P. Morehouse; treasurer, Charles Fitzsimons; librarian, J. W. Weston, and trustee, R. J. McClure.

DRY FOR DEMOCRACY.

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 13.—I wish to comment on the widely reported statement of Mayor Heffernan of Youngstown, O., in which he gives his experience in trying to make Youngstown a clean and law-abiding city. He brings out that the American people face a terrific problem in urbanization. Our laws, our administration, our opinions, were made by and for small pioneer groups. They break down entirely when transferred to big cities. "Corrupt and cynical cities," says Mayor Heffernan, "will lead to government collapse in the nation." The old idealism is gone. In its place we have the racket for wealth.

As early as 1896 Lord Bryce pointed out that our big cities were our failures in democracy. But the case was not so serious then, for the great countryside mind still dominated the nation. But today the big cities are coming to a point where they wish to dominate. A grave danger is that wet forces, either desiring the millions in liquor back, or wishing to get rid of prohibition because the drys send too many outsiders to congress who cannot be controlled, are trying to lay the ills of urbanization to prohibition. Remove prohibition and corruption will be removed. They forget that Lord Bryce found corruption worse confounded in our cities in 1896, long before there was any prohibition.

It is plain we have never had a democracy fitted to cope with the corrupt, lawless, and cynical city sidewalks. We have got to get such a democracy or go under. Repeal of prohibition makes the coming of the day when we can put fiber and idealism into our big cities much farther away. E. H. TILTON.

LOVE.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—Schipa says the Italians love Il Duce; yes, they love him so much that they are leaving Italy by the thousands, on foot, climbing the Alps in the most dangerous passes at the risk of their lives, and many actually never get through the border of Switzerland or France. They have been shot down by Mussolini's black shirts or have fallen to their death in the glaciers, all this to get away as fast as they could from the inferno Mussolini has created for the people in the land of Mazzini and Garibaldi. If all this you call love I then tell you—sing, Tito, sing!

FRANK BIANCHI.

TO MacCARTY.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—Why Anglicize the Italian name Tito Schipa when the English language is already Italianized, being composed of two-thirds of Italian words? Furthermore, changing the name to Titus Sheepa, as Mr. MacCarty suggests, would make it a typical Roman name! Furthermore, Tito Schipa is a tenor and not a baritone!

JOHN BERTINI.

BRITISH BENEVOLENCE.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—As to Ireland's share in the conquests of the British empire, I prefer to let history speak and to ask your correspondent, Mr. Elsan, to do a little reading. He quotes Kitchener and Roberts as Irishmen. Let me quote Kitchener when "accused" of being Irish: "A man does not necessarily have to be an ass because he is born in a stable." How beautifully English and benevolent.

T. E. HARDY, M. A., M. D.

MORTGAGE INTEREST.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—Like other financial editors of the daily press, the writer of your editorial of Jan. 5, calling attention to the necessity of amending our present state mortgage laws, ignored the phase of the mortgage problem which most needs adjustment.

Admittedly some of our foreclosure laws dating back to 1845 do not agree with our present developed commercial machinery and urgently need a sound revision. That, however, affects the liquidation phase only. How about the revision of our standard interest rates of 6 or 7 per cent which antedate 1845 in origin and which are totally disproportionate to the commercial and economic progress made in the last few decades? These rates were a product of the simple individualistic era of life. No wonder we are experiencing such a severe depression. The lenders as well as investors of their surplus idle money seem to possess a 6 or 7 per cent interest rate complex. Dividends and incomes are generally measured by those old, time worn, arbitrary standards. Bondholders and mortgagees will sooner agree to a reduction in the principal of their indebtedness due them than cut the rate of interest on the principal.

Patching up our state mortgage laws with amendments will in no way cure our present serious mortgage ills. For immediate relief and readjustment of our mortgage problems what really is needed is practical and concerted action on the part of the lenders. Those among us who have surplus idle money available for long term investment should be willing to receive reduced rates of interest to the end that a more humane economic relationship shall exist between lender and borrower based upon economic necessities rather than arbitrary conventional standards.

SOLOMON LETTVIN.

WET AND DRY IN THE CARTOONS.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—Mr. Orr represents prohibitionists as unkempt grouches, while he represents the wets as clean and intelligent. This, as you know, is is no way a truthful representation.

I know plenty of people who are of the very best type of citizenship in every way who are drys. On the other hand, I defy you to send out a man to approach ten, or fifty, of the crummiest, filthiest, grouchiest bums on the street and ask them if they are wet or dry.

I, of course, know that there are many good citizens who are opposed to prohibition, but at the same time all the lowest element is opposed to it.

C. C. MILLER.

SCHOOL BOARD CHAUFFEURS.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—I notice in today's TRIBUNE that the school board trustees are including in their budget for 1931 salaries for eight chauffeurs at $200 per month each. You can hire the best for $150 per month and there are many looking for jobs who I dare say would be glad of the job at from $100 to $125 per month. It would not be hard for a taxpayer to think that each one of these $200 chauffeurs had to donate about $50 each month to some politician, as most of the political jobs seem to have to be paid for in these days. I heard today of a school teacher who was asked $200 for a job as teacher.

WESTINGHOUSE—the amazing new electric refrigerator—is now available in Chicago.

This latest and most brilliant achievement of those Master Minds of Electricity dispels forever the idea that electric refrigeration is an expense.

The new WESTINGHOUSE is not an expense. It more than pays for itself. Actually you can save $50 to $150 every year over less modern methods.

We have evidence to support this statement that will startle you. Phone for proof now.

A product of 12 years' research

WESTINGHOUSE engineers, whose feats with electricity have amazed the world, devoted 12 years to the perfection of this refrigerator.

In addition, they enlisted the aid of several hundred talented housewives. The practical ideas of these kitchen-wise women have been combined with WESTINGHOUSE engineering genius.

The result is a "Completely Balanced" refrigerator with revolutionary new improvements. New labor-saving convenience! New scientific ideals of food preservation!

There are no over-emphasized features. No sacrificing of efficiency to gain spectacular effects. Here is a refrigerator built to render maximum service at minimum cost. It is a startling revelation of economy.

CHICAGO BRIDGE OPENINGS CUT 25 PCT. IN 1930

But Traffic Is Still Delayed 5,769 Hours.

Pedestrians and vehicular traffic gained some relief from tiresome waits at open bridges during 1930 in comparison with the delays experienced in 1929. Comparative figures made public by Harbormaster Charles J. Agnew show that the city's 53 bridges opened a total of 91,786 times last year, a decrease of 25 per cent from the 122,722 openeds of 1929.

Officials credited the reduction to two factors. One was the strict enforcement of a city ordinance extending the periods when the bridges must remain closed to accommodate rush hour traffic. The new ordinance, which was put into effect early last summer, has tended to curb promiscuous bridge openings for inconsequential craft.

Water in River Lower.

The other element in the decrease, officials said, was that the water level in the river did not rise as high in 1930 as during the summer of 1929. During the latter period the bridge clearances sometimes were reduced to less than 14 feet, necessitating a number of openings for low boats that ordinarily could clear the bridge beams.

To the pedestrians and motorists who have waited impatiently at the open spans for a tug, sand scow or freighter to pass through, the report shows a great amount of wasted time, although the number of openings was reduced. The 91,786 openings consumed 346,179 minutes, or 5,769 hours, or 240 days, which is 68 per cent of a year. In 1929 the openings consumed 301 2-3 days.

Operating Costs Grow.

The costs of operating continued to swell during 1930 as they have in the last six years. Some of the increase was credited by officials to the operation of new bridges and a part was credited to a raise in the salaries of bridgetenders. The number of openings and the costs of operation for the years since 1924 are as follows:

| | Openings. | Cost. |
|---|---|---|
| 1925 | 94,686 | $701,731 |
| 1926 | 94,433 | 704,810 |
| 1927 | 94,908 | 784,210 |
| 1928 | 105,009 | 837,432 |
| 1929 | 122,772 | 860,500 |
| 1930 | 91,786 | 876,686 |

The semi-monthly reports of bridgetenders note most often the names of four sand boats as calling for openings. They are the Brazil, owned by the Marine Dredge and Gravel company; the Sandmaster, owned by the Construction Materials company; the Gilbert, owned by the Lake Sand corporation, and the American, owned by the American Sand and Gravel company but now operated by the Construction Materials company.

The performance of the downtown bridges has been the source of complaints to the city from loop workers and shoppers. The following table shows the 1930 openings of the downtown bridges with the average number of minutes required for each opening:

| Bridges— | Openings. | Minutes. |
|---|---|---|
| Michigan | 2,131 | 4.30 |
| State | 2,661 | 4.16 |
| Dearborn | 2,194 | 3.57 |
| Wells | 2,191 | 4.50 |
| Clark | 2,009 | 3.68 |
| Franklin | 2,176 | 3.16 |
| Lake | 2,683 | 3.67 |
| Randolph | 2,537 | 3.25 |
| Washington | 2,547 | 3.00 |
| Madison | 2,557 | 3.26 |
| Monroe | 2,548 | 3.13 |
| Adams | 2,546 | 3.19 |
| Jackson | 2,559 | 3.22 |
| Van Buren | 2,925 | 3.28 |
| La Salle | 2,637 | 4.00 |
| *Wabash | 26 | 3.14 |

*Opened Dec. 26, 1930.

The other two bridges opened last year, besides the Wabash avenue span, are the South Damen avenue bridge and the 130th street bridge. The former has been in operation since Nov. 1, 1930, and the latter since Sept. 25. The 130th street bridge holds the record for the length of openings with an average of 18 minutes for 209 openings.

BRAZIL MAY BUY 11 ITALIAN PLANES WITH 55,000 BAGS OF COFFEE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 18.—Official circles here have confirmed the report that a Brazilian commission will study the proposed purchase by the government of all of the eleven Italian seaplanes which flew here from Europe under the leadership of Gen. Italo Balbo. The machines would be paid for with 55,000 bags of coffee. Other circles claim that such an agreement has already been concluded. Simultaneously it is reported that the Dornier-Wahl company has made an offer to sell planes to the Brazilian government and take coffee as payment.

FLYING DECK TO REVOLUTIONIZE FIGHTING SHIPS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—World naval construction may be revolutionized as the result of the building of the flying deck cruiser included in the Britten warship authorization bill now awaiting congressional approval.

Should this measure become law the attention of naval experts of every power will be focused during the next few years on the construction of this vessel.

The flying deck cruiser represents a real innovation in surface vessel construction. It will be the first ship that has been built as a combined cruiser and carrier, a dual purpose ship.

This new entrant among the world's fighting ships was born of the London conference.

While the designs for the new vessels will not be perfected for some time it is known these ships will be more than 600 feet in length, have a speed of around 33 knots, mount probably nine 6 inch guns, carry from 24 to 48 airplanes and weigh 10,000 tons.

The flying deck will be somewhat more than 250 feet in length.

MUSICIAN KILLS SELF.

Robert Sackman, 31 years old, 416 South Utica street, Waukegan, a musician, shot and killed himself late Saturday night. His body was found in the garage of his brother-in-law, John Daluga, of 533 South Utica street.

Bandits Kill Taxi Firm Cashier; Fail to Get Funds

New York, Jan. 18.—[Special.]—Four thugs, thwarted by a policeman in an attempt to steal the Saturday night taxi receipts at the garage of the Keystone Transportation company, killed John Moore, the cashier, and escaped.

do You Know?

Frankly this is an item about Acute Indigestion. Wait! Not interested? Do you know this very night scores of homes will be visited by this dread annoyance? In many of these homes there will be suffering. Yet in others relief will come—Six Bell-ans in Hot water. Bell-ans is such a little thing to remember . . . Yet, if you keep on forgetting it indefinitely, you're bound to be sorry some day.

FIVE PRISONERS SAW WAY OUT OF SOUTH BEND JAIL

Two of Them Recaptured, One a Slayer.

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Five men escaped from the county jail today, after sawing two iron bars from a cell window and using them as weapons to force Turnkey Henry Claeys to give them the keys. Two have been caught.

The captured men are Herbert Smith, 35, Negro, held for slaying his wife, and Cletus Corey, 19, awaiting trial for automobile theft. Still at large are Francis Luca, 19, and Howard Miller, 18, both charged with automobile act violation, and Edward O'Brien, 36, charged with store and bank robberies.

Escape at Breakfast Hour.

The break occurred just after the prisoners had finished breakfast. The clatter of silverware and dishes enabled the prisoners to saw the bars.

They got to Turnkey Claeys' office, forced him to turn over his keys, then handcuffed him and walked out of the jail. There were 27 men in the cell block, but 22 of them refused to leave.

A restaurant keeper across from the jail saw the quintet emerge and notified city police. About the same time Claeys called Sheriff Walter Fagin. The latter summoned about 100 deputies and city and state police joined the search.

Two Soon Captured.

Smith was caught in a woods by a detective squad under Horace Hamilton and Lieut. Rex Rixher. Corey was captured nearby. Both were headed for the New York Central tracks.

O'Brien is said by Claeys to have been the ringleader of the band. He is from Chicago and is accused of having robbed nine stores at Osceola, Ind., and to have included postage stamps in his loot. Federal authorities also charge him with robbing a national bank.

Thief Who Shot Former Chief Collins Caught Again

John Thiel, 49 years old, 1411 West Monroe street, was captured early yesterday after he had broken into a meat shop at 1443 West Madison street and was removing a quantity of pork. In 1922 Thiel shot Capt. Morgan Collins, who later became chief of police, in an attempt to hold him up while Collins was off duty. Collins shot and captured him and Thiel was sent to the penitentiary, being paroled in 1928.

600 PACIFISTS FROM 44 STATES MEET IN WASHINGTON TODAY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—More than 600 delegates representing 44 states, are expected in Washington tomorrow for the opening of the sixth national conference on the cause and cure of war.

Eleven national women's organizations will participate in the sessions, which will have as their principal aim the development of ways and means of crippling the nation's defenses and completing the demobilization of what they term "the war machine."

Ranking army and navy officials will appear on the same programs with pacifists and peace at any price agitators. Among the speakers who will present reasons why the nation must maintain an adequate army and navy will be Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations; Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol, chairman of the executive committee of the navy general board, and Edward P. Warner, former assistant secretary of the navy in charge of aeronautics.

In a previous message to a similar peace group Admiral Pratt warned that only by maintaining a fleet equal to that of Great Britain could the United States retain a choice as to whether or not it should be plunged into the next world war.

Miss Jane Addams of the International League for Peace and Freedom, a leading pacifist organization, and Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt will also be speakers.

THIS CONDUCTOR CALLS GUNMAN'S BLUFF AND WINS

Lawrence Lingier, 6617½ South Ashland avenue, demonstrated his courage last night, even if his thrilling adventure did end in an anticlimax.

Lingier is a conductor for the surface lines. His car was jangling west in 63d street when Carmie Arcia, 57 years old, 6205 South Washtenaw avenue, got aboard at Racine avenue. There was a threatening glint in his eye. All the seats were occupied. Arcia became argumentative—the entire length of the crowded car, and finally, standing at the front, drew a revolver.

A dozen seats were immediately at his disposal, as terrified passengers fled to the rear. Arcia waved his gun. Several men leaped to the street from the back platform of the moving car. Arcia brandished the gun again. Several more jumped. At Ashland avenue the car was deserted save for Arcia and Lingier, who stuck with his car. He pleaded with Arcia, but Arcia responded with a threat. Eventually the Chicago Lawn police arrived and collared Arcia. They praised Lingier for his bravery.

But Arcia's revolver was not loaded.

FATHER OF SLAIN GIRL KILLS MAN, HAS NO REGRETS

Texan Shoots Married Suitor of Daughter.

Port Arthur, Tex., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Maintaining steadfastly he had "done nothing to regret," A. B. Johnson, 40, oil refinery foreman, kept close silence today while officers could offer only their theory that a father's idea of retribution prompted the fatal shooting last night of Otis Lee Adams, 22. Johnson was at liberty under $10,000 bond today charged with the murder.

Johnson refused to say why he slew Adams, an occasional companion of Johnson's 16 year old daughter, Elizabeth, who died of a mysterious bullet wound three weeks ago.

Johnson's daughter was found shot to death Dec. 28 in an automobile in front of the First Methodist Church, South. Robert L. Williams, sophomore at the University of Texas and son of the Rev. H. W. Williams, presiding elder of the Austin district of the Methodist church, said he had taken her to the church, hoping the pastor would be able to effect a reconciliation in a lover's quarrel between the boy and girl. He said he found the girl dead when he returned to the machine. He was charged with murder, but released when a grand jury refused to indict him.

Police Chief M. B. Word today gave his explanation of the shooting:

"Adams had been going with Miss Johnson, as had Williams, although Williams had been away at school.

"When Williams learned she had been going with Adams—a married man—he objected. I am not going to speculate as to the motive Mr. Johnson had where his daughter is involved. He is widely respected and well liked here."

MISSOURI TROOPS ARE CALLED OUT, BUT NO NEGRO MOB APPEARS

Maryville, Mo., Jan. 18.—(AP)—A Sabbath calm today prevailed in Maryville, little northwest Missouri college town where an armed citizenry last night patroled the streets in answer to an unverified rumor that a group of Negroes intended vengeance for the lynching of Raymond Gunn on Jan. 12.

At the request of Mayor W. O. Garrett, Gov. Henry S. Caulfield also called out a local company of the National guard. The guard was demobilized at 5 a. m. today when no raiders appeared.

The rumors that resulted in the whites seizing firearms started with receipt of a telephone call by Mrs. L. L. Edwards. She said an "Alice Ward" of St. Joseph, Mo., had informed her of a rumor that several automobile loads of Negroes had departed for Maryville from St. Joseph and Kansas City.

BUTLER'S 'ONLY 8 REAL' COLLEGES STIRS SAVANTS

New York, Jan. 18.—[Special.]—Heads of higher educational institutions in the metropolitan district agreed and disagreed today with the statement of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, to the effect that there are not more than eight "real" universities in the United States.

Chancellor Elmer Ellsworth Brown of New York university, who was in accord with Dr. Butler when he proposed recently in his annual report an "academic athletic league of nations" to rule college athletics, declined to comment on Dr. Butler's latest pronouncement.

Dr. Frederick B. Robinson, president of the City College of New York, took issue, in part at least, with Dr. Butler's statement while pointing out it was not intended for general consumption.

"Dr. Butler is, in my opinion, the ablest university president we have," said President Robinson. "It is unfortunate, therefore, that an unimportant address to some of his own alumni should be played up as though he were making a startling announcement of something new to a wider audience.

"Even the novice in education knows that in many places there are haircutting and horseshoeing schools that call themselves colleges, but among educators there is a generally accepted definition of a college—namely: an institution of higher learning which requires four years secondary schooling [or about 15 college entrance units] for admission and which is equipped with buildings, library, faculty and finances, so as to conduct satisfactory work in the liberal arts and sciences leading to a baccalaureate degree at the end of four years.

"In the United States there are more than 500 such institutions with very satisfactory standards and some 100 other weaker colleges."

Let milk help you

S-T-R-E-T-C-H
Your Food Dollars

Reduced food budgets have taught thousands the way to live better on less money.

A leading food expert in the east, writes how families of four can be well fed on $9 a week. And her specimen $9 budget provides $3.14 for milk—over a third of the food allowance for milk—the most valuable single food for all the family. So complete in its nourishment that one can live on it alone.

The children of course should drink milk with every meal. They must have the minerals and vitamins that milk supplies, if they are to keep growing. And what they lose now they may never make up.

Adults keep up health and strength on a diet that includes plenty of milk. Milk dishes are sustaining . . . they "stick to the ribs." Milk actually contains more solids than vegetables and almost as much as meat.

Milk makes everything taste better, too . . . cereals, soups, vegetables, gravies, puddings. A quart of milk per day for each member of the family is the first step toward saving safely on food.

If you have no regular milkman, get in touch with us by phone or letter, and your neighborhood Borden Milkman will call.

. . . Do your children drink enough milk? . . .

Mothers worry, and rightly so, when children do not drink enough milk.

Every child should drink a quart of milk a day.

Milk is the chief supply of calcium, which builds firm teeth and strong bones. Contains vitamins, too.

Make milk drinking more tempting in your home by serving "Selected" Milk.

Children love its "Sweet Natural Taste." So do grown ups.

To produce a better milk for drinking, we pay a liberal bonus to 105 farmers, and surround it with extra care at every step.

"Selected" now costs only 16 cents a Quart.

Try it! It's great! And make milk drinking more enjoyable in your home.

THE LONG LOOP

BY B. M. BOWER

INSTALLMENT I.
SUCKERS.

With a savage twist of his high bootheel, Dix Larrabee ground his half smoked cigaret into the scuffed dirt before the bunkhouse porch.

"And I had to set there and listen to that blank, blank, blankety-blank perjure himself a mile deep. Looked the judge right in the eye and testified under oath to things he made up outa whole cloth. He got away with it, too."

"Dix, you knowed Owen Gray—or you ought to of knowed him—before you ever sunk a dollar in his oil well." It was evident that the owner of the hay drawl was trying to be just and impartial; evident, too, that he believed friendship should be brutally frank and never mind the sympathy. "You know as well as I do that the hull O T outfit is so crooked they have to build their beds in the shape of a letter S. Old Owen Gray was the biggest crook no'th of Texas. How did you figure young Owen was liable to be square?" Mart pried off the corner of a plug of tobacco and turned it against his left cheek.

"Aw, dry up," his boss grumbled. "You believed in him enough to sink all your back wages in Graypoint Oil, recollect. You're stung for three hundred yourself."

"Yeah, and that's only half of it. I'm going to git it back, if I have to take it outa Owen's hide."

"Well, you can't cash his hide in at any bank. Just remember that, Mart."

"That bird needs killin', that's all, Mart observed judicially. "How much yuh sunk, all told—if that's a fair question?"

"Enough to put us on the rocks," said Dix gloomily.

"Well, if the price of beef holds up—say the cattle didn't go into that oil well, did they, Dix?"

"They will," Dix reluctantly admitted, "soon as the mortgage comes due at the bank."

"Mean you went to work and put a plaster on the Coffeepots and gave the money to that blankety-blank——" Mart went the limit of his vocabulary.

"When a man gets the oil fever," Dix observed, "he most generally goes hog wild. You did. So did old Tom and Minny—and when you see lajuns swept off their feet what chance has a white man got? I'd a mortgaged the home ranch, only Gram got her neck bowed and wouldn't sign anything. All I got to say is that the old Coffeepots will sure have to do some tall stepping to keep up the interest and pay off that mortgage. That ain't saying a word about how they'll keep Chuck going."

"Write to him to come on home!" Mart spat into the dust of the yard. "He don't need no college education to punch cows. You're gittin' along without one, I notice.

"O, yeah, I'm gittin' along—toward the poorhouse!" Dix crossed his legs the other way and tapped one boot toe in dismal meditation.

"You was gittin' along fine until you went and fell for that Graypoint Oil frameup."

"Frameup is right. Owen Gray ought be on the road to the pen right now. Claims he's as broke as the rest of us suckers—but you don't see any signs of it. Sure had the price of a slick lawyer from Omaha to defend him. Walked outa the courtroom with his hands stuck in his pockets and that sarcastic grin on his face, and left us poor saps holding the bag. Got into his shiny new car and drove off—and his stockholders could swallow his dust and be damned. His defense was that they drilled in good faith, spent all the money in the treasury, and got a duster."

"They never spent no hundred thousand dollars on that hole in the ground."

"Well, they claim they did. They read off a lot of figures that were supposed to show where the money went to. They got away with it," Dix went on. "Slick—and clean. Owen can hell around the country in a six thousand dollar car and I can maybe scrape up enough for a blowout patch for the old Lizzie." Dix pushed back his big hat and laughed bitterly. "Mind how we was goin' to clean up a million, Mart? I was going back and put in the winter close to where Chuck's learning medicine. I was going to take Gram along and give her a taste of high life before she's too old to get around and see things."

Dix rose abruptly and hitched his belt up. "Well, no use belly-achin' about it now. They cleaned us suckers till we can't afford to fight the case through a higher court, and if we did, it ain't likely we could get any of our money back. They sure put a big dent in the Coffeepots that time, old socks, but we'll take it standing, I reckon."

"Not much! Standin' nor settin', I don't take nothin' like that off'n the O T outfit." Mart sat where he was, humped forward with a stick in his hand, drawing brands in the dust between his feet. "O T" he printed, digging the hated brand deep into the dirt as his stick followed the markings again and again. "O T"—the letters just the size of the brand worn on the ribs of thousands of cattle feeding on the high prairies over there to the west of where he sat. "You might take it and like it," he said, without looking up, "but they can't pull anything like that on me! The stick poised, hesitating over the brand between his feet. "Ner on you, neither, Dix, if you had any guts."

"You know darn well I wouldn't stand for a thing more than I have to, Mart. I could tear into Owen Gray—sure I could. And what would that get me? It wouldn't lift the mortgage on the cattle, would it? It wouldn't keep Chuck in Johns Hopkins till he got his sheepskin and could set himself up as a doctor, would it?" Mart's hat brim hid his face. The stick dipped and began to add other marks to the O T brand there in the dust. Careful marks, made slowly and with precision.

In the act of rolling a cigaret Dix let his discouraged glance follow that deliberate, slow tracing. Suddenly he stiffened, the tobacco sack swinging by its string held between his teeth. His eyes narrowed, watching with attention the slow progress of the stick in Mart's steady fingers.

Mart, having finished what he was doing, pushed his big hat back and stared up into the eyes of his boss. He did not speak a word. Dix sucked in his breath sharply through his teeth, straightened one leg, and dragged the side of his boot toe through Mart's drawing.

"You cut that out!" Dix spoke low, but his voice carried the sting of a quirt.

Mart's eyes hardened and his jaw looked stiff and lumpy. For a minute he continued to look up at Dix, then tossed the stick away with the turn of the wrist that was vaguely contemptuous.

"Hell, have I said anything?"

"You don't have to. Actions speak louder than words sometimes."

Mart rolled himself a smoke, taking his time and not once lifting his eyes from the work of his deft fingers. Only his mouth was visible to Dix, and he studied that curiously. Something in its expression pulled a reluctant admission from him.

"I ain't saying that Owen hasn't got it coming to him."

"Yeah, and then some." Mart lifted his foot, scratched a match along the sole and held the flame steadily to his cigaret. "He aimed to break you, Dix. He'd shore like to see that Coffeepots wiped off the range. You may not know it, but Owen Gray's got a big interest in the Graypoint State bank. So if that's where your mortgage is at, look out."

"That may be true, Mart; all of it. But altering brands is plumb outa my line. Think I want to go over the road for ten or fifteen years? That would put the kibosh on Chuck for fair. Nobody'd ever go to a doctor that had a brother in the pen for cattle rustling. Where'd you get the idea, anyway—turning O T into a Coffeepot?"

"Me? I dunno, Dix. Just a happenstance." He let a long ribbon of smoke slide from between his thin lips. "It'd be pickin's, though," he added tentatively. "If it was me, I shore would collect off that outfit—anywhere I could."

Good morning!

KIND: Mystery, adapted from the play "The Bat," by Mary Roberts Rinehardt, and the silent movie "The Bat," made in 1926 by the same company and director who are responsible for the talkie.

ACTING: Peppy.

33 PHOTOGRAPHY: Jittery.

DIRECTION: Lively, with an ear to the ground for gallery squeals.

DIALOGUE: The Sh-h-h-h-h! sort.

SOUND, SETS, LIGHTING, ETC.: Calculatedly spooky.

SUSPENSE: Considerable.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Should go over big with thrill shoppers.

REMARKS: If you haven't seen the play nor the former movie, you're sure to get more of a kick out of "The Bat Whispers" than I did. If you have witnessed either of the former productions, BE NICE! Don't tell your unsuspecting friends who it is that lurks beneath the wings and crimes of that creature so much wanted by the police and known to them and a terrified community as "The Bat."

See you tomorrow.

261 Charities Given O. K. to Work in City; 4 Added This Year

Recommendations of the subscriptions investigating committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce for the year 1931, made public last night, include 261 charitable institutions on its approved list. These charities have annual budgets ranging from $5,000 to $5,000,000. These recommendations take into consideration competent management, economical distribution of funds and a worthy purpose.

The 1931 total of organizations is four larger than that of 1930. Then 257 charities were approved. The organizations added this year are the Chicago Collegiate Bureau of Occupations, Laird Community House, Onward Neighborhood House and Uhlich Evangelical Lutheran Orphan asylum.

Among the larger institutions, having annual appropriations of from $500,000 to $5,000,000 are the United Charities, Young Men's Christian association, Jewish Charities, Catholic Charities, Salvation Army, and several of the larger hospitals.

Has Unique Cane 150 Yrs. Old Made of Whale's Jaw

Aledo, Ill., Jan. 18.—Boyd Turner of Millersburg recently came into possession of a unique cane, at least a hundred and fifty years old. It is made from the jaw bone of a whale. It has a stag handle mounted with silver, and has a silver nameplate on which is engraved the initials A. T., for the original owner, Alexander Turner. A foster-son of this A. Turner had the cane made from the jaw bone of one of the whales which his expedition captured. The cane now passes into the hands of the sixth generation of Turners.

INSTALLMENT XLIX.
THE ADVENTURERS' RETURN.

Whn we were forty miles from Littai the sun went down. At that moment our road lay high in the breast of a hill, and, seeing in the foliage a gap that gave to the west, I brought the car to a standstill and sat looking back to the country from which we had come.

Below us lay new mown meadows, with the swathes as the scythe had left them, in long, straight lines; beyond stood a miniature hamlet which the sober cast of evening was melting into the landscape before our eyes; and far in the distance, overtopping all other country, rose up those sable mountains which kept the bridle path. Above them the sky was flaming, and every peak and ridge stood up a somber monument against the red.

Whilst I was gazing, as though to correct my humor, not twenty feet away a nightingale burst into song. I never found music so grateful and as I listened it seemed to round our venture and add another fable to Aesop's treasury.

Twice over that lonely bird sang his rare song whilst we sat still and heard him and forgot the world. And had he sung for an hour I think we must have waited until he had done, for all his song was for us and, so far as I was concerned, the comfort his notes distilled was beyond all price.

Half an hour later I switched the headlights on, and twenty minutes after we ran through the village of Littai and on to the lodge.

This was open and in order, as though we had but left it that morning and now had returned from fishing some distant stream, for Jameson was a good servant and had left nothing undone which might in his eyes contribute to our relief. The rooms were ready, lighted, and gay with flowers, the table was laid for dinner beneath the limes, and he was waiting as usual to usher us out of the car.

So we came back with the guest he had gone out to seek nine days before.

. . . . . .

And that is all my tale.

When I sought for the artist-spy whom Grieg had employed I found that he had left Littai the day we came back. I can only suppose that he thought his work was accomplished, for no telegram was sent him to bid him return.

What priest it was that married Marya to Grieg we never knew, but I am inclined to think that he belonged to no other parish, but was some hedge priest or other that Grief had found. Be that as it may, so far as I know, the fellow held his tongue, and, indeed, if he had spoken nobody would have listened, for Andrew's wits were failing and the register was gone.

That she should now marry George was only logical, and, though because of her mourning the engagement was not announced, it was an open secret that they would be joined together before the winter was out.

This meant that she would leave Vigil for good and all, and, since my wife now shrank from so much as treading the ground of which her cousin was lord, it seemed unlikely that so long as he lived Leonie and I would ever revisit the country of which she was still the grand duchess, in which she was so much beloved. For this I now was sorry as never before, for I had known how much she meant to the people, and to disregard such a friendship seemed graceless indeed. Yet there was nothing to be done, and I can not pretend that I myself would have cared to enter the country again. Stram and forst, high hill and pasture, city and peeping farm—for me the place stank of its ruler and all his works, and, as I have said, it is to me a mystery how that fine gentleman, Sully, can continue to do his duty on the steps of so degraded a throne.

Though we seldom speak of them, the burden of those nine days will stay with me while I live.

While I live I shall see the garden of Marya's house and the prince, white faced and trembling, against the green; I shall smell the reek of the circus, and see the Jew standing in the horse lines dropping his faithless eyes; I shall see the police officer at Sallust and the faces of the men about me, and shall hear the noisy slam of the door of Grieg's car; I shall see the deadly spinney and the furtive flash of the coachwork and hear the roar of griegs' pistol directly ahead; I shall feel the thrash of the mill race upon my back and see standing out of the darkness the sheaf of foam; I shall see the flame of the shot that took Lelia's life and Grieg's hands slipping from the girder from which he fell.

And out of the stress and tumult of which these things were part will rise up for me two figures—the one so close upon the other that sometimes they seem one flesh. Both came for my sake to share the peril in which they were sure I stood; and one of them was taken and the other left. That ever a man was more honored I can not believe, and, though it will always seem shocking that so lovely a life should have been given the mine, I can not forget that if I had died in the mountains Leonia would have had no one to save her from the power of the dog. So Lelia passed over the river to save us both; and if ever the trumpets sounded I think they sounded for her as she came to the other side. For her ways were as lovely as she was, and she was of good report.

Ancient Church Rite Used by the Ukrainians Here

Thousands of Ukrainians yesterday assembled at St. Nicholas church, North Oakley boulevard and Rice street, yesterday to receive holy water blessed at the feast of the baptism of Christ. The custom follows the ancient rite of the Eastern Orthodox church, though the Rumanian church, to which St. Nicholas' parish is attached, is now connected with the Roman Catholic church. A cross of ice above the basin from which the parishioners secured the blessed water was one of the unique marks of the service. The Rev. P. Carnazsky, pastor of the church, officiated at the ceremonies.

Leatrice Joy Visits Chicago on Way East for Stage

Trim and slim, but shivering under her fur coat, Leatrice Joy hopped off a North Western train yesterday. She tried to keep her teeth from chattering as she surveyed the snowfall, the first she had encountered for many months. Formerly of the films, the petite brunette actress is heading east to begin an engagement in vaudeville after a long vacation in California. Her flair for smart clothes remains unabated. That was evident from her ensemble—a tight little black hat with a modish nose veil, a long coat of Persian lemb, black kid purse, matching her black kid pumps, and light suede gloves. Miss Joy left for New York on the Broadway Limited.

THE STAGE

"BAD GIRL," the dramatization of Vina Delmar's widely read novel, did not end its engagement at the Apollo theater last night, in spite of announcements in news columns and advertising to that effect. A sudden upturn of business at the Apollo box office on Friday and Saturday caused Robert V. Newman, its producer, to change his mind.

Mr. Newman made arrangements for the play's continuance by telegram from New York and then leaped into an airplane to follow up his instructions. The snowstorm forced his plane to land at Indianapolis yesterday afternoon, and he traveled the last lap of the journey by train, arriving last night to see the last act of the play given before an audience of reassuring numbers.

"The Man in Possession," an English comedy with Isabel Jeans and Leslie Banks in the leading rôles will begin an engagement at the Selwyn theater on Tuesday night of next week, under the auspices of the Dramatic League of Chicago. This will give the league two concurrent plays, for Ethel Barrymore will appear at the Harris theater next Monday night in its regular subscription season. The organization announces that its subscribers will receive their usual privileges for "The Man in Possession" on presentation of subscription cards.

Isabel Jeans is a prominent English actress now making her first American appearances. She originated the heroine's rôle in the London production of "The Man in Possession." Leslie Banks, who also has a substantial London reputation, played in "The Infinite Shoeblack," offered by the Dramatic league last season.

Fritz Leiber's Chicago Civic Shakespeare company closed its New York engagement of three weeks at the Ambassador theater last Saturday night. It ended its season of 1930-'31 as well. The tour which had been mapped out to follow the New York engagement was suddenly abandoned.

The Goodman repertory theater has come to the conclusion that three weeks, instead of four, is the proper length of run for its productions. Therefore announcement is made that the current "Sea Gull," by Anton Tchekhoff [there are eighty-three other ways to spell his name] will give its last performance next Saturday night and that Donald Ogden Stewart's "Rebound" will follow, opening Tuesday night, Jan. 27. Subscribers whose reservations fall into the amputated week of "The Sea Gull" may exchange their tickets for performances this week. "Rebound" subscription tickets may be used a week earlier than the date with which they are marked.

In the New York production of "Rebound" the author played one of the leading rôles and Hope Williams the other. Ina Claire appeared as the heroine in a California production and Ann Harding was chosen as the "Rebound" lady for the film version. Ellen Root gets the assignment for the Goodman's production. Hubert Osborne is directing rehearsals.

"Subway Express," the excellent melodrama which has been lodged at the Erlanger theater since Nov. 16, hung up its "last two weeks" sign yesterday. Its run will end Jan. 31. On the following Monday evening Vilma Banky and Rod La Rocque will appear at the Erlanger [in the flesh] in a comedy called "Cherries Are Ripe." They are almost the only survivors of the group of film personalities who stampeded upon the real life stage this season, and will be the first of these gallant adventurers to reach Chicago. They have been on tour for several months.

Rachel Crothers, who leads the league of women playwrights in batting out successes, hasn't been heard from since her "Let Us Be Gay" of a year ago or more. But she is an annual contributor to the stage and forecasters have been confident that a new Crothers play is about due. They were right, and here it comes: John Golden has signed contracts with Miss Crothers for the production of her latest opus, entitled "As Husbands Go," on or about March 15, in New York.

Supper Dance on Feb. 4 for North Side Shelter

A supper-dance is to be held at the Drake hotel on Feb. 4 for the benefit of the North Side Shelter, a nonsectarian charity organized to feed school children under 16 years of age who are undernourished and almost starving. The Shelter is feeding 600 to 700 children a day from the seven neighboring public schools and a parochial school, the principals of the schools having investigated the families of the children being fed. Mrs. Nicholas J. Nelson is chairman of the benefit dance committee, and her daughter, Miss Kathryn Nelson, is chairman of the entertainment. Assisting them are Miss Constance O'Donnell, Miss Virginia Hersley, Mrs. D. M. Carroll, and Mrs. Harold Doty. A. D. Piamondon is general chairman for the Shelter and Mrs. William F. Juergens is treasurer.

Make Faculty Religious Force, Educator Says

Beloit College President Talks in Evanston.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Problems of the religious life of students cannot be met by appointing a campus director or a dean of religion. This opinion was stated yesterday by President Irving Maurer of Beloit college at a meeting of the National Education Society of the Congregational and Christian churches at the First Congregational church, Evanston.

At that meeting, a feature of this week's national missionary conference of the united Congregational and Christian churches, President Maurer declared it was a mistake to think churches have discharged their student responsibility by appointing a sort of coach, whose function is religion, rather than athletics.

The only answer to the campus religious problem, Mr. Maurer asserted, is to be found in the sense of responsibility by the entire faculty of a college toward religion, the responsibility for the preservation of an atmosphere of reverence throughout college work and life.

Dean Luther A. Wiegle of the Yale Divinity school, presiding at the sessions of the educational society, declared the purpose of the conference is to find ways to preserve the historic relationships between American colleges and universities and the churches. Resolutions were adopted to seek means to prevent "the great nonsectarian foundations and heavily supported state universities from severing church affiliations."

J. R. Montgomery of Chicago, a trustee of the Chicago Theological seminary and chairman of the Congregational Foundation for Education, declared the trend steadily is toward the development of higher education solely for the purpose of producing greater efficiency in business. He asserted the future of the churches depends on whether the churches can preserve the religious emphasis in higher education.

Parents, it was said, are beginning to seek schools where strong religious influences are at work. This change of attitude was pointed out by the Rev. A. C. Haeke, superintendent of the Congregational churches of North Dakota.

The Evanston meetings are the first to be held in the new Congregational-Christian union of churches, effected by vote of both groups in 1929. The principal purpose of the conference is to find ways of strengthening missionary work.

Wife in Milan Hears Toscanini Gotham Concert

New York, Jan. 17.—[Special.]—As the last notes of Strauss' "Death and Transfiguration" died away at the close of the Philharmonic-Symphony's concert at Carnegie hall this afternoon Arturo Toscanini, the conductor, stepped to the microphone at the front of the platform.

"I send you my best greetings," he said in Italian. "I will sail in two days and I will see you and embrace you."

His remarks were addressed to his wife and daughter, who had been listening to the concert in their home in Milan, Italy. Signora Toscanini had for several weeks been attempting to pick up her husband's concerts, and today she succeeded, according to word she sent back by trans-Atlantic telephone.

Mount Olivet Concert at Opera House on Feb. 1

A benefit concert by Beniamino Gigli Sunday, Feb. 1, at the Chicago Civic Opera house for the benefit of Mount Olivet institute, 1441 Cleveland avenue, has been announced by Mrs. Albert S. Gardner, Mrs. Charles H. Fargo, and others in charge of the affair. Mount Olivet is a nonsectarian social settlement, serving 300,000 persons annually. Religious services are conducted in five languages. There also are educational, musical, athletic, medical, and relief services and a summer camp.

Wife Makes Fine Helpmate, but as a Playmate She's Zero

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The fact that there are wives who do not spend enough money on clothes is lost in the commoner plaint against the extravagant wife. But which may be the sorer trial only the husband can tell.

Anyway, one is telling that his is pretty hard to bear, for he is a man who would rather go out with his wife than with any other woman, and his happens to be the woman who will not "doll herself up." Just cause he has for complaint, too, if the situation is as he says.

He has been married for seventeen years to a fine girl. There is one boy, now 13. In the seventeen years there has been much trouble, faced together and struggled through. There were hard times, lean times, when the wife's preference for staying at home was comforting. But better days have now arrived. And Everett wants to go out once in a while, and do it up properly when he does go.

"How can I get my wife to doll up now? She has no pep. She just makes herself an old lady and she is still in her thirties, as I am. We have loads of time ahead now for a good time, and we can afford it. But she won't coöperate in the good times, though the Lord knows no one could have been better in the lean ones.

"These are the things that discourage men, don't you think? We work like h—— so one day we'll have some money for pleasure, and then what for, if you have to go seeking it outside your own family?—Everett."

Gosh! The number of wives there are only wishing they had a man like that! Would they doll up? WOULD they? Just lead them to a high class dressmaker, a good beauty parlor, a swell hatter and shoemaker, and it wouldn't be their fault if they didn't look a good imitation of the girl friend! And that's where they'd be right and where Everett's wife is all wrong. Three or five years hence E.'s wife will be telling it in some pseudo-sympathetic ear that she slaved for her man when she was young, and lookit him now, off with some younger woman. That's the prescribed course of treatment for the woman who overlooks the terrifically important bet of being prepared pictorially and peporially for the better days.

If the good man wants you to blow his money on clothes—blow it! If he wants you to step out—step, and do it before some female goblin picks him for a night club ticket. It's just as important to be a playmate as a helpmate.

Food Talk.

One vegetable can never substitute perfectly for another. Two may have the same color and approximately the same food value, but there is always an interesting variation in taste, texture, or form. This individuality is a most happy feature.

For example there are leeks which may be cooked and served in the same manner as one would asparagus, and how delicious they are! We have found that small tender leeks cook much more quickly than the tenderest of asparagus. From 3 to 5 minutes of cooking in enough boiling salted water to cover seems sufficient if the leeks are from 1-3 to ½ inch in diameter. Large leeks may be split to this size. The cooked vegetable holds its shape well, is tender, sweet, and of beautiful green color. It may be served on toast with hot melted butter or with a rich cream sauce.

Leeks also make delicious cream soup. Almost all cream soup recipes include potatoes. In Scotland leeks in connection with a boiled fowl form the favorite dish—"Cock-a-leekie." It is also served stewed or braised as a vegetable. The leek is a popular vegetable in Wales.

Leeks belong to the onion family, and while they resemble the onion the flavor is more delicate, especially when cooked. The yellowish green flat leaves of the leek are more tender than the tubular green ones of the onion. This vegetable is now on the market. It always comes in the green form. It has been in season for several weeks and will continue to be until next summer.

Here are some recipes which we have found most satisfactory.

LEEK SOUP.

2½ tablespoons butter.
1½ cups leeks.
1 cup chopped celery.
1 cup water.
2½ cups potatoes.
2 cups water.
3 cups milk.
2 tablespoons butter.
1½ teaspoons salt.
⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Melt the 2½ tablespoons of butter in the sauce pan in which the soup is to be cooked. Add leeks and celery and cook about 10 or 15 minutes or until tender. Occasional stirring will be necessary to prevent sticking. Add the 1 cup of water and cook until vegetables are soft. In the meantime cook potatoes in 2 cups of water to which 1 tablespoon salt is added. When tender combine potatoes and other vegetables, liquid and all. Add milk heated to scalding point, the rest of the butter, and the seasoning. Serve at once.

LEEKS AU GRATIN.

8 stalks cooked leeks.
Salt and pepper.
6 tablespoons grated cheese.

Arrange leeks in baking dish, sprinkle with salt, pepper, and cheese. Run under broiler to melt cheese.

Yield: 4 servings. One serving: Total, 74 calories; protein, 17 calories; fat, 39 calories; carbohydrates, 13 calories.

LEEKS ON TOAST.

Wash and trim leeks, cook in boiling, salted water until soft, about 5 minutes. Drain and arrange on buttered toast. Pour on melted butter, seasoned with salt and pepper.

Danger in Highly Competitive Games for the Young Girl

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Although it was not meant to sound so, yesterday's [Sunday's] article gave the impression of concerning itself mostly with the effect of intensive athletics on boys. Since girls enter so keenly into sports and games where either individual or team work is involved, it is necessary for parents and educators to guard them, as well as boys.

We have sometimes as great competition among girls' teams as among boys'—in the school itself, between schools, between towns and between states. For those who have daughters, then, it will be of especial interest to think over another statement that was made in the course of the White House conference by Miss Weyman of Chicago.

"I should like to add just a word to what Dr. Raycraft has just said about over-stimulation in connection with athletic programs of the girls. I am thinking of it in connection especially with the elementary school girl and the adolescent high school girl. I am not talking about athletic activities for girls such as we have in normal situations; I am talking about the highly intent, intercompetitive athletic situation which we find in their school competition, national competition, Olympic competition, and so forth.

"I am thinking of it from the point of view of the girl. The same thing might apply to the boy.

"I am thinking of it in connection, especially, with these competitions held in the evenings, before a mixed audience, with paid attendance. I know and you know that there are many things about this whole situation which have not yet been brought to light.

"Today we can't decide just what effect upon girls this strenuous athletic competition will have, but until we have those cold truths, we had best be guided, as a big mass, by continuous experts; and I think the opinion of the experts is that there is great danger to the highly strung American girl in these highly intense competitive, intercompetitive events."

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Widow, Six Children in Need.

"Mrs. J. W. is a widow and the mother of six children—boys, 4, 8 and 16; girls, 6, 12 and 15. She is unable to work, has no income and is having a desperate struggle to get along. The 4 year old child is delicate and should have nourishing foods which she cannot buy, and they are all badly in need of clothing. Do you think you can help them. Mrs. R."

Prior to her husband's death and while he was in ill health, Mrs. W. worked and supported her family. But now she is unable to do that, and, consequently, they must all suffer. Any assistance you can give her will be greatly appreciated.

Some Leave, While Others Enjoy Chicago

BY THALIA

YOU can't tell what to believe! On the one hand you hear moans and groans that people are so broke they can't go away—and on the other, busy plans and wardrobe plottings for imminent departures.

It's true, that some of those who customarily elude Chicago's late winter climatic performances are staying home this year—quite a lot of them—but still there are many who are planning to be off in the near future for points near and far.

At any rate, the stay at homes have pleasant prospects for sociability for the next few weeks. One of the most attractive sounding parties to be given is the one I hear the William S. Monroes are planning for Robert Lee Eskridge. In a way, it's a coming out party—O, don't misunderstand me—Bob Eskridge isn't to make a debut, but his book is, and the Monroes' party is to be on February the 18th, the day that the book is expected to be released. It's his book about the South seas—"Manga Reva," and subtitled "The Forgotten Islands," and the evening's entertainment will all be in the South seas manner. Bob Casey is to show his films, and the spirit of languid magic that everybody who has ever been to the South seas tells about will doubtless be evoked conversationally, at least.

Junior League to Revive Pinocchio Next Saturday.

The cast selection for the Junior League's "Pinocchio," to open Saturday morning, has been made and is as follows:

PINOCCHIO.....Mrs. Philip B. Maher
Geppetto.....Frances Oliver
Fire Eater.....Edith Fairbanks
Candlewick.....Emily Pope
Blue Fairy.....Dorothy Schmidt
The Owl.....Jean Wegener
The Crow.....Chesney Robinson
Cricket.....Mrs. Robert Reid
Talent.....Mrs. Ernest Byfield
Pinchinello.....Katherine Drake
The Fox.....Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr.
The Cat.....Dorothy Schmidt
Gendarmes.....{Mrs. Walter Paepcke / Mrs. Robert Reid
Tuny-fish.....Mrs. Mitchell Follansbee Jr.
Burlequin.....Peggy Hambleton

The play is being revived this year because of many requests for its repetition. Mr. Rice, whose dramatization is the only one that has ever been made, has come on from Detroit to direct the rehearsals. He uses the original translation of the story from the Italian.

At the Thomas Fishers' party for Mary Wigman—everybody coming in, asking and telling what he thought of Miss Wigman's dancing . . . people in the rear standing on chairs and craning around pillars so as not to miss the program, grouching because they couldn't hear Carl Sandberg's mellow croons and stories . . . after the entertainment, trooping into the dining room for typical American refreshments—pork and beans, squash, southern ham, biscuits, doughnuts [Graham Aldis almost stumbled over somebody as he carried a big trayful out to the ladies], ice cream cones, and pie . . . the dancer and Ruth Page Fisher being practically inundated all evening with people anxious to see, talk to, and hear them . . . Mr. Fisher interpolating and seeing to everything . . . everybody agreeing it was one of the most unique, exciting, and successful parties given in a long time.

John Erskine Will Talk to Latin School Parents.

You'll be interested to know . . . that the Arthur Bissells are to give a luncheon next Sunday at the Tavern for Prof. John Erskine, who is coming on from New York for the Latin school's parent-teachers' meeting the following evening . . . that Miss Helen Plum, associate in industrial arts of the American Federation of Arts, whose efforts are responsible for the 3 series of industrial art exhibitions that have been going to all the leading museums in the last 2 years, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Frederick S. Colburn of Evanston, and is to be guest of honor at the Association of Arts and Industries tea at the Art institute tomorrow . . . that Elaine Blackman, who is studying law at John Marshall, evidently has the makings of a feminine Blackstone, as she got fine marks at the midseason examinations in spite of the Christmas rush and her stage manager job for the Junior league children's plays . . . that "hourly nursing" will be the major topic of discussion at a dinner meeting to be given at the Chicago Woman's club on Thursday evening arranged by the joint committee on hourly nursing. [Mrs. Frederic W. Upham and Mrs. John W. Gary, who are interested in several phases of hospital and visiting nurse matters, are to be among those present] . . . that the Drama league is having a theater party to see "Ladies of the Jury" on Thursday night, and a play reading morning at the College club on Tuesday, the 27th.

And further, that—Mrs. Leonard A. Busby has rented her apartment at 3100 Sheridan road (it's such a lovely sun, too, that she planned herself) to the Jack Pattens, and is planning to be away for quite a time—she goes first to visit her sister-in-law in California, and later will be in New York to be near her son and daughter who are at school in the east . . . that Mr. and Mrs. Moise Dreyfus have gone to Phoenix, Ariz., for a stay . . . that Mrs. Mary Belville Dickinson and her daughter, Miss Rose Dickinson, have gone to Pasadena . . . that a crayon drawing of the late John H. Runnells by Sargent is now on view in the new Faulkner memorial art wing of the Santa Barbara public library, loaned by Clive Runnells . . . that Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody and Miss Harriet McLaughlin have planned a motor trip through Europe with Miss Katherine Harvey of Kansas City, and that they're to sail on Friday on the Biancamano for Italy.

Brightening the calendar for those who are invited are—the luncheon Mrs. William C. Whitcomb is giving today at her apartment for Mrs. John V. Storrs and Mrs. Jefferson Jackson (Mrs. Henry Channon, Mrs. Thomas W. Hinde, Mrs. Spencer Browne, Mrs. 'Mericus Callahan are among the dozen women invited, all of them having their interest in things French as a common bond with the guests of honor—the Whitcombs have all visited Mrs. Jackson in Paris.

Dearborn Seminary Alumnae Vote to Continue Society.

The question as to whether the Dearborn Seminary Alumnæ association should disband was settled at least for another year. A hearty vote for continuing was cast at the organization's fiftieth anniversary celebration on Saturday at the Blackstone.

The meeting was a huge success and everybody had a grand time recalling the days when the school flourished. Miss Helen Drake saw that the golden anniversary motif was carried out in every possible way; the tables were laid with gold cloth and decorated with yellow candles and yellow flowers.

One of the highlights of the afternoon was the presentation of a gold fountain pen to Mrs. Charles S. Williamson as a token of appreciation for all the pens and ink she's used up during her thirty-one years as corresponding secretary of the association.

Mrs. Ambrose Z. Powell was elected to succeed Miss Drake as president; Mrs. Hoyne Wells, Mrs. Ferdinand Peck, and Mrs. Richard Peyton Jr. are the new vice presidents, and Mrs. John G. McDonald was appointed to the executive committee. Miss Carrie Blair Neely, Mrs. Alexander Hodgart, and Mrs. Williamson are to continue in their respective rôles as treasurer, and recording and corresponding secretaries.

How Tribune Serves Public in Single Year

PERIODS of prosperity come and go, but the demand for general information and personal service flows on apparently uninfluenced by economic changes, it was indicated yesterday in a report of activities of THE TRIBUNE Public Service offices. In a year of industrial doldrums this department functioned over wider provinces than ever before, and a new mark for service rendered was attained when in a single day nearly 7,000 persons visited THE TRIBUNE Public Service Bureau at 1 South Dearborn street.

Seventeen thousand nine hundred and fifty-eight persons received aid from the department in filling out their income tax blanks in 1930. A corps of deputy commissioners especially delegated by the internal revenue department to assist those seeking aid from THE TRIBUNE bureau was on hand previous to March 15. No remuneration was exacted for this service given the public.

Highlights in the year's records included the advance sale of tickets for the Chicagoland Music Festival, sponsored by this newspaper, which was attended by more than 150,000 people from the middle west; the sale of tickets for the Golden Gloves tournament, breaking the New York record for the previous year, which was handled exclusively at the loop office of the department; copies of back numbers of THE TRIBUNE supplied to 201,110 readers.

Touring information, covering automobile tours, routes, and highway conditions, was furnished to more than 120,000 persons. The lost and found department and the Shoppers' Guide sustained the record of other years, as did the number visiting the School Information division, which showed a marked increase over other years. The most noteworthy increase in requests for information was noted in the inquiries about evening courses, coming from adults who wished to prepare for commercial or industrial work.

General questions ranging from the trivial to the profound arrived daily from all parts of the world. Representative queries include the following: Where can I buy gravy by the barrel? What is Connie Mack's real name? Why are pumpkins raised in corn? How many words are there in the English language? How many strings are there on a piano? Is Ben Hur a man or a horse? How many deaths occur from fires due to automobile accidents?

BRIDE TO BE

[Bloom Photo.]

James Murray of Hoopeston, Ill., announces the engagement of his daughter, Miss Irene Julia Murray of 1540 North State parkway, Chicago, to Silverton M. Aston of 5710 Winthrop avenue, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Aston of Danville, Ill.

Heredity Makes Weight Variations in Same Family

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"What influence does heredity bring to bear on fat accumulations?" a "Correspondent" asks.

"On my father's side all my relatives seem to run to fat. On my mother's it is just the opposite—all are slender types. Our own particular family group is half thin and half fat. Is there any use in trying to reduce if you happen to be one of the fatties?"

The consensus of opinion among medical men, I believe, is that heredity does play a strong part in surplus fat formation, also in the shaping of others along the long, lean greyhound lines. In fact, it has been pointed out that body build is a racial matter with heredity the influence. In cattle breeding and horse and dog breeding stock tells, of course, as we all know.

One of the complaints against the average weight chart is that these stock strains are not taken into account by persons who accept the chart as a guide to their normal weight. For every woman of a certain age and height the same weight is given as normal. No allowance is made for the variations which may exist racially or otherwise.

How heredity works out in families where one will find both fat and lean eating the same foods is for more learned students than your humble scribe to fathom. But it is known that the disposition of food affects the body build and that a fat and a thin person may make use of their food in an entirely different way.

Dr. Charles B. Davenport says that "change in weight of an adult is a very much more important consideration than the weight at any particular moment. That is, if a person's weight has long been stationary and he is able to do effective work, has no obvious disease and his build is that of other members of his family he may conclude his weight is normal for him."

I think it wisest if one suspects that she may be a victim of heredity to consult a physician and let him help her determine her normal weight, or, if he thinks well of the idea, prescribe the reducing extracts that are often given the "heredity" case.

Sunday Gives Music Lovers Varied Concerts

BY HAZEL MOORE.

Yesterday's Sunday concert alleviants to the financial and mercurial depression included a newcoming pair of two pianists, a young singer who is becoming more than locally prominent, a pianist of known caliber in new juxtaposition with a previously heard violinist, a dance recital, and a string quartet.

The newcomers appearing in a two piano recital at the Civic theater were Frances Hall and Rudolph Gruen, both, it is understood, talented offspring of the Juilliard Foundation. In any event they were well worth hearing. Both are young and both assured, and in the first two numbers heard, the Bach-Maier "Sicilienne" and the Bach-Bauer "Concerto C Minor," obviously in complete pianistic accord. The result was a highly fresh and pleasing performance with spirit and execution unified. It was with regret that the remainder of the program could not be heard, particularly the "Prelude" and "Scherzo," by Mr. Gruen.

Kathryn Witwer's recital at the Studebaker theater was a pleasant record of her accomplishment as a singer of songs. The last two years of active concert giving has brought her a poise and definition that was good to observe.

In the seldom heard "Der Hirt auf dem Felsen," by Schubert, which opened her program, Miss Witwer enlisted the expert services of Edwin Schildhauer to play the clarinet obbligato and her expert accompanist, Helen Leefeld, at the piano. Here and in the three fine Marx songs that followed her voice was clear and flexible, showing but one fault, a seeming fear of pianissimo. A well arranged program and an attractive appearance and personality added to the merits of her recital.

Next door, at the Playhouse, Arthur Shattuck, better known as a solo pianist, and Alfredo San Malo, violinist, poined forces for a sonata program of Bach. Their program was opened by the F minor sonata for piano and violin, and closed with the G minor. In between times Mr. San Malo played the G minor violin sonata, and Mr. Shattuck the partita in C minor for piano.

Both players of force and vigor, this writer preferred them singly rather than in combination. In the adagio-vivace of the F minor sonata each player seemed a bit heavily absorbed in his own instrument for the complete good of Bach. In their individual aspects, however, each was excellent.

Ted Shawn and the Denishawn dancers appeared at Orchestra hall for the first time without the assistance of Ruth St. Denis. She was missed yesterday. Mr. Shawn, seen in "The Divine Idiot," lacked the vitalizing force that characterizes his German confrères. His performance and those of Ernistine Day and their associates were not unpleasantly of the old school of dancing, to the delight of the assembled Shawn fans. The program was long and varied.

The Chicago String quartet continued on its earnest way, playing at the Chicago Woman's Club theater. Their program included the Beethoven Quartet, B flat, opus 21; the Debussy G minor, a Nocturno by Borodin, and an Intermezzo Scherzando by Ippolitov-Borodin.

Paris Features New Kind of Simplicity

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—A new feeling is creeping into Paris fashions. It's nothing you can put your finger on, but it's there just the same. It would seem as though women were getting tired of clothes that need too much adjusting. It's all very well to have separate scarves and sashes and what-nots that lend individuality to your effect, if they drape right the first time. But if they don't and you're in a hurry, the day is spoiled.

This frock is equally suitable for the afternoon hostess and [under a fur coat] for the girl who is going out to a cocktail party or tea. It's in Bordeaux red georgette. The bodice is draped in front by rows of shirrings under its Greekish décolleté, and a bow of georgette lends it a distinctly modern note. The short sleeves with circular flounces masking the elbows are typical of Lelong's new style and so is the flounce across the back that simulates a bolero and carries on the line of the sleeves.

The skirt is cut in a series of staircase panels on the right side that give it rippling fullness toward the hem, which, you will notice, is even and above ankle length.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Thanks in Advance.

Two weeks before Christmas I had some spare time so I wrote my letters of appreciation to friends I thought would probably send me gifts. My brother, seeing the letters on the desk that evening, kindly mailed them. It was my most overwhelming embarrassment when I discovered them gone.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

This dress would be lovely made of one of the pastel crêpe silk, and would do much to brighten your winter wardrobe. A circular flounce around the skirt just below the hips, is youthful and agrees perfectly with the graceful fulness at the hem. The capelet collar, tying in a bow at the front, is a chic detail. Any of the lovely crêpes will be suitable—making it perfect for Sunday night dining and dancing.

The pattern, 2904, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 4½ yards of 39 inch material.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover gave a small dinner tonight, mostly for personal friends. Former Secretary of State and Mrs. Frank B. Kellogg were among those present.

Miss Katrina McCormick, debutante daughter of Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick of Illinois, is spending the week-end in Boston, accompanied by Miss Margaretta Rowland. With them is Miss Rowland's aunt, Miss Isabelle Rowland.

Mrs. Joseph Leiter has gone to New Orleans to join Mr. Leiter for the remainder of the season. They have a house there for the racing season. Mrs. Leiter will return here for the spring season after Easter.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Jan. 18.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Bernard M. Baruch will go to their place in South Carolina early next month.

Miss Peggy Le Boutellier, accompanied by Mrs. Arthur Finley, sailed on the Bermuda for a fortnight in Bermuda.

Former Senator and Mrs. Joseph S. Frelinghuysen will go to Rice Hope plantation, S. C., early next month.

Mrs. Edward S. J. McVickar gave a luncheon at the Pierre for Mrs. Rufus L. Patterson and Miss Julia Berwind.

Mr. and Mrs. George Newell Armsby left today to visit relatives in San Francisco.

Will he kiss her?
NO!

Germs sweep into the mouth with every breath and cause offensive Bacterial-Mouth—ugly yellow teeth, stain, decay and sore, spongy gums. You can't hide it from others but you can remove it—with Kolynos. It kills the germs.

Mon. Tues. Wed.

TEETH WHITEN

3 Shades in 3 Days

HERE'S the quick, easy way to sound, sparkling white teeth and firm, pink gums—the Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique.* Use it for just 3 days. . . . Then note the results.

Teeth look whiter—fully 3 shades. Gums feel firmer, they are healthier. And your mouth tingles with a refreshing, clean taste.

Kolynos cleans teeth and gums as they should be cleaned.

As soon as it enters the mouth this highly concentrated, antiseptic dental cream gives you a pleasant surprise. It becomes an exhilarating FOAM that is full of life. This FOAM gets into and cleans out every tiny crevice, pit and fissure. It quickly kills the millions of germs that cause offensive Bacterial-Mouth—that lead to tooth decay, stain, ugly yellow and to gum diseases. (Kolynos kills 190 million germs in 15 seconds).

Moreover, this FOAM keeps on working after you hang up your toothbrush. For 3 hours it continues to cleanse the teeth and purify the mouth.

That is why teeth are so easily and so swiftly cleaned down to the beautiful, naked white enamel—without injury.

If you want whiter teeth free from decay, and firm, pink gums—discard the dentifrice that does only half the job. Switch to Kolynos. It will win you in 3 days. Get a tube from any druggist.

*It Saves Teeth . . Saves Money

The unique action of Kolynos permits the Dry-Brush Technique advocated by leading dentists as the way . . . . to use a dental cream full strength . . . to keep the brush bristles stiff enough to clean every tooth surface and massage gums properly. . . . Use a half-inch of Kolynos on a dry brush, morning and night . . . Dental cream lasts longer. Teeth look cleaner and whiter. . . . Try this amazing Kolynos Technique.

Freed at Last from Stomach and Bowel Misery

"For years and years I suffered stomach and bowel trouble," says Mrs. Alice Tebbetts of Lexington, Mass. "After taken ACIDINE regularly and from all the other medicines I had taken I never found such relief. It seems wonderful to be free from stomach ache, gas."

Almost everyone who takes ACIDINE says about it. More than two million packages have been sold. It's absolutely amazing the way this new preparation succeeds when other known remedies fail.

ACIDINE is the only known remedy which contains Japtase, that in laboratory tests digests 800 times its weight of certain heavy, starchy foods which cause trouble. It neutralizes burning acids, soothes irritated stomach linings, stops sour headaches, sleeplessness and indigestion. No other known remedy has this combination to get acid stomach. ACIDINE also fortifies you against colds by reducing acidity.

Get ACIDINE at Walgreen's. Watch how quick acid indigestion, burning stomach, belching pain, heartburn, dizziness, fullness, short breath vanish. Eat all you want. Maker refunds money if not delighted.

HACK

1930 HOME RU
KING WILL SEE
$17,500 RAIS

Would Make Clu Highest Paid.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Lewis Robert Hack Wilson, who so well established as a celebrity th no introduction is required even remote places, is about to speak. A when Hack delivers the bit of orato now planned he'll say a mouthful, least a mouthful so far as figur are concerned. His words may sta ger and then again they may not.

What Hack intends to say, pr vided it is necessary, involves t amount of money he is to be paid f the production of home runs next se son. The cost per homer, of cours will be based on the number man factured in the last campaign, 56 be exact. That's a fairly commen able bit of labor for one man and also serves to increase patronage. Hack, after some intensive figurin during the winter, is thinking of as ing $40,000 for what he may do the coming campaign. At least it reported that Hack's intentions a along such lines.

What Will Cubs Think?

Just what the Chicago club ma think of Hack's future services something else. Contracts have bee mailed out to all the unsigned player but it is probable that Wilson, bein regarded as one with whom difficult is possible, may have been overlooke on the basis that it would be bette to deal with him personally. Pres dent Veeck adopted this scheme f previous money talks with the pudg star and is expected to repeat the pro cedure as soon as he returns fro California the first of February. Th club is prepared to go high to sati Hack, but $40,000 might be re garded a bit too steep.

Wilson already has had a taste what might be termed good mone He came to the Cubs after the 19 season, being drafted for a nomin $5,000 from the Toledo club. Like first year men he was a gamble t first season, and was signed accor ingly. The next year his salary swell a bit. It swelled some more later o It continued to sprout until a ye ago, when he signed for 1930 at a r ported $22,500. That made him t Cubs' highest salaried employé, ba ring Rogers Hornsby.

May Offer $30,000.

What the club probably will do the first offer, if it hasn't been ma already, will be to entice the slugg into the fold with a $30,000 doc ment. Hack, of course, will spur loose change such as that. Then and President Veeck will do a bit earnest talking and probably reach compromise at $35,000.

The argument Hack will use, necessary, is Babe Ruth. The Ba in recent years has been collecting the rate of $50,000 to $75,000 per ca paign, and in some of them his pe formances did not equal what Ha turned out last season. Late last se son Wilson already had the idea reminding the club, when the prop time came, of how highly Ruth home run efforts were regarded the New York Yankees' owner. Nat rally there need be no reason to wor about Hack being on hand when t work starts in February. He is n the kind to kick up a fuss over a fe thousand.

Whether Wilson finally gets $3 000 or $40,000, the Cubs probably h have the highest priced ball club existence. Ten of the regulars reputed to be earning more than $1 000 per season. One pitcher's contra last year called for $22,000 and h be raised. Another hurler was $18,000 man. He, too, will be boost Hartnett recently signed for sou thing like $18,000.

LEAD CHANGES IN TWO EVENTS OF PIN TOURNE

Aurora, Ill., Jan. 18.—[Special.] Two leaders in the sixteenth ann interstate bowling tournament h were knocked off today as star b men from Illinois, Wisconsin and diana attacked the wood. J. Bu of Chicago, landed on top in the events with 1,967, passing W. L of Cicero, who had 1,944.

O. Peters of Springfield, shot 70 take first place in the singles. He placed Liepe, who had 676.

The Orpheum Recreation five Springfield rolled into third place the five man event with 3,055. Th errors on easy sparbs in the last g cost them the lead.

OGDEN DUNES GATHERS SNOW FOR SKI MEE

The Ogden Dunes Ski club is h ing 300 truck loads of snow to steel slide just east of G Ind., for its tournament next Sun There has been plenty of snow southern Michigan, where roads blockaded and hills and ravines covered by a heavy snowfall last w Nearly all of the star ski riders took part in the national champ ships at Fox River Grove yeste will be in the Ogden Dunes meet.

OIMEN WINS U. S. SKI TITLE WITH 147 FOOT JUMP

Harald Sorenson Second in National Meet.

Casper Oimen of the Sioux Valley Ski club of Canton, S. D., still is the United States skiing champion. Competing in a heavy snowfall, which later turned into sleet, Oimen swooped down the Norge Ski club's slide, leaped into space, and landed on the 147 foot mark of Cary hill in the national tournament yesterday. Fifteen thousand persons watched the tournament.

The jump was 26 feet less than the record set by Oimen last year. The champion displayed brilliant form and landed perfectly. He received a point rating of 18.666. His leap also won the longest standing jump event.

Andersen's Arm Broken.

A leap of 139 feet gave Harald Sorenson of the Norsemen Ski club of New York, second place. Gunnar Oman of the Odgen Dunes club of Chicago, took third place, and Anton Le Kang of New York, placed fourth.

Although only five of the 28 entrants in the class A event fell, numerous spills were made in the class B division. Reidar Andersen of the Ogden Dunes club of Chicago, suffered a broken arm in his first jump.

Andersen shot down the 385 foot slide, lost his balance midair, and landed on his left side on the hill. Andersen and other skiiers declared that the view of the hill from the platform was obscured by the snow and mist.

Gunderson Wins Class B.

George Gunderson of Racine, one of the 18 Wisconsin entries, captured the class B event, jumping 132 feet. Ottar Satre's 121 foot leap won second place, and Lloyd Ellingson of St. Olaf's college, Northfield, Minn., took third place. Ellingson also won the college class event.

Oimen, by retaining the title won from Strand Mikkleson of Greenfield, Mass., on his home slide last year, will represent the United States in the Olympics at Lake Placid, N. Y., next year. Mikkleson placed seventh in yesterday's meet. He jumped 134 feet.

Batting Class C Winner.

Harold Batting of Minneapolis won the class C event for boys 15 years and over, defeating Howard Jansen of the Norge Ski club of Chicago, who captured THE TRIBUNE'S first annual tournament at Riis park several weeks ago.

Jansen soared through the air for a jump of 72 feet, the longest jump in the event, but fell. John Hockstad, Jansen's teammate, took second place with a leap of 64 feet.

The class D event for boys under 15 years was won by John Oliver of Minneapolis, with Jack Dean, junior member of the Berrien Springs, Mich., Ski club, second, and Paul Bietila of Ishpeming, Mich., third. Oliver jumped 72 feet.

Silver Skates Entries Pass 3,000 Mark

Although the entries for the Silver Skates Derbies which will be held by THE TRIBUNE at Garfield park Saturday and Sunday closed yesterday, all letters received today, postmarked before midnight last night, will be accepted. Consequently, the total list of competitors in the seven age divisions cannot be announced this morning. However, the number is in excess of 3,000.

Three team entries each have included more than 100 skaters, but the record number of 128 was sent in last week by John A. Mock, instructor at the Henry playground. The entries were well distributed and included 22 boys under 12 years of age who will race in the new midget division. Mr. Mock also expressed the hope that "next year THE TRIBUNE will have a younger age group for the girls."

Playground Races Wednesday.

Henry playground, always one of the centers of winter sports, is particularly interested in skating. The annual Silver Skates Derbies of that playground will be held Wednesday night, with nine events. Some of the city's best skaters will compete in the class A mile handicap race.

Instead of awarding the customary gold, silver and bronze medals, Henry playground, this year, will present silver trophies for first places and silver cups for second and third positions. The meet Wednesday night, of course, is sanctioned by the Illinois Western Skating association.

More Team Entries.

Among the team entries received yesterday were the following:

Deborah Boys club—18 entries.
Avalon park playground—16 girls and 3 boys.
Swift playground.
33d Place playground—24 boys and 3 girls.
Hart playground—12 entries.
Adams playground—9 entries.
Austin Skating association—37 entries.
McCormick playground—43 entries.

The Austin Skating association is composed of boys attending the Austin High school. Twenty-three of the entries are in the intermediate age division. The list was submitted by the coach, Harold E. Collins.

Jugo-Slavs Win Soccer Tourney; Beat Spartas, 2-1

Two goals by Imrie yesterday gave the Jugo-Slavs soccer team a 2 to 1 victory over the Spartas in the final game of the seven-a-side tournament at the 138th Engineers' armory, 34th street and Wentworth avenue. Turek scored for the Spartas.

Shady Business Runs Afoul of Dishonest Characters

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 18.—Although it is contrary to some law or other to do so, certain persons are offering tickets for sale in various prize drawings such as the Grant National Sweepstakes and the Agua Caliente Sweepstakes. My informant on such topics advises me that business is quite brisk, indicating that the disrespect for law is widespread.

One serious difficulty is, however, that a number of dishonest characters have been selling counterfeit tickets which is almost as bad as selling deleterious beverages under the labels of famous old household brands noted for their wholesome and nutritive character. The reputable dealers in sweepstake tickets who are now passing among the patrons in the large cities and at the horse tracks of the south are much incensed about this, as the counterfeits are likely to impair the confidence of the public and become a festering blot upon the warp and woof of the business.

Business Receives Blow.

The warp and woof of the business in the city of Jacksonville received a body blow square in the bulwarks not long ago when a local sportsman of a trusting disposition permitted himself to become the district agent of a sweepstake which, so far as he and his patrons have been able to ascertain by diligent inquiry, was conducted with none but the most dishonest and unscrupulous motives.

A stranger wearing spats and carrying a walking stick presented himself in town and by bold misrepresentations wormed his way into the confidence of the Jacksonville sportsman who has a wide acquaintance among his fellow citizens and a reputation in the community for dispensing goods always strictly as represented on the labels. So plausible were his accounts of himself and his project that the victim was induced to accept 20,000 tickets to be sold for one dollar each at a commission of 25 cents per ticket for himself.

Drawing Date a Myth.

The unsuspecting sportsman, not unwilling to turn an honest dollar and wishing to give his fellow citizens the widest opportunity to win the capital prize of $100,000, appointed subagents to sell tickets for a commission of 15 cents on the dollar, and presently, when all the tickets were sold, the field agent with the spats and walking stick came back through and collected the $22,500, promising that the results of the drawings would be made known in due time.

The date set for the drawing has long since passed without any word, and the Jacksonville sportsman's most conscientious efforts to communicate with the headquarters of the sweepstake as printed on the tickets have resulted only in failure. It is true that he and his subagents have theoretically divided an aggregate commission of $7,500, but only theoretically, because they had such confidence in the enterprise that they spent most of their profits for tickets themselves.

The reputation of the sportsman is such, what with his always having dealt in goods strictly as represented on the labels, that he feels downcast about the whole affair. He must sacrifice his honor or refund the subscriptions of his fellow citizens, some of whom have been very narrow minded about the incident and are threatening to advise the authorities.

So the warp and woof of the sweepstakes business in Jacksonville, Fla., has been stabbed in the dark through the operations of a person of whom it is not too much to say that he was thoroughly dishonest and animated only by motives of personal gain.

Hazards Are Many.

It is always difficult to know whether a sweepstake ticket is genuine or counterfeit, and even if the ticket happens to be genuine and a winner, there is always a chance, in the case of the Agua Caliente, that some error in calculations will deprive the owner of a large share of his winnings. Of course, I would be the last one to suggest that any of the sterling sportsmen in charge of Agua Caliente would purposely withhold for themselves a portion of a winner's winnings, but the operation runs into very intricate figures, and to err is human.

Last year, a miner living in the state of Montana was the lucky owner of the capital prize ticket, but I was rather startled to read that he received only $50,000 or so, as, from the profusion of tickets, I had judged that the prize would amount to at least twice that much. However, as to the scrupulosity of the boys there can be no doubt as they are all old circus men, dance hall men and sportsmen, although to err, as I say, is but human, and they are extremely human beings.

Anything Is Possible.

Incidentally, I have heard it suggested that it might be just barely possible in a hypothetical case for the operators of a sweepstake to conspire with a confederate to pose as a Montana miner and the holder of the winning ticket for a fee of, say, $5,000, but I repeat the suggestion only to AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 8.—(AP)—John Golden, Noroton, Conn., pro, playing steady golf, today won the Agua Caliente open championship, defeating George Von Elm of Los Angeles, former amateur champion, by four strokes in an 18 hole playoff. Golden scored 75, three strokes over par, while Von Elm fell back to 79, with an erratic 41 on the second nine holes.

Wirt G. Bowman, president of the Agua Caliente company, presented Golden a check for $10,000 and gave another check for $3,500 to Von Elm. Later John and George will cash the checks and divide the accruing $13,500 into equal parts of $6,750, according to an agreement they made before the playoff.

Golden's Putting Wins.

After finishing the 72 hole championship proper in a deadlock at 293 yesterday, Golden and Von Elm set out today in a 30 mile wind to decide who should wear the title of Agua Caliente champion for a year and win outright a diamond studded medal, emblematic of the crown.

Golden's approaching and putting won the title for him. He had no three-putt greens. Four times Von Elm needed three putts. Putting won the tie for John over the championship route, for he had only nine three-putt greens in 90 holes.

The Connecticut pro was out in front with a birdie four at the 485 yard first hole, his most sensational performance of the day. This gave him a two stroke lead, for Von Elm started with a six.

The former amateur recovered a stroke at the third, a par three, where Golden was trapped from the tee, and every hole was halved in fours until the eighth. Each player hit three full woods on this 550 yard test and still Golden was not on, while George's spoon, his best shot of the day, reached the green. In two putts Von Elm had his par, while John, for the first time in the round, slipped a stroke over.

Golden 1 Up at Turn.

Golden regained the stroke, however, at the ninth, a one shot hole. Both were trapped, but Golden came from the sand close enough to hole his putt and start the second nine a stroke in the lead.

George started the second nine as he had the first by taking a six at the tenth, where his second was trapped and he sent his ball spinning over the green from the hazard. Golden was down with a par four. Von Elm lost another stroke at the 235 yard eleventh, where he missed the green 100 yards with his tee shot.

Golden reached the 17th tee with a four stroke lead. Von Elm could have cut two strokes from the lead with a couple of pars, but the last two holes were played in six-five each, two over par.

A belligerent Blackhawk team, playing inspired hockey unequalled at the moment throughout the National league, climbed within a point of the league leadership at the Chicago Stadium last night by defeating the New York Rangers, 2 to 1.

It was the fifth consecutive victory for the Hawks. Despite inclement weather a throng of 11,715 saw the Hawks take the lead in the first period on Frank Ingram's perfect pickup of Stew Adams' pass in 14:10.

The deciding Hawk score came in the second period, when Tommy Cook rose from a mixup in front of the Ranger net to beat Goalie Roach in 18:00. The Rangers' efforts bore fruit midway in the third period, when Paul Thompson pitched Murray Murdock's pass past Chuck Gardiner for the only New York score.

Play was slow in getting started, and it was four minutes before the Rangers got a man past the Hawk defense, although several long shots gave Gardiner reason to remain alert. The Hawks missed an excellent opportunity to get a lead in early in the period when Ripley bounced a face-off to Gottselig in front of the net. Johnny missed the pass.

Hawks Given Close Call.

The Rangers' first vigorous offensive saw Murdock fire a shot at Gardiner. It bounded back directly in front of the net, where McAdam and Dillon were following up. Bostrom bumped Dillon out of the way, permitting Gardiner to leap out and smother the puck before McAdam could reach it.

Throughout the period the Hawks were passing with a precision which brought a round of applause from the throng, but it was not until 14:10 that they were able to get a receiver in a position where Ching Johnson and Frank Peters would not harass him. Adams made a beautiful pass across the rink to Ingram in front of the net. It pulled out Roach and Ingram, racing in at breakneck speed, made a perfect pickup, and pitched the puck into the corner of the net.

The second period was one of the most exciting of the season. Referees Cleighorn and Daignault were inclined to leniency, and the teams battled through their second consecutive period without a penalty. The Hawks were on the offensive and four times mixups occurred in front of the Ranger net. Once Ripley lunged headlong into Roach following up a pass from Gottselig and both were entangled in the mesh.

Cook Makes It 2 to 0.

March, Graham, and Cook were involved in a clash with Jerwa and Thompson near the end of the period. After a brief skirmish Jerwa and Thompson were prone on the ice and Cook was left standing with the puck in front of him. Roach missed the disk, and Tommy lobbed it over his outstretched body for the second Chicago goal. The time was eighteen minutes.

The Hawks went on the defensive after this, and the Rangers attacked with a power that called for all the defensive skill the Hawks could muster.

Early in the third period the first penalty of the game was called on Adams, when the Hawks were caught with a four man defense. Playing one man short, the Hawks had their hands full and Bill Cook broke away to dribble right up to Gardiner. A score looked inevitable, but Gardiner stopped the shot in front of the net.

Rangers Score Goal.

Bostrom, who blossomed out as a star against the Bruins, broke up two offensives single handed. On one of these plays, he flipped the puck to March and Mush passed to Cook, who was beat to a pot shot by Roach.

A moment later Johnson, Thompson and Murdock swept down the ice and, as Gardiner lunged out to smother a short pass, Thompson pitched the puck into the net. The time was 10:10.

DesJardins and Bill Cook staged a brisk cuffing match near the Rangers' goal shortly after the face-off and both were given major penalties.

When Des Jardins and W. Cook came back the Rangers instituted a five man attack and kept the puck in the vicinity of the Hawks' goal. Two spectacular stops by Gardiner which piled up eight men each time thwarted the Rangers' desperate attempts to tie the score. On one of these Gardiner injured his left elbow and time had to be taken out.

Oilers Sweep Series; Defeat Shamrocks, 2-0

Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—The Chicago Shamrocks lost an American Hockey league game here today and individually three of them lost some money while the Tulsa Oilers won the second of a two game series, 2 to 0. It was a rough battle in which anything went. A crowd of more than 4,000 saw the match.

Tulsa scored both goals in the final period after being held on even terms in the first period and having a marked advantage in the second. It was in the third period that all the excitement came.

Bog Trapp scored the first goal at 8:32 of the period and it incensed Timmins to such an extent that he threw his stick and gloves down on the ice. That cost him $10, and a minute later he used his stick to hit Gus Marker, Tulsa wing, and Headley stepped in to help him. That cost Timmins another ten dollars and the same for Headley. Brydson felt primed for a speech, and it also cost him a double fiver.

The Shamrocks massed in an attempt to score and grew careless defensively. La France grabbed the puck in his own territory and teamed with Moffatt to go down the ice, bearing down on Mulligan, who was alone. La France's pass to Moffatt evaded Mulligan and Moffatt easily beat Timmins for the score.

This didn't help Timmins' feelings any, but kept his mouth closed, anyway. The goal came at 15:40.

TONIGHT'S GAMES.

Northwestern at Michigan.
Minnesota at Wisconsin.
Indiana at Iowa.

SATURDAY.

Ohio State at Northwestern.
Michigan at Chicago.
Illinois at Wisconsin.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago, having kept its undefeated record by whipping Minnesota Saturday night, 32 to 21, for its second one point triumph of the Western conference season, passes the baton tonight to its companion metropolitan quintet, Northwestern. The Wildcats, also undefeated in two games, meet Michigan in a return contest at Ann Arbor. Chicago does not play until Saturday, when the Wolverines visit the Midway.

That Chicago and Northwestern should be the only unbeaten conference teams at the start of the third week of the campaign is surprising. But the status of the other quintets is more startling. Purdue, defending champion, is tied for eighth place; Wisconsin, the second best Big Ten team in 1930, is deadlocked for fifth position with Michigan, and Indiana is tied for third with Ohio State.

Outcome Is Uncertain.

While the majority of the teams have played only one-fourth of their schedule, and the leaders have not reached that mark, the only certain prediction on the outcome of the race, apparently, is it will be an uncertain issue all the way.

The exception probably is Northwestern. If the Wildcats can beat Michigan a second time tonight [Northwestern has been unable to do this on the Ann Arbor floor since 1919], they will have a decided advantage, not forgetting that Ohio State and Chicago present exceedingly difficult opposition in the near future.

Northwestern won from Michigan in the opening game, 27 to 22, and at one time in the second half had an advantage of 23 to 9. Bus Smith, who has earned the guard position vacated by Bob Lockhart when the former Martinsville, Ind., player injured his knee, will be in the lineup again tonight. Moreover, it now seems as if Smith would carry on for most of the games. Lockhart injured his knee again in practice last week, and Coach Lonborg has about given up hope that he will be of service this year.

Illini Rally a Warning.

Northwestern's offense, judged by the late minutes of the Michigan and Illinois games, threatens to collapse at a critical moment. So far the Wildcats have nursed big advantages and come out on top, but Illinois' rally against Northwestern, which fell two points short of a tie, should warn optimistic alumni.

Chicago's two victories, each by a point, also do not predict continued success. The Maroons have played inspired basketball and have utilized their strength to the utmost, but the team is not overly strong on defense. Neither does it possess the height that the games with Northwestern will require.

Ohio State and Indiana, the closest challengers to the leaders, still have excellent title chances. If Indiana can whip Iowa tonight the Hoosiers will be safe for a week. But this is problematical, depending on whether Indiana plays as it did when it beat Ohio, or whether it can do better than when it fell before Chicago.

Minnesota Gets Test.

Minnesota, although defeated by Chicago, has an excellent passing team with two fine long distance shooters in Loose and Schoening. Minnesota's game tonight with Wisconsin at Madison will go far to determine if the Gophers will remain in the first division. Wisconsin has played indifferent defensive basketball, appearing to excellent advantage against Illinois and Iowa, but against Ohio and Michigan the reverse was true.

DR. J. F. X. STACK

Health Commissioner, City of Hoboken, N. J.

DR. J. F. X. STACK
812 GARDEN STREET
HOBOKEN, N. J.

June 17, 1930.

American Cigar Company,
111 Fifth Avenue,
New York, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

I have seen your advertising displays in the newspapers and on billboards, telling people about the harm spitting may cause and the dangers lurking in cigars when the tips are sealed with spit. Your efforts to teach the public and thus prevent suffering will do more than sell cigars. You will benefit public health, and for that reason I want to give my enthusiastic approval to your campaign.

As a health commissioner, I am interested in seeing information of this sort brought home to everybody. Human ills would be greatly lessened if every person knew what danger there is in spitting in public places and in using the tongue to seal or moisten anything in manufacturing. Your campaign is indeed a "Crusade of Decency" and my department wishes you success in your efforts.

You are welcome to use this letter in your plan of public education, if you wish, with the understanding that I am not publicly endorsing your product in preference to any other, but that I am heartily in favor of your campaign to better your industry by making it cleaner.

Very truly yours,
J. F. X. Stack M. D.
Health Commissioner,
City of Hoboken, N.J.

. . . one of 56 health officials from 56 different points approving Cremo's crusade against spit or spit-tipping.

Every smoker, every wife whose husband smokes cigars, should read Dr. Stack's letter.

"Who are the friends of 'Spit'?"

YOU MAY WELL ASK THIS QUESTION WHEN 56 IMPORTANT HEALTH OFFICIALS HAVE WRITTEN SO STRONGLY AGAINST THE EVILS OF SPIT OR SPIT-TIPPING.

Dr. Stack writes: "I am heartily in favor of your campaign to better your industry by making it cleaner."

The war against spit is a crusade of decency. Join it... Smoke Certified Cremo — a really wonderful smoke — mild — mellow — nut-sweet! Every leaf entering the clean, sunny Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture.

In this period of cold weather and cracked lips, above all insist on a cigar—free of the spit germ.

2 Mat Shows Tonight Assure Seats for Fans

Monday evening wrestling, which has become so popular that Doc Krone tells of turning away customers from the 202d Coast Artillery armory, will be offered in two different arenas tonight, promoters being eager to provide seats for each and every fan.

At the armory, Broadway and Thorndale, Jim Londos, recognized by the N. B. A. as heavyweight mat champion, will take on Renato Gardini of Italy in the feature of five bouts staged by Promoter Arnold Minkley. Promoter Joe Coffey will present five bouts at Harmon's Dreamland, Van Buren and Paulina streets, with Frank Judson and Jack Wagner in the windup position.

Londos and Gardini's Third Bout.

Gardini has appeared on several of the armory cards, but never in the same ring with Londos. They have wrestled twice before in other cities. Gardini won from Londos in Philadelphia, but Jimmy later evened the score for the entertainment of Brooklyn spectators.

The Londos-Gardini clash will be two out of three falls to a finish. Preliminary contests, limited to one fall and a 30 minute time limit, will be Fred Grobmier vs. Pat McKay; Milo Fred Grobmier vs. Pat McKay, Milo Steinborn vs. Kola Kwariani, and Frank Brunovicz vs. Joe Oravic.

Dreamland Card.

Judson, who meets Wagner in the Dreamland windup, is a former wrestling instructor at Harvard. He weighs 220 pounds. Wagner is an instructor for the Providence, R. I., police.

The athletic department of the Western Electric company at Cicero will be represented in two bouts. Jack Sperling, light heavyweight, will meet Johnny Meyers, former middleweight champion, while Vic Soldat, a protégé of Sperling, will oppose Nick Lutz in a heavyweight bout.

Tony Hadjich, Portage Park, will meet Rudy Hoffman, and Pietro Bacini will grapple with Charlie Peterson in other preliminaries.

Schillers Beat Bruins, 25-21, in Jewish League

The Schillers scored a 25 to 22 victory last night over the Bruins in the second round of play in the Chicago Jewish Basketball league at the Boys Brotherhood Republic gymnasium. The Drivers defeated the Hakoah A. A., 32 to 31. The Brown and Koppel five had little difficulty in upsetting the Macabees, 35 to 24.

Play for World 3 Cushion Title Opens Tonight

Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo., defending titleholder, will appear in the opening game of the world's championship three cushion tournament at Bensinger's Congress billiard room tonight. His opponent will be F. S. Scoville of Buffalo, winner of the eastern sectional title. The schedule calls for twenty-eight games, with each player meeting each of the others once. There are eight players in the championship and a total of more than $20,000 will be distributed among the contestants.

First place is worth $7,200 in cash, exclusive of the gate receipts, and is represented by a cash award of $1,200 and a salary of $6,000 a year to be paid by the National Billiard Association of America. Second place is worth a cash award of $1,000 and a salary of $3,000. All games will be at fifty points. There also will be special prizes for the best run and the best game.

Draw for First Four.

The draw for the first four games, as announced yesterday by C. A. Storer, director of tournaments for the National Billiard association, follows:

TODAY.

Evening—Johnny Layton, defending champion, vs. F. S. Scoville, Buffalo, eastern sectional champion.

TOMORROW.

Afternoon—Tiff Denton, Kansas City, vs. Arthur Thurnblad, Chicago, northern sectional champion.

Allen Hall, Chicago, vs. D. J. Jacobs, St. Louis, southern sectional champion.

Evening—Otto Reiselt, Philadelphia, vs. Charles E. Jordan, Los Angeles, western sectional champion.

The schedule is available only for the first four games, since future games are determined by the results, with losers meeting winners in the remaining games.

First Meet Since 1928.

This will be the first three-cushion tournament in Chicago since December, 1928, when Layton turned back Willie Hoppe in the deciding game in Orchestra hall. Eleven months previous to that Layton also defeated Willie Hoppe in the deciding game. Layton also won the world's championship in New York last January.

Jordan, the coast star, has been suffering from influenza since last Thursday and for a time it appeared he would be forced to default. His condition is improved and it was said by Storer that if necessary Jordan could have an extra day to prepare for his opening game, which now is set for Tuesday night.

For the first time the double referee system will be used for a championship. Herbert Levis and Charles McElligott, both of Chicago, will officiate. They will alternate after each game.

Bruins Nose Out Redmen Again by a Point, 29 to 28

Chicago's Bruins won their second American league victory in as many nights by one point from the Toledo Redmen last night at the Broadway armory, 29 to 28. Saturday the Bruins whipped the Redmen, 30 to 29, at Toledo.

Trailing 17 to 13 at the half, the Bruins' long distance offensive became so accurate that Chicago ran up a 19 to 17 score before Lou Spindell shot a basket. Then two free throws and long shots by Charley Murphy and Mike Wickhorst put Chicago in front, 25 to 19.

With five seconds to play, Ralph Miller fouled Dutch Dehnert under the basket and, with an added penalty for a technical foul, Dehnert scored three points to make the score 29 to 28. Although Toledo took possession of the ball on the next jump at center, the Bruins' defense held until the concluding whistle.

Benny Borgeman led the long distance sharpshooting with four field goals to which he added three free throws in as many trials. Lou Spindell, one of the league's newest stars, however, broke away from Benny to count 14 points before leaving the game with a maximum of 5 personal fouls late in the second period.

Chicago now has won two games and lost one in the race for the second half championship.

In the preliminary game, a last second field goal gave the Lake View Ramblers a 28 to 27 victory over the Dolan Athletic club.

indicate to what depths a certain diseased type of mind will delve for mud to cast at the characters of sterling sportsmen.

The Caliente drawing is conducted in public, and the strict honesty of the process is assured beyond cavil by the fact that a committee of journalists employed in the adjacent country supervise the operation. This would be the final guarantee to me, of course, although some persons might think that by these elaborate safeguards the sportsmen in charge do protest a little too much.

It would be contrary to law for me to direct any customers to persons or places where they might obtain sweepstakes tickets, and, furthermore, even if I were not highly sensitive about the observance of all law, including the amendments, I should hesitate to recommend lest I should be taken advantage of like the unfortunate sportsman in Jacksonville, Fla., who suffered from his own altruism.

The Grand National, the English Derby, and a few other foreign sweepstakes whose tickets are sold in the United States, whether directly or through headquarters in Canada, are great prize drawings, and the fact that the capital prizes often fall to scrubwomen, bartenders, and London typists enhances the lure.

Though I have a very wide range of acquaintances among persons who are never going to be jailed up because they didn't keep on trying, and who have spent great sums for tickets of one kind and another, I do not happen to know any one who ever won a dollar.

PORTO RICO, DRY 14 YEARS, TURNS TOWARD REPEAL

Popular Sentiment Finds Prohibition a Failure.

BY HARWOOD HULL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Jan. 18.—Dry by its own vote for more than twelve years and by the Volstead act for a slightly shorter time, Porto Rico is up in the air over prohibition enforcement.

Insular officials admit a serious situation has been brought about by the decision of the Supreme court of Porto Rico holding, in effect, that while congress gave to the island courts jurisdiction to hear cases involving violations of the national prohibition act, authority had not been given to insular prosecutors to initiate proceedings in the name of the people of Porto Rico. The court held the Volstead act is a national law, not insular, and must be enforced by federal officials in the name of the United States, even though proceedings against violators are brought in the island courts.

3,500 Rum Cases a Year.

Until this recent decision an average of 3,500 liquor cases a year had been tried in the insular courts resulting from police enforcement activities, a far greater number of cases than were brought in the United States District court by prohibition cases. The police averaged better than 80 per cent of convictions.

Attorney General James Beverly has taken steps to urge the Supreme court to reconsider its decision. He also has moved for speedy decisions in cases now pending in that court, in which the lower courts have held that violations of the liquor law are felonies. If these decisions are sustained it will throw all liquor cases into the District courts, where defendants may demand jury trials. The attorney general wants to avoid this expense, as well as delay, if possible.

Voted Dry in 1917.

Porto Rico voted dry in 1917, at the first election in which islanders cast ballots as American citizens. Later prohibition seemingly was made more certain when the Volstead act was made applicable to the island. Many officials admit that sentiment has changed and that the island would vote wet if given a chance.

This chance has been asked for by the agricultural association, representing a substantial bloc of public opinion. The association, by resolution, has asked congress to permit Porto Rico to enact its own liquor laws and withdraw the Volstead law. Prohibition in Porto Rico has been a failure, the farmers' convention held, and its enforcement a farce, resulting in graft and disrespect for all law. They were also concerned with the loss of revenue formerly derived from liquor, manufactured and imported. Economically prohibition has failed, they held.

Without congressional action the national prohibition law cannot be withdrawn from the island, and without congressional consent Porto Rico may not handle its own liquor problem.

Not a Drinking Country.

Porto Rico was not considered a drinking country at the time it voted dry. It had but one saloon on the American style where customers could rest a foot on the brass rail. This one saloon, in San Juan, was patronized largely by Americans and tourists.

But prohibition was an issue in the granting of American citizenship and the late Rev. Wilbur F. Craft, long active in the prohibition fight, was particularly active in having the citizenship grant made only to a dry citizenry. He was so successful that the law conferring citizenship also carried a provision that the island would go dry within a year after its passage unless the new citizens in the meantime voted wet. Within less than six months after gaining citizenship the island was voted dry.

REVEAL SUCCESS OF GANDHI TRADE BOYCOTT IN INDIA

Hastens 10 Yr. Decline in British Imports.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 18.—The boycott which Indian Nationalists have thrown against goods of British manufacture still makes itself felt in their political struggle, more heavily perhaps than some of the debates at the Indian round table conference.

Figures recently published by the government of India show that the All-India Nationalist congress has created an impossible position for British manufacturers, and that they have established an economic stagnation in many places which no executive order is able to dispel. The reports for the six months from April 1 to Oct. 1 of this year are particularly illuminating, since they cover the period of Mahatma Gandhi's boycott.

Cotton Import Cut in Two.

Mr. Gandhi began his famous drive in March. Boycott was his chief weapon. The result was that importation of British cotton goods as compared with the same period in 1929 fell from approximately $63,072,000 to about $34,164,000, or almost half. Woolen piece goods dropped from $1,872,000 to $944,000; cotton twist and yarn from $8,280,000 to $4,536,000, and machinery and mill work from $24,624,000 to $20,988,000.

Other commodities that suffered were galvanized iron sheets, which fell in imported value from $6,280,000 to $4,536,000, and automobiles, which dropped from $1,368,000 to about $900,000.

Decrease for 10 Years.

Britain's share of Indian trade, both in imports and exports, has suffered a serious setback in the last decade, figures for the period show. Whereas total Indian imports have increased in value from approximately $686,250,000 in 1912-'14 to $802,500,000 in 1929-'30, that is, by more than 16 per cent, Britain has not only failed to reap the benefit of this expansion but has actually lost the Indian market to the extent of $52,500,000.

Before the war 64.1 per cent of the total imports in India were supplied by Britain. In 1929-'30 her share dropped by nearly one third to 48.8 per cent. This share in the Indian market has gone to the United States and Japan.

Hits British Mismanagement.

The boycott became the battering ram against a wall of British mismanagement and the chief expression of Indiana's complaints.

An inevitable result of the boycott has been the encouragement of Indian industries. The sale of these manufactures has increased throughout the world and, strangely enough, to a great degree in Britain itself. Total Indian exports to the United Kingdom have increased from approximately $218,500,000 in 1913-'14 to $251,000,000 in 1929-'30, though for the ten year period exports to Britain show a decline.

FLINTERMANN, MICHIGAN FIRM HEAD, ENDS LIFE

Jackson, Mich., Jan. 18.—(AP)—The body of Carl H. L. Flintermann, president of the Wilcox-Rich corporation, was found hanging from a steam pipe in a room of the Hayes hotel today. Dr. Jason B. Meads, coroner of Jackson county, said Flintermann committed suicide.

Flintermann, who was 54 years old, was chairman of the pressed steel division of the war industries board. His home was in Birmingham, Detroit suburb.

He registered at the hotel at 6 p. m. Saturday, asking to be called at 7 a. m. today. The night clerk and porter broke into the room after Flintermann failed to answer the telephone. Towels had been stuffed in the crack under the door to deaden sound.

Relatives were unable to advance any reason for the act. They said Flintermann apparently was in good health and had no financial worries.

NEGRO SLAYER SUSPECT DIES AS MOB FORMS

Shreveport, La., Jan. 18. — (AP) — Leman McDaniel, Negro, who was wounded last night in a police raid that cost the lives of two officers, died at 11:45 o'clock tonight in a charity hospital as 1,500 persons surrounded the hospital and swarmed into the corridors.

Police reserves were despatched to the hospital tonight as the crowd gathered. They formed a guard about the room and corridor leading to where the Negro was confined as the crowd increased.

Policemen Lee Allen Williams and Teddy Williams were killed last night in leading a squad of officers on a reputed gambling house.

The two Williams, who were not related, approached the house with S. A. Jones, another officer, with their faces blackened and wearing old clothes. Members of the trailing squad said McDaniel, acting as a lookout, opened fire, killing the officers. The Negro was wounded in the gun battle.

McDaniel today named Andrew Till, another Negro, as the slayer of the officers, but police maintained McDaniel fired the fatal shots.

Till was removed to an unnamed jail for safekeeping.

B. F. HARRIS' WIDOW DIES IN NEW YORK CITY

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. B. F. Harris, widow of the late B. F. Harris, president of the First National Bank of Champaign and prominent in agricultural circles, died early today of bronchial pneumonia while visiting relatives in New York City.

She is survived by three sons. They are William Melish Harris, New York; B. F. Harris III., Champaign, and Henry H. Harris, chairman of the board of directors and president of General Alloys, Boston.

Mr. Harris was president of the Illinois Bankers' association, and instituted the campaign to bring all Illinois banks under state or federal supervision.

He also started the good roads campaign in Illinois.

John H. Mills, 83, National G. A. R. Staff Chief, Dies

Redfield, Ia., Jan. 18.—(AP)—John H. Mills, 83, national chief of staff of the Grand Army of the Republic, died at his home here today.

"I tried various treatments for RHEUMATISM without much relief. Then Mountain Valley Mineral Water brought much benefit and great improvement"—says a recent letter. Another says "Mountain Valley Mineral Water without a doubt banished Rheumatism for me". And another "The pains of Rheumatism are gone. Five weeks of Mountain Valley Mineral Water brought me relief". Take hope, Rheumatic sufferer—this famous mineral water should do for you what it has done for thousands of others. # SPECULATION IN GRAIN MARKET IS IN DOLDRUMS

Farm Board Acting on Liberal Scale.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Speculative conditions in the grain markets are not such as to create a material expansion in operations, and a more unsatisfactory situation has not existed in a long time. In fact, there has never been a similar one.

The farm board is buying and selling cash wheat and futures on a liberal scale. It sold shorts and bridges all the May wheat they owned last week, and after a bulge of ½, prices reacted and finished at the week's lowest level, with net losses of ⅛@⅜ on old crop deliveries, and ⅛ gain on July. The disposition on the part of interests on both sides is to go slow.

Farm board agencies are disposing of wheat as fast as possible, and say they are making fair progress, and have 75,000,000 bu cash wheat and 200,000,000 bu futures bought, a total of 280,000,000 bu. Chairman Legge of the farm board is doing a great deal of criticising of the exchanges, which fails to restrict business.

Holders Market More Freely.

Farmers and interior holders of cash wheat are marketing it more freely, and the question is, how will the farm board be able to dispose of the 200,000,000 bu which Mr. Legge says the farm board agencies will have by June 1, it being considered all the wheat there is available for market.

Millers have made a new proposition to the Grain Stabilization corporation to secure wheat at around the July basis, agreeing to return an equal quantity when the new crop is available. So far no arrangement is known to have been made, but it is under consideration.

Visible stocks in the United States are increased for several weeks and another enlargement is expected in today's report. Receipts of wheat at primary markets for the week were the largest for the period in five years or more, while marketing since July 1 aggregates 338,526,000 bu, compared with 338,144,000 bu a year ago. Feeding of wheat is said to have been restricted owing to corn being considerably cheaper.

What disturbs wheat traders is what will happen when the farm board has complete control of supplies, and where elevator space will be found for storing the new crop next July.

Lack of Moisture.

A feature that is attracting attention, and will from now on, is the absence of subsoil moisture over the winter wheat belt of the middle west and southwest, as well as in the spring wheat states on both sides of the international line.

Another factor is the belief that Russia will be a free seller of wheat in the near future. It has shipped 2,000,000 bu since Aug. 1, and has more to move. Argentina, Australia and Canada are offering their wheat abroad at the lowest prices in years without attracting large buyers. Canada, however, has the edge on the trade with China and its export sales during the week are estimated at 1,000,000 bu.

With pressure from the southern hemisphere countries and the volume of speculation being the lightest in recent years, there does not appear to be any immediate prospect for a material advance unless a crop scare comes later as a majority of traders see it.

Foreign importers are only buying

Submits Plan to Stabilize World Silver

New York, Jan. 18.—(AP)—A plan for improving world trade conditions by informally stabilizing silver at no fixed ratio to gold was made public today by its author, Francis H. Brownell, chairman of the American Smelting and Refining company.

Believing the fall in the price of silver to record low levels has been due, not to overproduction, but to large sales by governments of silver formerly used as money, Mr. Brownell proposes:

Governmental Understandings.

First, an informal understanding among the United States, England, including India; France, including Indo-China; and as many other governments as possible, that no sale will be made for a stated period, or until further notice, of any silver owned by each government at less than a fixed price—for example, 50 cents an ounce.

Second, an understanding that the governments will purchase the amount of silver they now are authorized to acquire for subsidiary coinage whenever the market price is under the figure agreed on.

Third, an agreement that the governments, particularly India, may sell government owned silver whenever the price is more than 50 cents, for example, above the accepted quotation.

India Must Agree.

"It is necessary for India to agree to the plan," said Mr. Brownell, "as that is the country most likely to sell government owned silver in the near future. Japan and China should also be consulted and tied to the agreement, and probably also Spain, which is perhaps the most potential seller of silver."

The plan proposes, Mr. Brownell asserts, "a commercial union, formed much as in times of panic when leading banks and banking houses unite to protect the security market." It will test, he believes, the theory that eastern trade is materially influenced by the price of silver; it will tend to hold silver steady until the present commercial crisis has passed and until the future ability of gold to do the money work of the world has been studied; and it will "postpone or mitigate" gold withdrawals by the east from Europe.

Fundamentally, in Mr. Brownell's opinion, the plan is "directed toward a restoration in that portion of the world's trade which seems to be most depressed—that of the silver using countries." It does not, he contends, raise the question of bi-metallism, and it avoids all "highly controversial subjects."

The price decline, he adds, "was obviously caused by the enormous sales of government owned silver, which were more than 18 times the total increase in production for 1927, 1928, and 1929 over 1926."

DEPRECIATION LOSSES OF UNITED FOUNDERS IS SHOWN BY REPORT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 18.—The annual report of the United Founders corporation and subsidiaries, the largest investment trust-holding company, shows a total depreciation in value of holdings, taking United States Electric Power corporation stock at book value of $14.31 a share, of $77,829,972 from cost as of Nov. 30, the end of the fiscal period.

The consolidated asset value per share of United Founders common stock, based on market value of the portfolio, but exclusive of United States Electric Power stock, was $8.96 a share, as against $21.41 a share on May 31.

The statement reveals for the first time how much United States Electric Power stock is actually owned by the trust. It holds 4,055,045 of the outstanding class A and common stock, representing 44.5 per cent of all outstanding shares and 50.5 per cent of the voting interest. The statement does not show what part is class A and what part common stock.

Balance of income applicable to United Founders shares of $7,047,132 was reported. Consolidated net earnings for the year on the average number of shares outstanding equaled $9 cents a common share, exclusive of earnings on United States Electric Power stock owned.

The statement shows consolidated assets of $332,636,722, including $58,033,561 of United States Electric Power at book value, as compared with $327,389,769 on May 31, the first time in which a full consolidated statement was issued covering United Founders, American Founders and its subsidiaries [International Securities corporation, Second International Securities corporation, United States and British International company, American and General Securities corporation, and American and Continental corporation, which became a subsidiary during the last six months, and Investment Trust Associates].

The balance sheet shows investments costing $266,182,360, with a market value, again including United States Electric Power at book values, of $188,552,398, as compared with the May 31 statement showing investment costing $279,769,482, with a market value of $286,924,404. The net depreciation during the six months was $84,784,894.

The composition is reflected in a report of $16,673,150 cash against $12,000,000 bank loans, as against $13,275,731 and $10,000,000 bank loans on May 31. Gross income was $18,688,217 and balance applicable to United Founders shares was $7,047,132.

A surplus of $12,076,041 was created through the retirement of stock of American Founders and its subsidiaries purchased below par, and was transferred to investment reserves, against which losses amounting to $11,373,315 were charged.

LIBBY-M'NEILL WILL CONTINUE PRESENT STATUS

Libby, McNeill & Libby will continue to distribute its branded and controlled brand products through present channels and not through Swift & Co., according to the statement of Edward G. McDougall, president.

The statement is at odds with reports that modification of the packers consent decree would result in sweeping changes in distribution policies. Until Mr. McDougall's statement was issued there had been no declaration of policy by any major concern in the canning field as to their attitude. There is as yet nothing to indicate what, if any, changes may be inaugurated by other factors in the industry.

DECLARES 86C OUT OF PACKERS' DOLLAR IS SPENT FOR MATERIALS

The American meat packing industry, with an annual volume of business in excess of $3,390,000,000, pays a little more than 86 cents of every dollar of the plant value of its finished products for materials, principally live stock, according to William Whitfield Woods, president of the Institute of American Meat Packers. The statement is based on an analysis of census figures recently issued by the United States department of commerce covering 1929.

The statement continues:

"The remaining 14 cents cover all charges such as wages, salaries, interest, rent, depreciation, taxes, insurance, advertising, cost of research, and a small manufacturing profit.

"The census figures indicate that on each business day packers paid out for live stock and other materials an average of more than $9,000,000. The figures also show that the annual pay roll for labor approximated $165,000,000.

"Fresh meat produced, according to the census report, represented a little more than half the total product value. Cured meats, which include hams, bacon, and corned beef, represented 22 per cent of the total value. The figures also show that more than two billion pounds of lard were produced with a value of about $250,000,000. Hides, skins, and pelts had a total value of nearly $110,000,000. The wool produced was valued at $19,000,000, and hair at a little more than $1,000,000. Other byproducts were valued about $225,000,000.

"The average weight of beef animals dressed was 955 pounds, and the average amount of beef yielded by each animal was 516 pounds, or 55 per cent. Calves, on the average, weighed 176 pounds on the hoof, and yielded 100 pounds of veal, or 57 per cent. Sheep and lambs averaged 83 pounds on the hoof and yielded 39 pounds of meat, or 47 per cent. Hogs averaged 232 pounds on the hoof and yielded 174 pounds of meat and lard on the average, or 73 per cent."

Gyroscopic Stabilizer Is Ordered for Italian Ship

New York, Jan. 18.—(AP)—The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company has received an order from the Sperry Gyroscope company of New York for the manufacture of a gyroscopic stabilizer and electric control equipment specified by the Italian ministry of marine for an Italian warship, the new 2,000 ton destroyer leader Pigafetta.

DETROIT EDISON 1930 NET INCOME TOTALS $11,116,667

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 18.—The annual report of the Detroit Edison company shows net income after all charges, reserves and taxes amounting to $11,116,667, equal to $8.75 a share earned on 1,270,601 shares of $100 par value outstanding at the end of the year. This compares with $13,146,064, or $11.17 a share earned on 1,177,573 shares in 1929.

Gross earnings were $53,700,926 in 1930, against $56,558,279 in 1929, a decline of 5 per cent, but 2.6 per cent more than the earnings of $52,366,335 in 1928.

Discusses Bank Suspensions as Phenomena of Depression

BY SCRUTATOR.

One of the to-be-expected phenomena of the last year of depression has been a large number of bank suspensions. As reported to the federal reserve board, there were 981 suspensions, involving deposits of 515 million dollars, in the first eleven months of 1930.

Approximately 60 per cent of these banks were in communities of less than 1,000 population and had capital of not more than $25,000 each. Informed banking opinion is that most of these banks had to close their doors because of the fall of agricultural land values or to causes akin to that fall.

With slight variations from the course, land values for fifty years preceding 1920 had been upward and the latter end of the period was regarded generally as merely an intensification of a logical trend for more population to make land more valuable. A wartime scale of produce prices tended to encourage this belief and likewise to encourage more intensive production.

Productive Volume Grows.

Looking backward, it can be seen that while the stimulus to increased market value of land was temporary, the pushing forward of productive volume was more or less permanent the world over.

Without being too technical or too exact, it is probable that the inflated period brought with it too many banks—not too many if conditions had remained favorable, but too many that were unable to weather a period of years of deflation in land. It is a credit to the banking fraternity that so large a majority of them have been able to survive.

Certain developments, particularly in the chain and group banking fields, have had a test during recent months that seems to indicate that form of organization is no guarantee against depressed conditions. Groups in the south have been, if anything, less successful than independents. Much of this doubtless was due to financial adventuring, accompanied by a too close watch on the stock market quotations and too little attention to banking principles.

Just how such banking difficulties could have been avoided it is difficult to see. There are, of course, numerous observers ranging from international financiers and the heads of banking institutions down to plain old amateurs who are convinced that everything could have been kept straight by expanding credit at certain times and contracting it at others.

Requires Supermen.

The only trouble with that program is that it requires supermen to do the figuring. It is something like saying that the way to get rich is to buy low and sell high, which is very true if one could only know when things were low and when they were high and when they were going to change. All proposals involving the quantity theory of money and more interference therewith than we have at present with the gold standard, inelastic as it is, bear the objection that we don't know what the results will be. We do know that they are uncertain.

There are among us a good many who believe that the work men do and the wants they desire to satisfy govern activity more truly than financial setups. In this view the stock market crash was not the cause of the depression; it was just a part of it. Also, it is unlikely that any currency tinkering could make prosperity permanent. Losses due to bank suspensions, in comparison to the total deposits, are small. Even these losses were due to the fact that banks are in the grip of conditions as much as other businesses are, and not to inherent accepted fallacies about the functions of money and credit.

Middle West Utilities Co. Has 84,885 Stockholders

Middle West Utilities company completed 1930 with a total of 84,885 holders of both preferred and common stocks, an increase of about 31 per cent during the year, a tabulation made public by Martin J. Insull, president, shows. Every state in the Union is represented on the roster of stockholders. The list also shows stockholders residing in the British isles, in practically every nation of continental Europe, South America, Africa and the far east.

FALL OF RATE ON COLLATERAL IS IMPRESSIVE

Historic Parallels Are Recalled.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 18.—The fall in the Wall street rate for collateral time loans to less than 2 per cent for some maturities was in some ways the most impressive incident of last week's market.

Even in midsummer of the after-panic year 1921 such loans went at 5 or 6 per cent; slackness of demand from reactionary trade and speculation being counterbalanced by nation-wide "frozen credits."

Last week's low rate was matched in two or three summer weeks of 1908, another after-panic year, and in one week of 1897, but for any continued maintenance of a "time rate" below 2 per cent one must go back to 1895 and 1894, the sequel to the collapse of 1893.

This present decline is a logical enough sequel to the 2 per cent New York Reserve bank rate of Dec. 24, which was the lowest in the reserve system's 16-year history. It followed quickly on the 2 per cent rate of New Year's week at the Bank of France—the lowest established by any great European central bank since the Bank of England kept its rate at exactly the same figure during two and a half years beginning with February, 1894.

Indicates Slack Trade.

On that occasion, as at the present time, the abnormal cheapness of money indicated severe and protracted shrinkage in the world's trade activities. It was emphasized then, as it is now, by a heavy fall in staple prices, greatly reducing necessary use of credit, even if volume of business had been unchanged.

In the long run it undoubtedly had another and very different conse-

means security. In common stock investment quality is also the strongest assurance of growth of income and of gain through appreciation. American Investment Trust Shares have developed a new high standard in common stock investment.

Their quality rests first on the following test:—A study of all corporate business as recorded in U. S. Treasury Department statistics revealed the industries characterized by size, stability, and growth of earning power—the fundamental industries of the United States.

The soundest companies in these industries are found in American Investment Trust Shares. No specialty companies are included.

American Investment Trust Shares is the only fixed trust which draws its earnings from each of the fundamental industries, through the selected companies, in amounts which reflect the national importance of these industries.

This newly determined principle of diversification realizes for the investor the opportunities in full of the present business era.

The results of the application of this principle are seen in American Investment Trust Shares' superior record of return and progress of earning power—"dividend-paying-power."

Associated Gas and Electric Company

January 16, 1931.

To the Holders of 5% Gold Debentures, Series A, due September 1, 1953, of Rochester Central Power Corporation:

Associated Gas and Electric Company hereby offers to holders of the above mentioned debentures the opportunity, for a limited period, subject to the conditions stated below and in the letter of deposit hereinafter mentioned, of exchanging their present holdings of such debentures, on a par for par basis, for Convertible 5% Gold Debentures, due 1950, of Associated Gas and Electric Company, which mature February 1, 1950, with interest payable February 1 and August 1 in each year. Accrued interest will be adjusted (as explained below) in such manner as to make unnecessary any cash payment by the depositors at the time of the exchange.

Manufacturers Trust Company, W. C. Langley & Co. and Bonbright & Company, Incorporated, the bankers who originally offered the debentures of Rochester Central Power Corporation have advised us, as shown by the letter printed below, that they approve of this offer and will recommend to their customers the deposit of their holdings of debentures of Rochester Central Power Corporation for such exchange.

The Convertible 5% Gold Debentures, due 1950, offered in exchange, are direct unconditional obligations of Associated Gas and Electric Company and rank equally with its other debenture issues. The outstanding debentures of this issue are now qualified for investment by life insurance companies in New York State. A circular descriptive of this issue will be furnished on request.

Consolidated net earnings of Associated Gas and Electric Company and its subsidiaries, as shown in the above mentioned circular, after depreciation, for the twelve months ending October 31, 1930 (assuming the acquisition by Associated Gas and Electric Company of all the outstanding preferred stock of Rochester Central Power Corporation under an offer of exchange of even date herewith), were equal to 2.08 times the interest charges on all debt of this Company, whether funded or unfunded (excluding obligations convertible into stock at its option), and interest charges on all debt, whether funded or unfunded, and dividends on preferred stocks of all its subsidiaries. Regardless of the acquisition of any outstanding preferred stock of Rochester Central Power Corporation, the earnings ratio is more than twice such interest and dividend charges and substantially higher than the earnings ratio, on a similar basis, for the debentures of Rochester Central Power Corporation.

The Associated Gas and Electric System is one of the large public utility groups. It includes not only the Rochester Central Power Corporation and subsidiaries, but also other important electric and gas properties in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and properties, mostly electric and gas, in many other states. These properties are much more diversified both territorially and in character of industry served than those of the Rochester Central Power Corporation group.

The indenture under which these debentures will be issued provides that, except as security for purchase money obligations, and temporary loans or indemnity for periods not exceeding one year, the Company will not mortgage or pledge any of its property without ratably securing these debentures.

This offer is subject to the condition that Associated Gas and Electric Company will not be obligated to make any exchange unless at least $10,000,000 principal amount of said 5% Gold Debentures, Series A, of Rochester Central Power Corporation are deposited for exchange under this offer with the Depositary named below before the expiration of the period of this offer or any extension or extensions thereof; but the undersigned may, at its option, by written notice to the Depositary within five days after the expiration of the period of this offer or any extension or extensions thereof, accept for such exchange all debentures deposited under this offer, even though they aggregate less than $10,000,000 principal amount. This offer will expire at the close of business on April 16, 1931 unless extended by the undersigned, at its option, by written notice to the Depositary, for a period or periods not exceeding sixty days thereafter.

If at the close of business on April 16, 1931, or if at any time thereafter prior to the expiration of any extension or extensions of the period of this offer, at least $10,000,000 principal amount of said 5% Gold Debentures, Series A, of Rochester Central Power Corporation shall have been deposited with the Depositary, or if the undersigned shall elect by the written notice above mentioned to accept for exchange all debentures deposited under this offer, the exchange shall forthwith become operative.

Holders desiring to accept this offer must deposit their debentures with The Chase National Bank of the City of New York, 11 Broad Street, New York City, Depositary, and accompany the same by a letter of deposit, which will be furnished by the Depositary or the undersigned upon request, filled out and signed as indicated thereon. Deposit receipts will be issued, which will be non-transferable unless written request is made of the Depositary for a deposit receipt in transferable form. Non-transferable receipts will be exchangeable for transferable receipts.

Interest coupons maturing March 1, 1931 on debentures of Rochester Central Power Corporation should be detached and retained for presentation in the usual course when due. To adjust interest for the five months' period from March 1, 1931 to August 1, 1931 the undersigned will pay or cause to be paid to the depositors or their assigns, upon the delivery to them of the debentures of Associated Gas and Electric Company, five months' interest at the rate of 5% per annum. The debentures of the Associated Gas and Electric Company will bear coupons for interest accruing from and after August 1, 1931.

The Convertible 5% Gold Debentures, due 1950, of Associated Gas and Electric Company will be delivered to the Depositary, in permanent form, within thirty days after the exchange shall have become operative; otherwise, the deposited debentures of Rochester Central Power Corporation will be returned to depositors or their assigns, without cost to them. All charges of the Depositary and all expenses in connection with the preparation and delivery of such debentures of Associated Gas and Electric Company will be paid by the undersigned.

Very truly yours,

ASSOCIATED GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY,

Vice-President and Treasurer.

To the Holders of 6% Cumulative Preferred Stock of Rochester Central Power Corporation:

Associated Gas and Electric Company hereby offers to holders of shares of the above mentioned Preferred Stock the opportunity, for a limited period, subject to the conditions stated below and in the letter of deposit hereinafter mentioned, of exchanging their present holdings of such Preferred Stock for fully paid and non-assessable $6 Dividend Series Preferred Stock, without par value, of Associated Gas and Electric Company, with cumulative dividends payable quarterly, March 1, June 1, September 1, and December 1, in each year, on a share for share basis. Upon delivery pursuant to such exchange, dividends are to be adjusted so as to be continuous and not overlapping.

Manufacturers Trust Company, W. C. Langley & Co. and Bonbright & Company, Incorporated, the bankers who originally offered the Preferred Stock of Rochester Central Power Corporation, have advised us, as shown by the letter printed below, that they approve of this offer and will recommend to their customers the deposit of their holdings of Preferred Stock of Rochester Central Power Corporation for such exchange.

Consolidated net earnings of Associated Gas and Electric Company and its subsidiaries, as shown in the above mentioned circular, after depreciation and after interest charges on all debt, whether funded or unfunded, of this Company and its subsidiaries and dividends on preferred stocks of all its subsidiaries (assuming the exchange of 94,200 shares of Preferred Stock of Rochester Central Power Corporation under this offer), for the twelve months ending October 31, 1930, were equal to more than six times the annual dividends on the Preferred Stocks of this Company of all series. This earnings ratio is very much higher than the earnings ratio, on a similar basis, for the Preferred Stock of Rochester Central Power Corporation.

The Associated Gas and Electric System is one of the large public utility groups. It includes not only the Rochester Central Power Corporation and subsidiaries, but also other important electric and gas properties in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and properties, mostly electric and gas, in many other states. These properties are much more diversified both territorially and in character of industry served than those of the Rochester Central Power Corporation group.

This offer is subject to the condition that Associated Gas and Electric Company will not be obligated to make any exchange unless at least 45,000 shares of such Preferred Stock of Rochester Central Power Corporation are deposited for exchange under this offer with the Depositary named below before the expiration of the period of this offer or any extension or extensions thereof; but the undersigned may, at its option, by written notice to the Depositary within five days after the expiration of the period of this offer or any extension or extensions thereof, accept for such exchange all Preferred Stock deposited under this offer, though less than 45,000 shares. This offer will expire at the close of business on April 16, 1931 unless extended by the undersigned, at its option, by written notice to the Depositary, for a period or periods not exceeding sixty days thereafter.

If at the close of business on April 16, 1931, or if at any time thereafter prior to the expiration of any extension or extensions of the period of this offer, at least 45,000 shares of said Preferred Stock of Rochester Central Power Corporation shall have been deposited with the Depositary, or if the undersigned shall elect by the written notice above mentioned to accept for exchange all Preferred Stock deposited under said offer, the exchange shall forthwith become operative.

Holders desiring to accept this offer must deposit their Preferred Stock with The Chase National Bank of the City of New York, 11 Broad Street, New York City, Depositary, and accompany the same by a letter of deposit, which will be furnished by the Depositary or the undersigned upon request, filled out and signed as indicated thereon. We will provide stock transfer stamps at our expense. Deposit receipts will be issued, which will be non-transferable unless written request is made of the Depositary for a deposit receipt in transferable form. Non-transferable receipts will be exchangeable for transferable receipts.

Certificates for the $6 Dividend Series Preferred Stock of Associated Gas and Electric Company, in permanent form, will be delivered to the Depositary within thirty days after the exchange shall have become operative; otherwise, the deposited stock will be returned to depositors or their assigns, without cost to them (other than stock transfer taxes in case of any transfer of a deposit receipt in transferable form). All charges of the Depositary and all expenses in connection with the preparation and delivery of the $6 Dividend Series Preferred Stock of Associated Gas and Electric Company will be paid by the undersigned.

supplies as needed, and see no necessity of anticipating their requirements because the world's supplies are considered in excess of consumptive requirements. It is suggested that there might be a reduction of 25 per cent in the world's wheat production this season, and a large part of the deficit would be made up by the carry over, and eventually it would place the world's wheat situation on a better basis.

Corn Traders Bearish.

Corn traders finished the week in a bearish mood the same as they did a week ago, only to find the market oversold with a limited pressure from holders, which brought a covering movement and an advance of nearly 5c in May up to the middle of the week, with a reaction of 4c from the high and a close around the inside figure, net losses being 1¼@1¾c. March finished at 67¼@67⅛c, May 69⅛@69⅝c, July 70⅛@70⅜c, and September 70⅝c.

Speculative sales for the week were 109,667,000 bu, compared with 131,138,000 bu the previous week, and 44,656,000 bu last year. The open interest in all futures at the last of 56,711,000 bu compared with 55,223,000 bu the previous week and 34,805,000 bu last year.

With the exception of a group of local traders who have been bullish all season, the general trade leans toward the selling side on hedges, based on the belief that feeds in general are in ample supply for all requirements, and corn, while passing into consumption at a good rate, is sufficiently abundant so that with low prices for all grains, the corn bull has little show for a big advance. ### Oat Marketing Under 1930.

Marketing of oats has been disappointing to those who have tried to depress prices. At the same time they have not helped speculators who have made several attempts to advance and maintain a higher price level. Primary marketings since August aggregate 67,000,000 bu, or 20,000,000 bu short of last year. It has been many years since receipts were so light.

General consumption is said to be liberal and supplies, while not large, are regarded as ample.

March closed at 33½c and July at 33⅝c, a gain of ¼c. Cash premiums weakened despite light offerings.

Rye was neglected and closed ¾@1⅛c lower for the week. March closing at 40¾c, May 41¼c, and July 41⅞c.

LARD HOLDINGS REDUCED

Leading holders of cash lard and futures said to be located in the east and abroad are credited with selling a considerable holding of their cash lard and futures during the week, packers taking the cash product. A little new interest came into the buying side of futures on breaks. The volume of speculative trade as well as prices has declined, with net losses for the week of 12½@22½c.

Stocks of lard in Chicago have made practically no change of importance within the last two weeks, and are less than last year, with the output of product said to be on the increase. Prices for the week follow:

BOND MARKET GIVES INDUSTRY HELPING HAND

Total of New Offerings Reflects Demand.

New York, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Industry received a helping hand from the bond market last week.

The improved demand for coupon bearing obligations which has developed since the middle of December resulted last week in bond offerings of record breaking proportions. The total of $253,000,000, of which $157,000,000 was for loans to public utilities, was the investment banking world's way of saying that better times for bonds are here again.

Total Is Heavy.

The total was the largest since the corresponding week in 1930, when $305,000,000 in new issues were brought out. Investment houses were distinctly pleased with the reception accorded the new issues and the end of the week saw a large portion of the huge volume of bonds moved into private strong boxes.

As was to be expected the competition from that quarter had an adverse effect on listed issues. Institutions like to make large purchases at one price and the slackening in demand for seasoned issues brought a slight reaction in the bond market, but the offerings were much smaller in the last three days and investment issues resumed their forward advance.

The cut in time money rates to the lowest devel of half a century was a constructive development for the bond market and United States governments moved upward at a good pace, several issues surpassing the two year peak price set last fall.

New Financing.

With the start of a new week there was considerable interest in new financing. While estimates of the amount is prospect ranged as high as $350,000,000, it was believed in banking circles that that amount would be spread over several weeks.

Issues so far have been of the type readily marketable and it was believed that offering houses would await more definite signs of trade improvement before marketing issues that are not in that classification.

Gen. Electric Stockholders Show Increase of 56,376

Stockholders of the General Electric company increased by 56,376 between December, 1929, and December, 1930. The total now is 116,750, the largest in the company's history.

FINANCIAL NOTES

An issue of $1,000,000 Chicago south park commissioners 4 per cent bonds will be offered today by a group headed by the Continental Illinois company and including the First Union Trust and Savings bank, Harris Trust and Savings bank, and the Northern Trust company. The bonds are due serially from Jan. 2, 1932, to 1951, inclusive, and are priced to yield from 4 per cent to 4.25 per cent, according to maturity.

Two new courses—"Current Problems in Taxation," and the other, "Private Finance—Funds and Their Uses," will be offered in the evening classes of the school of commerce at Northwestern university the second semester, Dean Ralph E. Heilman announces. Prof. Herbert D. Simpson, author of "Tax Racket and Tax Reform," will give the course in the problems of taxation. It will give particular emphasis on current problems in Illinois. The course in private finance is designed to introduce students, who have little or no systematic or organized background in the subject, to the functions, processes, instruments, and institutions involved in financing modern business, according to Prof. James W. Bell. The subject matter will include the whole field of money, credit, business finance, investments and speculation. The classes will begin Feb. 4.

Business Personals

Samuel Insull, Jr., president of the Midland Utilities company, will address the annual members and friends' dinner of the Chicago Safety council Thursday evening at the Union League club. Executives of 150 commercial and industrial organizations in the Chicago district will attend the dinner, at which the Safety council will elect officers, members of the advisory board, and members of the board of directors.

NOTICE OF SALE.
SALE OF TIMBER AND SAWMILL PROPERTIES IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.
IN THE SUBJECT MATTER OF AN ACTION INTITULED:
No. M786/30
IN THE SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH COLUMBIA IN THE MATTER OF VANCOUVER LUMBER CO., LIMITED.
BETWEEN:
MONTREAL TRUST COMPANY and CALVIN FENTRESS as Trustees for the holders of bonds entitled to the benefit of the indenture mentioned in the endorsement on the writ in this action. Plaintiffs,
AND:
VANCOUVER LUMBER CO., LIMITED, THE ROYAL BANK OF CANADA, MONTREAL TRUST COMPANY, and C. G. [illegible], Defendants.
PURSUANT to authority in me vested by divers orders of the Supreme Court of British Columbia and of the Court of Appeal of the said Province, I HEREBY GIVE NOTICE that the following described properties will be offered for sale by Public Auction at the Court House, Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada, on Tuesday, the 3rd day of March, 1931, at the hour of 11 o'clock in the forenoon at my office in the Courthouse, Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada, the properties in question are to be sold en bloc and are, briefly, described as follows:
(1) Approximately one billion feet of timber consisting of:
[1] Some 33 perpetual timber licenses issued by the Government of the Province of British Columbia and renewable annually.
[ii] Some 9 timber leases issued by the Government of the Province of British Columbia.
[2] Real estate situate on False Creek in the City of Vancouver, consisting of mill site, wharfage, water-frontage and booming grounds.
[3] Real estate situate at Roche Point, Burrard Inlet, adjacent to the said City of Vancouver, consisting of mill site, wharfs and booming grounds.
(4) The said mills complete:
[i] On the False Creek site, complete sawmill with capacity of 250,000 feet B. M., planing mill, dry kilns capacity 100,000 feet, dry kilns capacity 85,000 feet [all capacities per eight hour shift];
[ii] On the Roche Point site, complete sawmill with capacity of 90,000 feet B. M., 12 machine shingle mill capacity 300,000 shingles with dry kilns to capacity.
[5] Certain railway, logging equipment and logging machinery.
[6] Certain power, steam and mill equipment and machinery, buildings, offices and plant.
All quantities and capacities are approximate only and no representations or warranties of any kind are given by myself or any of the parties to this action.
The said properties will be sold en bloc for cash to the highest bidder, subject to a reserve bid fixed by a Judge of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, subject also to the directions of the said Supreme Court and of the Court of Appeal of the said Province, and subject to the conditions of sale settled by me and of record in the Registry of the said Supreme Courts in Vancouver.
Full particulars of all the said properties to be sold will be available at my rooms in Esq., Receiver and Manager of Vancouver Lumber Co., Limited, 2005 Cambie Street, Vancouver, B.
